A Georgia Village Devastated.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ga., Jan. 6.—This village was visited by a cyclone last night, which has left death and destruction behind it.

It first struck at J. W. Graham's, killing one of his little children, Sallie Kate Graham, and completely demolishing his dwelling, outhouses and gin. Next it blew down the school building and part of Mrs. Brown's dwelling, and the dwelling of Mrs. Henderson, blowing her son-in-law, Will Travis, 400 yards from the house. He was found dead, and his wife with a 1-day-old baby, was seriously injured. The baby wasn't hurt.

T. F. Garrison's dwelling was next struck and torn to atoms, hurting him and every member of his family though not seriously. Mr. Knox and his wife, who were boarding at his house, are now in a critical condition from injuries caused by falling timbers. The large frame warehouse, full of cotton, was blown to pieces and scattered everywhere. A scantling was blown through the house of J. T. Mitchell, and his family narrowly escaped being killed.

The track of the cyclone is covered with timbers from houses. The dead are: Sallie Kate Graham Will Travis and a little negro and John Evans. The wounded are: Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Henderson and her daughter, Miss Emma; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Graham, and their two daughters and son, slightly injured by falling timbers. Mr. and Mrs. Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Garrison and little baby, Tom Kerlin, Tom Busbin, Eugene Franks and Mrs. Travis were seriously wounded.

She married him on October 11, in Elmira, he coming from Providence, R. I. The marriage was arranged by correspondence. Anderson represented that he owned a ranch in San Miguel, Cal., and, after persuading Mrs. Madison and her father to sell her household goods, pocketed the cash and skipped.

Anderson's history has been traced by Mrs. Madison. Five years ago he married a German girl in San Miguel, and, after borrowing $500 from friends, $100 from his wife's brother and all the money the poor girl had, deserted her. He was next heard of in Germany, where he tried to induce his wife's mother to sell her property and come to America, but she mistrusted him.

Mrs. Madison makes the fifth wife of Anderson who has turned up during the past two weeks. One lives in Boston, another in Cherokee, Iowa; one in Elmira, one in San Miguel, and the last is in Cleveland, prosecuting him. The others manifest a willingness to come to the front.

Anderson seems to have a passion for marrying women and deserting them. The stories he tells are identical in each instance, and there is no doubt whatever as to his identity in each case. He is a Dane, thirty-five years old, and not good looking.

Remarkably Severe Weather in Great Britain.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The snow storm continues in Scotland and in the north of Ireland, and traffic in the snow-covered districts may be said to have completely stopped. In spite of the severity of the storms that have prevailed in Great Britain and Ireland during the past 12 months the present visitation is said to be the most severe which has swept over these shores in the past ten years. Far from a station in Caithness, the most northerly county in Scotland, a train is fast imbedded in the snow, and in spite of the efforts of rescuing parties up to the present it has been found impossible to succor the passengers and railroad crew on board the cars. The mails as a rule are five hours late, causing great inconvenience and loss to the business community.

On some of the railroad lines traffic has been so entirely stopped that the officials have deferred any further efforts to break the blockade until the weather moderates. Telegraph communication is naturally a matter of difficulty, but the experience gained by the post office authorities and railroad people during the past storms have taught them not to depend entirely on the wires strung along the telegraph poles. Low wires have been run to different points, so that the telegraphic stagnation which followed the snow storms of the early part of last year is happily missing to a considerable extent.

Fruits and vegetables, to say nothing of meat and milk, are at a premium in the snow-bound towns, and bread has also risen in price owing to the difficulty which the bakers have, or claim to have, in obtaining their supplies of flour. The greatest sufferers are the out door laborers. The weather bids fair to deprive them of a whole week's work. As for the farmers they are nearly heartbroken. For 12 long months storm seas to have followed storm over these islands until they are reduced to a really pitiable condition.

The railway trains north of Westmorland are blocked by the heavy snow drifts.

DEATH CLAIMS A FAMILY.

The Terrible Affliction Visited on a Brooklyn Doctor. [New York Press.]

Four generations in a Brooklyn home have been suddenly carried off by bilious pneumonia, a disease which has not visited this country since 1812, when 1,703 persons were swept off by its ravages in Saratoga county alone.

The victims were members of the household of Dr. J. Barney Low, at No. 221 Fifty-third street, one of the best known physicians in the city, and a Democratic politician of note.

