Ayer's Pills

May always be relied upon as a certain cure for liver troubles, constipation, sick headache, biliousness, dyspepsia, jaundice, and rheumatism. Unlike most cathartics, Ayer's Pills strengthen the stomach, liver, and bowels, and restore to these organs their normal and regular action. Taken in season, they check the progress of colds, fevers, and malaria. Being purely vegetable and sugar-coated, Ayer's Pills are family medicine, while travelers, both by sea and land, find them to be indispensable. We sell more of Ayer's Pills than of all other kinds put together, and they give perfect satisfaction. —Christensen & Haario, Druggists, Baldwin, Wis.

Family Medicine

I know of no better remedy for liver troubles and dyspepsia. —James Quinn, Hartford, Ct. Capt. Chas. Mueller, of the steamship "Felicity," says: "For several years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else in the medicine chest, to regulate my bowels, and those of the ship's crew. These Pills are not severe in their action, but do their work thoroughly. I have used them, and with good effect, for the cure of rheumatism, kidney troubles, and dyspepsia."

Findings at Pompeii.

It has been now almost 140 years since the first stroke of the archaeologist's pickaxe in the ruins of Pompeii, and there have been published thousands of books and pamphlets on the subject, yet, as a French archaeologist once remarked: "However much there is said about Pompeii there remains much to be said."

After many months of discouragingly-sterile explorations in these famous ruins, important new discoveries have been made. Another house has been found, whose architecture is considerably different from any yet unearthed. The parts so far restored are the peristyle or pillars surrounding the house, the main court with chambers on each side, and the bath and kitchen. The main entrance has not yet been found and is supposed to be at some distance on the so-called Street of Mercury. The peristyle has columns partly round and partly octagonal. The mosaic pavement of this mansion is very beautiful. The chambers are ornamented with frescoes, the most of them poor in design, with one exception which represents some of the adventures of Hercules. There are many other respects in which this house differs from the others so far uncovered. There seems to have been no prevailing style of architecture in the city, and one can discern reminiscences of Egypt, Greece and the Orient in the construction and decoration of the houses. Pompeii, a city without industry and without commerce, was chiefly a sort of watering place where the rich merchants of Italy came to live after they had made their fortunes or during the hot months. It had thus a cosmopolitan character and the ruins contain many a trace of the cultivated taste of its travelled inhabitants.

Of far more interest than the newly-discovered house are two bodies, which have been just dug up in another part of the city. They are the first found in the ruins in some time and are as perfect as they were on that fatal day in the year 79 A. D. when the city was swallowed up in the ashes and lava of Mt. Vesuvius. The bodies are those of a man and a woman and were found side by side. Except a certain contraction in the limbs of the man, the bodies present a calm and peaceful appearance, and it is evident that death overtook them instantly and without warning.

The fact that they have been so perfectly preserved since within half a century from the time Christ lived on earth is explained by the enormous envelope of cinders which protected them through the centuries from the air. They are partly petrified, like most of the bodies found at Pompeii. They have been placed in a special museum.

That the dust and ashes which cover Herculaneum and Pompeii are the accumulations of more than one Vesuvian eruption is proved by the number of different layers, aggregating in some places as much as 15 feet. The comparatively few bodies found, and the almost entire absence of objects of great value show that most of the 20,000 inhabitants escaped and returned to bury their dead and recover their treasures. Less than half the city has been excavated.

THE PAIN-KILLER.—We have known the high character of this medicine, and that it is used with great success and satisfaction in our very best families. It is the favorite medicine of our missionaries in heathen lands, where they use it more than all else together for the diseases that abound in those warm climates. It should be kept in every house, and be in readiness for sudden attacks of sickness. 25c per large bottle.

Easy Lessons in Arithmetic.

A, who is a young girl, is seated at one end of a 50-foot verandah with her mother, while B, who is a palpitating young man, is seated at the other end all alone. The mother is taken with headache and retires. The young folks are attracted toward each other at the rate of a foot and a half every 42 seconds. How long will it take them to bump together?

A tin-peddler cheats a farmer's wife out of 11 cents on her paper rags and 17 cents on a calfskin, while she works off two dozen bad eggs on him at 14 cents per dozen, and stuffs a pound and a half of hens' feathers into the sack of geese feathers she sells at 40 cents per pound. How much is the tin peddler ahead? And why doesn't he smile over it?

A preacher on a salary of $800 per year and a steady job buys a croquet set for $2 and invites one of church trustees to play a game with him. How much would the salary of the preacher have amounted to in three years, seven months and thirteen days had he staid on instead of having a "call" within four weeks after beating the trustee?

A dry goods clerk on a salary of $15 a week, and having a cash capital of $1,000 in the bank, begins to court a girl. His intended father-in-law borrows of him at the rate of $32 per week, and he saves $7 per week out of his salary. What will be the state of his finances at the end of the year?—New York Sun.

For the cure of headache, constipation, stomach and liver troubles, and all derangements of the digestive and assimilative organs, Ayer's Pills are invaluable. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take, always reliable, and retain their virtues in any climate.

In memory of Eben, A. beloved son of Wilson and Margaret Spencer, who died Oct. 24, 1891, aged 22 years. "He was not for God took him."—Gen. 5 and 24.

Taken! Our boy is taken From earthly honors here; By a loving hand, To a fairer land, And a nobler grander sphere.

Yes taken! God took him; We fain would keep our son, But he slipped away From his house of clay— "Father, thy will be done."

Taken—for it was not death, But glorious translation, For the fountain wide, On the Saviour's side Had left no condemnation.

Though taken we do not murmur now; We've learned to kiss the rod, And have found it sweet, As the Saviour's feet, To learn of the love of God.

Taken? Ah yes! God took him, To his ever bright home of joy, And our spirits yearn, For we heavenward turn To meet again our boy.

Taken! But soon in glory We all shall meet once more, And together raise Glad songs of praise, In the home on the higher shore.

How is your cold? Use Johnson's Anodyne Liniment or it may last all winter; certain fact!

Is the sister of Mr. W. S. Huntley of Cortland, N. Y., a well known carpenter and builder. Her frank statement below gives only the absolute truth concerning her illness and marvelous recovery by the aid of Hood's Sarsaparilla. She says:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: "Dear Sir: Twelve years ago I began to have hemorrhages and four years ago became so low that the physicians told me

There Was No Hope and I should soon die. I could not be moved from my bed. Under my face were napkins continually reddened with blood from my mouth. I could eat nothing and had no action of the bowels for a week. The doctors said the cause was ulcers in the stomach. At this time my mother said she wanted to make one more trial, and asked if I would take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I told her it would be

A Waste of Money but finding it would comfort her, I began taking it. In a few days the bloating began to subside, I seemed to feel a little stronger, but thought it only fancy. I was so weak I could only take ten drops of Sarsaparilla at first. In two weeks I was able to sit up a few minutes every day. In a month I could walk across the room. One day I asked what they were to have for dinner, and said I wanted something hearty. My mother was so happy she cried. It was the

First Time I had Felt Hungry for Two Years

I kept on with Hood's Sarsaparilla and in six months was as well as ever in my life. It is now four years since I recovered, and I have not had a day's sickness since, nor any hemorrhage. If ever a human being thanked the good Lord on her knees it was I. I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla, and that alone, unquestionably Saved my Life."

Messrs. Sager & Jennings, the well known druggists of Cortland, say that Miss Huntley "is a highly respected lady; her statement of what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for her is worthy the highest confidence." Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills.
