Portland, Me.
Last Thursday evening was most pleasantly spent by a large number of our N.
B. friends at the residence of Mr. Charles Rainsborough, 45 Grove street. This party was certainly the event of the season, and, if smiling faces and bright eyes betoken happy hearts, our friends from the provinces certainly enjoyed themselves in the real sense of the word. The grand march commenced at 8.30, the ladies choosing their partners (as it is leap year).
Dancing was kept up until the wee sima' hours, and various other amusements were indulged in. There were about thirty-four guests present. Our young lady friends were all prettily and becomingly dressed, and it is hard to decide who should have the belleship, but we think we can award the palm to Miss Flora Pope, who looked charming in golden brown cashmere with chiffon trimming. Miss Maggie Sutton was very pretty in black lace.
Miss Annie O'Neil wore black cashmere, with white crape vest, and a bouquet of white hyacinths, and looked charming.
Miss Rosie O'Neil, a pretty suit of black, with pink silk vest. Miss Annie J. Gorman looked her ever pleasant self in black lace, with a bouquet of pink carnations.
Miss Aggie Chambers wore a handsome suit of black silk henrietta with cream pearl trimmings. Miss Annie Wren's bright brunette beauty was bewitching, she was dressed in a pretty suit of pink crepe with chiffon trimming. Miss Annie P. Gorman, in black, with white chiffon trimmings, looked, as she always does, very pretty. Miss Annie Dolan wore a suit of heliotrope cashmere. Mrs. Charles Jordan a handsome suit of bottle green silk and cashmere, with a bouquet of carnation pinks. Miss M. Helen looked charming in a gown of heliotrope. Miss Annie Holland, black lace and white pinks. Miss Bessie Holland, black cashmere and velvet. Miss Minnie Holland wore a suit of dark green, and looked very charming. Miss Jennie Degan, black cashmere with jet trimming. Miss Josie Monahan was very pretty in navy blue with silver trimming, her chief attraction was the dancing bright eyes. Miss Nellie Monahan wore a grey skirt with a pretty bodice of salmon colored nun's veiling, and looked very pretty. Miss Aggie Ryan looked charming in a suit of heliotrope with steel trimming. Miss Steele was very pretty in black lace. Miss Katie Rains-borough, black skirt with a handsome and becoming bodice of garnet. Miss Mary Rainsborough looked very pretty in a suit of black. Miss Bessie Vance town was becomingly dressed in black. Miss Norah Hickey was her usual captivating self in a pretty Japanese silk costume. Miss Jennie McDonald wore brown, Miss B. Quinn black. The gentlemen present were, the host—Mr. Charles Rainsborough, Mr.
Clough, Messrs. Ben and Will Holland, Steele, J. O'Brien, Tom Garvin, A. Mc-Lean, Percy Cameron, Tom Landers, Will Hughes, Donald McIntosh, John J. Lyons.
Lunch was served at eleven, and justice was done to the good things provided by all present. The hostess, Mrs. Rains-borough, poured tea, and was assisted by Misses Nellie Monahan and Annie O'Neil.
Misses Mary and Katie Rainsborough and Annie Ryan had charge of the other refreshments. Our reporter was present, and had a real good time, and hopes our N. B. friends may spend many just such happy evenings.

TWIN SISTERS.
Portland, Me., Feb. 27, 1892.

C. C. RICHARDS & Co.
Gentlemen,—In driving over the mountains I took a severe cold which settled in my back and kidneys, causing me many sleepless nights of pain. The first application of MINARD'S LINIMENT so relieved me that I fell into a deep sleep and complete recovery shortly followed.
JOHN S. McLEOD.

Cabinet Reconstruction.
A popular topic is cabinet reconstruction, which really does not concern the public so much as the reconstruction and clearing of the human system against the approach of spring. The premier medicine for this purpose is Burdock Blood Bitters, and both parties recognize it as the best blood purifier and general system regulator known.