A wife, a daughter, aged 12, and a son, aged 3, with his wife's mother, Mrs. Margaret Barrow, and his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Burgoyne, aged 92 comprised the physician's family.

Mrs. Burgoyne, whose age was so much against her, was taken ill with grip December 1, and was making good progress toward recovery under the constant care of Mrs. Barrow, when Dr. Low's daughter was prostrated by what appeared to be a combination of grip and bronchitis. Her little brother showed similar symptoms the next day, and Mrs. Barrow, exhausted by incessant care and watching also fell ill. Mrs. Low, the doctor's wife, succumbed next and died a few hours after giving birth to a child.

Mrs. Barrow sank rapidly and died December 24. The shock of her daughter's and granddaughter's death, added to the malady, carried off Mrs. Burgoyne a few hours later. Mrs. Burgoyne and Mrs. Barrow were buried in the same grave at the Holy Cross Cemetery, Flatbush, last Saturday. Since then the twelve-year-old daughter has died.

As soon as Mrs. Low, the doctor's wife, died Drs. Rushmore, Shepard and Parsons, who had been called in consultation, pronounced the disease bilious pneumonia. It is an epidemic and is said to be fatal in four cases out of five. The patient expectorates mucus in ordinary pneumonia, but in bilious pneumonia this symptom is wanting. The disease is terrible in its rapidity and does not give the physician a chance to make a fight. The lungs become clogged with stringy mucus until the patient is asphyxiated by its solidification.

Dr. Low administered a large dose of mercury on his own responsibility to his little son, aged 3, and he believes that in consequence the little fellow is out of danger. The mercury sent his pulse up to 147 degrees, and his temperature to 104, but started the secretions moving again and saved his life.

It is believed that bilious pneumonia is prevalent at this time and that many more cases will be recorded. It is not contagious, strictly speaking, but is epidemic in form.

When the disease ravaged this country in 1812 Saratoga county appointed a committee of its leading physicians to examine into its cause and suggest, if possible, a cure. Although nothing was accomplished in the line laid out, the bereaved Dr. Low thinks it a singular coincidence that his granduncle, Dr. A. C. Barney of Greenfield, was one of the physicians on the committee.

This excellent magazine for "Canadians at Home and Abroad," enters upon its second year with the January number. It is enlarged to 24 quarto pages and cover, equal to 48 pages of the ordinary magazine size. Several changes in the arrangements of the contents, and the addition of new departments, make it the most attractive magazine in the Dominion. Its contributors are among the ablest writers we have. Canadian short stories, history and biography are special features. "The best dollar's worth of literary matter," says the Calgary Daily Herald, "to be had in Canada." Only one dollar a year. London, Jan. 8.—A review of British trade for the part year shows a heavy increase in the imports of food and raw material. The heaviest proportionate decrease in exports affected metals and metallic goods. Textile fabrics and worsted especially suffered from the new American tariff. The re-exportation of imported merchandise also shows a decrease.

The News, commenting on the state of British trade, says: Foreign discredit and adverse tariffs have diminished foreign demand, but the revival in America is likely to help our industries over the time of dullness, if not unprofitable, ahead. The home demand was the backbone of the trade of 1892. Dearer bread and a diminished foreign demand for goods are against the trade for 1892.

A Murderer's Fate. CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 8th.—Jesus BrunsMartinez, the murderer, was executed yesterday in the precinct of Belem prison. Just before undergoing the fatal sentence, he was allowed to take leave of his friends and of the principal prison officials. While in the act of embracing, according to Mexican custom, the chief of the secret police Cabrera, who had been peculiarly active in bringing Martinez to justice, the latter suddenly drew a knife from under his coat, and stabbed Cabrera three times, though not fatally. He was overpowered and shot without further delay.

INTENSE SUFFERING! Mr. William Buchanan, 24 years engineer in the Cunard Steamship Company's service, 8 St. John's Road, Kirkdale, Liverpool, Eng., writes: "I suffered two years of agony from an affection in the head which six physicians pronounced incurable. They were divided in opinion as to whether it was acute neuralgia of the head or rheumatic affection of the brain, but all agreed that I could never recover. In my paroxysms of pain it needed two and sometimes three men to hold me down in bed. When at death's door, ST. JACOBS OIL was applied to my head. It acted like magic. It saved my life. I am well and hearty, and have had no return of the trouble." "ALL RIGHT! ST. JACOBS OIL DID IT."
