A PUBLIC BUILDING.

In another column of this issue will be found a report of the proceedings at the meeting called to consider the best means to secure the erection of a new postoffice and custom house in the town, and a copy of the resolutions passed. The meeting was largely attended by the citizens of Richibucto and Kingston and the people of Kent county generally and the feeling seemed to be general that this county has been neglected in the matter of public buildings, and that steps should be taken to bring the matter directly to the attention of the Dominion government. No one who has seen the places in which the business is transacted here, can have any doubt as to the necessity for the erection of a new and suitable building, in which the work connected with the post-office and customs can be done; and the wonder is, that the government has not before this taken some steps toward securing better accommodation for its officials here. Its attention has been again and again called to the matter, and it has been time after time urged to make an appropriation for this purpose. In 1890 and again in 1891 memorials were passed at the council board of this county and forwarded to the authorities at Ottawa calling upon them to do something toward providing a suitable building for the transaction of their official business in this town, and at the last session of the Circuit Court the grand jury of the county passed resolutions setting forth the necessity for such a building and urging the government to give its immediate attention to the matter. The government has, however, not seen fit to accede to these requests, and its public business here is still carried on in buildings which are a discredit to the county. Other counties in which a comparatively small amount of business of this kind is transacted have been provided for, while Kent has been allowed to ask in vain. Restigouche with a population not a great deal larger than the single parish of Richibucto has been provided with a magnificent public building. Another has been located at Bathurst and Northumberland has been given two—one at Chatham and another at Newcastle. Indeed almost every other town of any importance has been attended to, while Richibucto, one of the most important ports in the province, has been wholly ignored in this respect. Heretofore the Dominion government has shown itself to be not unwilling to grant Kent a fair share of the appropriations for other public purposes and its negligence in this respect can be only explained by concluding that the matter has not been properly brought to its attention. Now that our citizens have taken measures to bring the matter directly to its attention we trust it will not be slow in meeting our reasonable demand. It is to be regretted that anyone should have seen fit to raise a dissenting voice at the meeting. The question under discussion was one affecting not only the residents of the shire town of Kent but the people of the county generally and it is a matter of surprise that there should be found one person in the county to raise his voice in opposition to the movement. It is a matter of even greater surprise that the gentleman who thus sought to throw cold water on the proceeding is one who has several times filled the most important position in the gift of the people of this county. In the several election campaigns in which Mr. Johnson took part in this county he always received a majority of the votes cast in the town of Richibucto, and the people here were therefore not a little surprised to hear him on this occasion take such a decidedly hostile stand against the town and its interests. Mr. Johnson should understand that the movement is of more than local interest. The municipal council of the county has twice memorialized the government in the matter and the grand jury a body summoned from all parts of the county at the last sittings of the circuit court here also interested itself in the matter. The gentlemen who sat in these bodies realized that the question was one affecting not only the citizens of the town of Richibucto but the people of the county at large. Mr. Johnson, however, whose vision does not appear to extend beyond the limits of his own parish, objects to the movement simply because he imagines the people of Richibucto will be more directly benefited by the erection of a public building here. Had the citizens of this town taken the same narrow-minded view of affairs when the movement was set on foot to secure a subsidy for the St. Louis Railway it is probable the road would never have been built. The people here, however, allowed no such feeling to govern them and lent every assistance in their power to the project. When the question of the appointment of a customs officer for this port arose a few years ago the office was not then considered a local one. Applications for the position went from all parts of the county and the gentleman who received the appointment was not a resident of this town, but came from the parish of St. Louis, Mr. Johnson's own parish, and happened to be Mr. Johnson's own son. Now when he is called upon to lend his assistance in the effort to procure the erection of a suitable building in which the business of the office may be transacted Mr. Johnson endeavors to prejudice the movement by declaring that the people of the county outside of Richibucto have no interest in the matter. If Mr. Johnson has made up his mind to retire from politics altogether he should at least show a little gratitude to the people of Richibucto for past favors, if as it is rumored he intends to again put his name before the county for a political position he has certainly rendered his cause a poor service by his action in this matter.

WELDON vs. HAWKE.

