Bessie H. Bedole, Burlington, Vt., had a disease of the scalp, causing her hair to Bathurst.

May 7, 1892.—"No Bathurst notes this week!" When that exclamation falls on my listening ear I hug myself with the assurance that as the local correspondent for THE REVIEW, I am "missed," their omission for my remissness (oh!) as a reporter seizes me, and I forthwith go in search of the wherewith (oh!) to employ the result of my observations, in black on white, but neither up stairs or down stairs nor in my lady's chamber can I find the object of my search. All is chaos and confusion; even the sacred precincts of my "sanctum" have been invaded, and I turn sorrowfully away muttering "curses not loud but deep" on the destroyer of my peace, the thief of my comfort, housecleaning. The times are dull, and the few lonely dimes in the internal economy of my lean and hungry wallet, seemed to cry out against the extravagance; but deaf to their cries, I extracted one of their number and invested in a good-looking bottle of ink and a pen, and here, behind the friendly shelter of a fence, on the up-turned end of a packing case, I proceed to discuss the recent events.

An Orange Lodge, (or should I put it?) a lodge of Orangemen has been established in town, and has quite a large number of members. Their meetings are held in Johnston's Hall, on Thursdays, I believe.
There has been a good deal of discussion pro. and con. over the establishment of the Lodge; but everyone seems good-natured, and none of the disagreement usually seen in the discussions of Orange vs. green is apparent.

Mr. Albert T. Hinton had a narrow escape from serious injury last Thursday.
While engaged in shoeing a young horse, owned by Mr. Edwin Carter, the animal reared and threw him, kicking him and inflicting an ugly flesh wound on his hand.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller have gone to housekeeping on Patrick street.

Mr. Egan and family, of Halifax, have come to reside in Bathurst. They have taken the house on the corner of King and Patrick streets, owned by Jacob White.

Mr. O. F. Stacy is having his shingle mill lighted by electricity. He intends