A Race With Death.
Recently one morning the nude body of a man was found on the Canunga branch of the San Fernando wagon road, about 12 miles from Los Angeles, just south of Burbank and near Los Angeles river. A number of people soon gathered around the body, and after holding a hurried consultation, the remains were covered with pieces of old carpet and sacks and coroner Weldon was notified. The coroner, and his assistant, Ben Gove, hurried to the spot and began an investigation.
The body was lying in the middle of the road, and for several hundred yards from the spot where the body was found the dirt was ploughed up, showing that the dead man had fallen down a number of times and had pawed around in the most frantic manner. His last struggle took place where he had died, and from the look of the ground it must have been terrible. The poor wretch had ploughed his head into the ground until it was hor-ribly smashed and his arms and hands were badly bruised and scratched, but the strangest part of the thing is, that there were no indications that a second person was present.

There were no other tracks in the vicinity than those made by his bare feet, and if he fought with any one the person must have been on horseback. An examination of his limbs showed that he had passed through several beds of cactus, for his legs and body were literally full of cactus thorns, and the blood must have flowed freely from his numerous wounds until death released him.

No one in the neighborhood could identify him. On the way back to the city the Coroner and his assistant stopped every one they met and had them view the face, but no one had ever seen the dead man before, and unless something is found in his clothing which can be recognized his identity will never be discovered. The man is five and a half feet in height and blonde, with a short chin beard and moustaches. He is either a German or Russian Finn, and seems to be about 40 or 50 years of age. He had the appearance of a laboring man in good health. He was powerfully built and had rather a good face.

Shortly after the Coroner reached the city he received a message that the man's clothing had been found. The officers at Burbank followed the dead man's tracks about four miles from where his body was found, and discovered what at first appeared to be a newly made grave. The dirt was thrown up in the shape of a grave, and it had evidently been made only a few hours before. On opening it they found a suit of clothes which evidently belonged to the dead man, but the message did not state whether or not any papers were found by which the man may be identified.

He had no tools with which to dig a hole, and must have used his fingers, for the nails are terribly torn and show that he dug the hole like a dog and then placed his clothes in it, including his hat and shoes. The ground is hard clay, and it must have taken him several hours to dig the grave. He then covered his clothing and rounded up the earth in the form of a mound. It is supposed that he did this early in the night and then started out on his wild chase through the cactus patches.
He passed through places that would cause a man with thick clothing and heavy boots to shudder and turn back, and it is a wonder that he did not drop with exhaustion and loss of blood and pain long before he did.

For Young or Old.
GENTLEMEN,—One of my little girls (aged 4 years) had been troubled with cousiveness in its worst form since in fancy.
We tried different remedies which gave relief while using, but as soon as discontinued she would be worse than before using. She lost her appetite and was growing weak and delicate. A friend of mine who had used B. E. B. with grand results for the same disease advised me to try it, and also the Burdock Pills, which we did. She did not take the contents of one bottle before it relieved her, and not only relieved her but permanently cured her, for she has not been troubled once since, and she is now eight years old.
HENRY REYNOLDS, Sarepta, Ont.

St. Joseph College Notes.
Feb. 27.—On March 16th, St. Patrick's Academy of St. Joseph's College present the thrilling tragedy, Julius Caesar.
Without doubt they will meet with the same success that attended their efforts in the past. A committee composed of Messrs. Meahan, Ahern, O'Connor and McMannimon, have the preparation in hand, and shall spare neither trouble nor expense in order to satisfy the public. In addition to the drama, there will be a farce, entitled "A New Broom Sweeps Clean." The college band and orchestra will be in attendance and furnish choice selections.
In the cast of characters appear the names of Messrs W. O'Leary and J.
Wheten; the former taking the part of Brutus Julius, and the latter Caius Volutius. Among the other Richibucto participant are Messrs Richard and O'Leary.
In the past, the dramatic work of the students of St. Joseph's has not been surpassed by amateurs, and they expect to excel the performances of other years.
