looking hard at me to see if I was in earnest.

"Quite that, sir—in jewels and pearls. It lies there ready for anyone. And the queer thing about it is that the real owner is outlawed and cannot hold property, so that it belongs to the first comer."

"To Government, Small," he stammered, "to Government." But he said it in a halting fashion, and I knew in my heart that I had got him.

"You think, then, sir, that I should give the information to the Governor-General?" said I quietly.

"Well, well, you must not do anything rash, or that you might repent. Let me hear all about it, Small. Give me the facts."

How THEY COME UPON US.—During the green apple season, cramps come upon us like a thief in the night, and remain with us until the nearest physician is called in or the pain is driven away by a dose or two of PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER, the celebrated cure for all summer complaints, from simple cramps to the most aggravated forms of cholera morbus or dysentery. No household should be without the PAIN KILLER, unless there is a drug-store next door. Every reputable druggist sells the medicine. Only 25 cents. New large size.

A Miraculous Escape.

It is seldom a locomotive driver on a running train is struck by lightning but such has been the experience of driver Charles Atkinson. On Thursday morning of last week he was driving locomotive No. 153 attached to No. 34 express. Near Newcastle the express met the full force of a thunder and lightning storm, driver Atkinson was at the moment leaning out of the cab window looking ahead with one foot on the floor and the other off. He saw the flash and felt momentarily dazed, but otherwise not hurt. When he recovered he found that the lightning had destroyed his overalls. The back of the jacket was literally torn and burned to shreds; the seat of the pants were torn and burned into great holes, while down the legs, there are burnt holes showing where the lightning had passed. Mr. G. F. Atkinson, his brother, of Fitchet & Atkinson, has the clothing and it was shown to a Transcript representative. That a man should have such an experience and live is certainly marvellous.—Transcript.

The Raw, Cutting Winds

Bring to the surface every latent pain. A change of even a few degrees makes the difference between comfort and pain to many persons. Happily disease now holds less sway. Science is continually bringing forward new remedies which successfully combat disease. Polson's Nerviline—nerve pain cure—has proved the most successful pain relieving remedy known. Its application is wide, for it is equally efficient in all forms of pain whether external or internal. 25 cents a bottle by all druggists.

The Dog Days.

From the 3rd July till the 11th August is the period popularly known as the dog-days. It is according to old superstition that the dog-star rages, and we may expect calamity of every kind. The excessive heat and sickness usually attending this season of the year were supposed by the Romans to be in some way connected with the dog-star which then rose and set with the sun at this period. For no better reason than this the old Romans muzzled their dogs; and following the same superstition, the laws of nearly every land at this day decree that dogs shall be muzzled at this period, though any one with the merest superficial knowledge of the dog knows that that poor animal is no more liable to become mad in summer time than in the winter. The very presence of the muzzle in the heat of summer, according to good authorities, is an irritating cause of madness as it prevents the dog from easily obtaining water and must be distressing and exasperating as it is unnecessary. But all the same we still follow the old Roman folk-tale, which has no better foundation than the fact that the masses of people 2,000 years ago believed that the little dog-star affected the health of dogs when it rose with the sun. Curiously enough, the same period is observed as dog-days at present, although the dog star now moves, and the period when it rises with the sun is getting later and later in the year. At present it is the latter part of August; and in the cycles of time it will fall in midwinter.

THE BALAKLAVA CHARGE.

The Russian Version of the Gallant Six Hundred's Dash.

Reuter's special correspondent now in Russia, met in the course of his investigations a steward, Ivan Ivanovitch, who had been through the Crimean War. He was wounded at Balaklava, and gave me (the correspondent writes) a vivid description of the charge of the Light Brigade:

"We were so sorry for them," he said. "they were such fine fellows, and they had such splendid horses. It was the maddest thing that was ever done. I cannot understand it. They broke through our lines, took our artillery, and then, instead of capturing our guns and making off with them, they went for us. I had been in the charge of the Heavy Brigade in the morning and was slightly wounded. We had all unsaddled, and were very tired. Suddenly we were told, 'The English are coming.' 'Confound them!' we said. My Colonel was very angry, and ordered his men to give no quarter. I was lying at some distance with my wound bandaged when I saw them coming. They came on magnificently. We thought they were drunk from the way they held their lances. Instead of holding them under their arms, they waved them in the air, and, of course, they were easier to guard against like that. The men were mad, sir. They never seemed to think of the tremendous odds against them, or of the frightful carnage that had taken place in their ranks in the course of that long, desperate ride. They dashed in among us, shouting, cheering, and cursing. I never saw anything like it. They seemed perfectly irresistible, and our fellows were quite demoralized. The fatal mistake we made in the morning was to receive the charge of your Heavy Brigade standing, instead of meeting it with a counter shock. We had so many more men than you, that had we continued our charge downhill, instead of calling a halt just at the critical moment, we should have carried everything before us. The charge of your Heavy Brigade was magnificent, but they had to thank our bad management for the victory. We liked your fellows. When our men took prisoners they used to give them our vodka. Awful stuff it was, more like spirits of wine than anything else. Your fellows used to offer us their rum, but we did not care for it; it was too soft and mild. The Russian soldier must have his vodka."

WONDER IN WELLAND!

A Representative Farmer Speaks.

MR. C. C. HAUN.

The following remarkable facts are fully certified to as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as his bond.

As will be seen from his letter, four physicians had attended him, and it was only after he had given up hope of cure that he decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters on the recommendation of a neighbor who had been cured of a similar disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

DEAR SIR,—I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief, but continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery. I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and digestive organs seriously deranged, a large abscess in my back, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery after this was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had as good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, not that I need it but because I wish to keep my system in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than what I have myself passed through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

C. C. HAUN,
Welland P.O.

In this connection the following letter from T. Cumines, Esq., a leading druggist of Welland, Ont., speaks for itself:

GENTLEMEN,—I have been personally acquainted with Mr. C. C. Haun for the last 20 years, and have always found him a very reliable man. You may place the utmost confidence in anything he says with regard to your medicine. He has on many occasions within the last four years told me that it was marvellous the way the Burdock Blood Bitters had cured him, and that he now felt as able to do a day's work as he ever felt in his life. Although quite well he still takes some B. B. occasionally, as he says, to keep him in perfect health.

Yours truly,
THOMAS CUMINES,
Welland, Ont.

The steadily increasing sale of B. B. the length of time it has been before the people, and the fact that it cures to stay cured, attest the sterling merit of this monarch of medicines, the people's favorite blood purifier, tonic and regulator.
