SINGERS

Public speakers, actors, auctioneers, teachers, preachers, and all who are liable to over-tax and irritate the vocal organs, find in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a safe, certain, and speedy relief. It soothes the larynx, allays inflammation, strengthens the voice, and for whooping cough, croup, sore throat, and the sudden colds to which children are exposed, this preparation is without equal.

William H. Quartly, Auctioneer, Minlaton, Australia, writes: "In my profession of an auctioneer, any affection of the voice or throat is a serious matter; but, at each attack, I have been a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This remedy, with ordinary care, has worked such magical effect that I have suffered very little inconvenience."

BENEFITED BY

"Having thoroughly tested the properties of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral as a remedy for bronchitis and throat affections, I am heartily glad to testify to the intrinsic merits of this preparation."—T. J. Macmurray, Author and Lecturer, Ripley, Ohio.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has cleared and strengthened my voice, so that I am able to speak with very much more ease and comfort than before."—(Rev.) C. N. Nichols, Pastor of Baptist Church, N. Tisbury, Mass.

Prince Edward Island Tunnel Test.

It sometimes happens that an engineer by a simple, bold, expedient, revolutionizes certain engineering processes, and not only greatly reduces the cost of construction, but renders possible either a new class of work or develops a new phase of work in well known lines, either of which could not have been successfully carried out by old methods.

Examples of this class will occur to the reader, and we now have to add to the list the record of an engineering feat, which in the boldness of its conception, the simplicity of the devices by which it was executed, the success attained, as well as the bearing of work on associated interests, will compare favorably with any work of like magnitude.

The work contemplated was the construction of a tunnel between Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, the distance being eight miles. The problem presented was that of testing the nature of the earth between the proposed termini of the tunnel; but the Strait of Northumberland being perpetually stormy, and the depth of the water being more than one hundred feet, the problem was not so simple as it might appear.

The method and apparatus by which the feat was accomplished is the invention of Mr. Alfred Palmer, C. E., of the Mills Building, New York. A four inch wrought iron pipe made up of 20 foot lengths rests upon the bottom of the sea, and at the upper end of this pipe, which reaches above the surface of the water, is arranged a platform on which is mounted an engine running at a high rate of speed. The pipe is trussed to make it rigid and it is supported in an upright position by means of four wire ropes set out at right angles to heavy anchors. The engine drives a diamond drill at the rate of 1,000 revolutions per minute. A scow anchored near the pipe carries a 10 horse power boiler and other necessary machinery, the boiler being connected with the drill engine on the upper end of the pipe by means of a flexible tubing. Another flexible tube supplies water to the drill for lubricating purposes. By means of this arrangement the drill is always held in a vertical position, and is not subject to any vertical or lateral movement, although the scow carrying the boiler and pump, may be tossing about in a heavy sea. The current in the channel offers a resistance of 36 pounds to the square foot, but it is so thoroughly braced and stayed that it easily resists this pressure.

The tests made indicate that the formation is highly favorable to tunnel construction. The contract for the tunnel is being carried out under the direction of the Dominion government, represented by Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Finance, Mr. Collingwood Schreiber, Chief Engineer, and Sir Douglas Fox, Consulting Engineer, of London. Mr. Alfred Palmer is reporting engineer for Sir Douglas Fox.

That gum arabic and gum tragacanth in equal parts dissolved in hot water make the best and most convenient mucilage you can keep in the house?

Starth in the Head

Is undoubtedly a disease of the blood, and as such only a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood-purifier, and it has cured many very severe cases of Catarrh. It gives an appetite and builds up the whole system.

Hood's Pills act especially upon the liver rousing it from torpidity to its natural duties, cure constipation and assist digestion.

The Maritime Provinces are finding a big market in Cuba for potatoes. Cuba having quarantined the port of New York the potato exporters of this province expect to get a good grip with the Spanish West Indies this year, and speculators are already buying in this province.

Readable Paragraphs.

"Uncle Jack," said little Nell to her uncle, who is raising a mustache, "doesn't it hurt to have all those splinters on your upper lip?"