At the circuit court in Dorchester last week, an action was tried in which Dr. Weldon, of Dalhousie Law School, and M. P. for the County of Albert, sued John T. Hawke, editor of the Moncton Transcript, for a certain alleged libellous article published in the Transcript last September. The article to which exception was taken read as follows:—

Prof. Weldon, of Albert, it is said, has deserted his parliamentary duties for the session. If Dr. Weldon's professional duties interfere with his position as a member of Parliament, surely he ought, in common justice to his constituents and country, resign the latter. Besides, the country is about to witness in Parliament one of the fiercest debates ever conducted in upholding the purity of the public service and the integrity and independence of cabinet ministers. This would afford Prof. Weldon an opportunity of applying his powers as an orator to the permanent interests of his country to upholding those who are fighting for the vindication of righteous principles.

But it is proposed to whitewash Sir Hector Langevin and, as Dr. Weldon has not the courage to either vote for the whitewash proposal or the common honesty to vote in condemnation of it, it is said he has abandoned his duties at Ottawa.

But this is not all. Prof. Weldon had his ballot paper changed at the last election from those employed in the preceding contest to designate him as an Albert county farmer.

But in claiming his mileage in connection with the sessional allowance the other day he put in his bill from Halifax to Ottawa, instead of from Albert county, thus pocketing $27 more. Twenty-seven dollars is not a large sum, it is true, but morally it places Dr. Weldon on the same plane with McGreevy, Senecal, Langevin and Chapleau. They are all boodlers in common, though of varying degree. The chief importance of the case arises from the fact that it is the first case in which a court has been called upon to give a legal definition of the word "boodler." It is interesting to read the various definitions of the word as given by the witnesses who were examined on the question. Witnesses for the plaintiff claimed that the word was synonymous with "thief." The defense argued that the meaning generally attributed to it was the getting of money from a government whether rightfully or wrongfully. The judge charged the jury to construe the word according to its natural and ordinary signification. Five of the jurors found that it had been used in a libellous sense, and assessed plaintiff's damages at fifty dollars.

THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNORSHIP.

The declaration made by the leader of the government in the House of Commons, a day or two before the close of the session of parliament, that the government would, immediately after prorogation, consider the appointment of the lieutenant-governor of this province, has caused increased activity among the aspirants for that important position, as well as to the politicians generally.

The friends of the different candidates have been busy pulling the wires, and endeavoring to "create" public opinion on behalf of their particular favorites.

The Liberal press in this province has, with marked unanimity, urged the claims of Hon. Peter Mitchell, but, while readily recognizing that gentleman's ability and many qualifications for the position, we doubt whether his political course of late has been such as to recommend him to the favorable consideration of the government for one of the most important positions in the gift of the administration.

On the other hand, Mr. Kennedy F. Burns, M. P. for Gloucester, has, in our opinion, claims and qualifications such as would render his appointment acceptable, not only on political and party grounds, but for other reasons, which, although not sufficient in themselves to recommend him for the position, have, it must be admitted, very considerable weight with a large section of the people of this province, irrespective of party affiliations. Mr. Burns has been for nearly twenty years in active public life as a member of the provincial legislature and parliament of Canada, and in both positions has borne himself with ability and success, securing to a very considerable extent the respect and confidence of his fellow members. His claims upon the present administration, as a consistent and intelligent supporter, must be admitted, and if his qualifications in other respects for the position are what his friends say they are, there would appear to be no reason why he should not fill the gubernatorial chair for the next five years.

His appointment would, we believe, be especially satisfactory to his compatriots and co-religionists in New Brunswick, and while we do not for a moment admit that the nationality or religion of a candidate for public position in this Canada of ours should serve as a passport for promotion, it should not at the same time militate against his success if his qualifications in other respects are admitted, and under existing conditions in the Dominion the government must necessarily give reasonable consideration to claims of this character.

The appointment of Mr. Burns would, we believe, be regarded as a compliment by a very large number of our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens, and in the interests of good will and harmony would be generally acceptable, always assuming that we are right as to his political and personal qualifications in other respects for the important and honorable position.

MARJORIA DAW.

The tobacco of Martinico was once the favorite with the smoking world, and when old Father Hennipen descended the Mississippi about 1680 the Indians were much surprised to see a European with such an excellent sample of their native plant. But the smokers of the "Myrtle Navy" would give but a poor account of the once celebrated Martinico. Their favorite brand is as much superior to it as it was to the raw uncurled leaf which the Indians of that day smoked. Baird's Balsam of Horehound. Established over 50 years.
