The Shortest and Surest Way to True Happiness.

How few there are who understand the true meaning of the word happiness, or, rather, how few that take the road that leads to this much coveted treasure.

To have every desire fulfilled, every comfort within reach, never giving a thought to the pleasure and happiness of their fellow creatures, is, alas, the road followed by many; and, though these persons may seem to enjoy life, they are far from being truly happy, nor can they be, until they cease to live for themselves and try to do good to their fellow creatures.

Man was not made for self alone, and when the Lord commanded him to love his neighbor as himself he wanted to teach him this important truth.

To do good on every possible occasion, to strive to please those around us, to remove the difficulties with which their path of life is strewn, is the surest and shortest way to happiness. And oh! how noble, how touching, is the conduct of a person, who, forgetful of self, labors to be of use to his fellow men, following the example of his Divine Master, who, the Scripture tells us, went about doing good.

And, surely, it cannot be a repulsive task, to endeavor to dispel by little acts of kindness the clouds of affliction that rise to overshadow the sunshine of another life. Love, indeed, must be cold, that cannot curb the slightest inclination, cannot forego one wish, to minister to the happiness of a brother, or show consideration for his feelings. Besides, while strewing with love and kindness the rugged pathway of another, we are sowing the seeds of happiness, for ourselves; seeds that will surely germinate and produce a rich harvest.

And, if it be so praiseworthy to strive to please those we love, to aid and do good to those who are dear to us, how much more admirable it is to sacrifice our own pleasure to seek the welfare and happiness of those who are bound to us by no tie of friendship; ay, to seek the good of an enemy. It is not needful to do great things, it is, perhaps, not in our power to make great sacrifices, neither is it required of us, but a kind word, a little act of love, a little service rendered, these cost little, and they afford us thousands of opportunities of ministering to thousands of others. One little word of encouragement and hope, whispered to a despairing one, will perhaps be the means of winning that person from ruin, and of sending him on his way rejoicing. A good act, cheerfully performed, maybe in return for some evil done us, may be the means of reconciling an enemy, and turning to friendship the hate that clouded the life of that person and destroyed his peace.

Did we but act on the principle of doing to others as we would that they should do unto us, how much good we might do! how much trouble and annoyance prevent. With how many comforts might we not strew the toilsome road of life did we but imagine ourselves in the place of others, and think how we should feel if such or such an evil were done us, something unkind said of us, how much more considerate we should be for the feelings of our brethren, and how we would endeavor to spare them the pain often caused by some unkind action, the fruits of which we did not foresee. A few thoughtless words, hastily spoken, and which we did not intend should be heard, but, once passed our lips, they cannot be recalled, and evil messengers hastily fly to wound the heart that, perhaps, wished but our happiness.

We may not know all the good we have done, both for ourselves and others, by our kindness and affection, till we shall have crossed the rough hedge of life, and reached the heavenly shore in safety. Nor shall we know all we have gained, the true value of the treasure we have been earning till we hear from the lips of the Divine Master these consoling words: "Well done, good and faithful servant, come receive the reward promised to those who faithfully labour in the vineyard—for it has been said, even a cup of cold water given in my name shall not go unrewarded."

THE WORLD OVER.

Messrs. J. E. Wilson & Co., stoves and hardware, Halifax, have assigned.

The Nova Scotia Legislature is summoned to meet March 3rd for the despatch of business.

Nothing else can equal Johnson's Anodyne Liniment for any form of sore throat. Try it once.

The annual meeting of the Nova Scotia sugar refinery shows that the net profits for the year were $34,000. The old directors were re-elected.

Boutillier, Tobin, White and Moles, for burglary at Elmsdale, were Wednesday sentenced at Windsor to five years each in the Dorchester penitentiary.

Wolves are so numerous and bold in the vicinity of Shellmouth, Manitoba, that the Council discussed the advisability of granting a bounty for their destruction, but the unlimited range to north and west promised such an outlay that the members decided not to involve the municipality. Mr. Denmark's scheme to introduce stag hounds was, however, welcomed by all.

Arrangements have now been completed for the purchase of territory in the vicinity of Lake Tiberias, Palestine. Emigration of Jews from Russia and Poland will soon begin. The tract of land to be acquired is fertile, but entirely uncultivated. This will necessitate the forwarding of a pioneer band to prepare wells and construct roads before the families chosen for the plan of colonization undertake the journey.

The following story is told of a newly elected Justice of the Peace less than a thousand miles from Amherst. His first official act was to issue a warrant in a case of assault and battery. The criminal being brought before His Worship he obtained a deal table put it in his best room, put an old arm chair on the top of it and climbed into said chair. After hearing the evidence he proceeded to lecture the criminal. In closing said he "The decision of this honorable court is thirty days in jail or pay a fine of ten dollars, and may the Lord have mercy on your soul."—Amherst Press.

Mr. Anthony Comstock takes a correct view of gambling. It is the seed from which, in his opinion, springs the harvest of 'defalcations, embezzlements, forgeries, thefts, robberies, breaches of trust, suicides and murders,' that never seems to experience a year of failure in the United States. The charge is well founded in its entirety in a country where the Louisiana State Lottery is a power superior to the federal authority. It is true that a law has been passed closing the mails against lottery matter, but the occult influence of the organization seems to rise even superior to so stringent a legislative enactment. Mr. Comstock sees danger to the future of the nation in the degradation which now seems to control it.

A British jury the other day, ignoring the well-known precedent of Solomon's decision between the two women who claimed the same child, tried, according to the provisions of the English statute law, an exactly similar case, which came before the Recorder's Court in Hull. In the ancient case the child was given to the woman who wept, whilst in the Hull litigation the lady who cried aloud in court "My child! my child!" was sent to jail for twelve months. She is described as a praying woman, who wore a veil and the name of Slater, and, although there was no direct proof, the jury found that she had stolen the child from the real mother. The decision rested on the weight of medical testimony—a matter which Solomon, with his greater wisdom and reader jurisdiction, absolutely overlooked.

New-paper correspondents in Texas, California, Illinois and other states of the American Union will have to be chastised by that stern hand which dragged the warlike Chilians. Unpatriotic writers are telling the world that frost is killing cattle in Texas, trees in California, and people in other parts of the west and sunny south, and this morning despatches point out that firemen in Albany had to have ice cut from their clothing so that they could manage to walk, and that the ice was an inch thick. This is all very melancholy enough. Usually the American correspondent locates "the frozen north" between the Canadian boundary line and the Pole. People in Europe not better informed might take "the solid South" to mean a frozen country in face of news such as correspondents are sending. President Harrison should order out the horse marines to annihilate these unpatriotic news-gatherers who have aspersed the climate of the balmy and genial land where ten or fifteen degrees below zero carries death to man and beast. In Canada it is only within a few days that farmers have been getting their frost and snow, a failure of which in winter time is to them almost as disastrous as a failure of crops.—Ex.

Attacked by an Enemy.
DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B. B. B. and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.