"That young Antonio Fitzgushey just dotes on me papa." "Does he?" Well, I'll have to give him an antidote."

Professor.—"What terrible affliction did Homer have?" Pupil.—"He was a poet, sir."

"I don't believe I'll be in the same geography class as Tommy Jones any more," said Bobby, "cause I have been to Europe this year, and I'll know more about it than he does."

Miss Blecker (patting her friend on the shoulder)—"Never say die!" Miss Emerson (of Boston)—"I do not. I always say 'expire.'"

An Irishman seeing a Chinaman reading a Chinese book backward, as is their custom, exclaimed, "Johnny; are ye left handed or only cross-eyed?"

"Are you coming when I call you or is there going to be trouble?" said papa to his four-year-old daughter

"I think dere's going to be trouble, papa," replied the tot, keeping out of his reach.

The newspapers are forever speaking of "the blushing bride." Well when you reflect upon the kind of husband not a few of the brides marry, you cannot wonder that they should blush.

Visitor: "Your son is in a drug store I believe?"

Old Lady: "Studying fizzleology,"

Visitor: "I beg pardon?"

Old Lady: "He runs a soda fountain."

Invalid wife—"John dear, I do hope if you should ever marry again you will find a better wife than I have been."

John.—There, there, my love, don't worry; there will be no trouble about that."

"Fanny and I were the only two at the funeral, mamma, who did not cry."

"Didn't you feel like crying?"

"Oh, yes, but we couldn't; we had no handkerchiefs."

"How is you' health Uncle Eben?"

"Well, I feels pooty too'ly, I does."

But I am no wise skiyart."

"Why?"

"Kase October's mos' gone. An I've allus noticed dat when I libs fro de mont ob October I libs fro de whole yeah."

Hobson—"What is the matter with you Dobson? You look nearly frozen to death."

Dobson.—"I am ve-ry c-cold. Haven't changed my s-s-summer underclothes yet?"

Hobson—"For gracious sake, why not?"

Dobson—"Well, you s-s-see, if I changed n-n-now I am afraid I won't feel the good of it when the w-w-winter comes."

A Scotch dominie, after telling his scholars the story of Ananias and Sapphira, asked them, "Why does not God strike everybody dead that tells a lie?"

After a long silence, one little exclaimed, "because there wudna be nobody left."

Mrs. Gossip—"There, I have told you all, but it is a secret and you mustn't tell anybody."

Mrs. Tawker—"Can't I mention it to Mrs. Gadder next door?"

Mrs. G.—"Gracious, no!"

Mrs. T.—"Why not?"

Mrs. G.—"Because I want to tell her myself."

The Rev. Mr. B——, a well-known clergyman, gives an amusing history of his first marriage fee. He was settled in a country parish, and had his study at his boarding house. One evening a young man and woman called at the house and asked him to marry them.

"I performed the ceremony, and according to the custom, was about to kiss the bride, who was really quite a beauty, when the groom stopped me."

"No you don't mister," he said good-humouredly, "I'll attend to that myself."

"I smiled and yielded the point, and as the couple started out I followed them to the front door. There the groom invited me to the wagon, where he had something for me. He helped the bride in and got in myself beside her, and reached down behind him, lifted out a bag of potatoes and handed it over to me."

"I thanked him and was about turning away. Just then the groom looked proudly at the girl and then at me."

"Aint she a beauty, mister?"

"Very handsome," I admitted.

"Nothing purtier in the country, eh?" he asked.

"Not that I have seen."

"Air you married?" he inquired kindly.

"I am sorry to say I am not."

"Nothin' like this in the house, eh?" and he chuckled the blushing bride under the chin.

"No, I am all alone."

The groom must have detected a note of sadness in my voice, for he looked at me commiseratingly.

"Look here, mister," he said, "I'll tell you what I will do. If you will give me back them taters a half a dollar to boot, I'll let you kiss the bride."

"Of course I could not be so ungallant as to refuse the offer, if, indeed, it would have been safe to have done so, and handing over the potatoes and the only half dollar I had, I saluted the bride."
