TACHÉ VS. TARTE.

A very interesting discussion between Israel Tarte, M. P., for L'Islet, and Archbishop Taché, of Manitoba, is now commanding the attention of newspaper readers in the province of Quebec. As the subject is one of general interest to Canadians we think it advisable to keep our readers au courant of the facts developed.

On the 6th of March last, Mr. Tarte, in a House of Commons, while supporting his motion condemning the Government for not having disallowed the Manitoba School Act, declared that Hon. Mr. Chapleau, as Secretary of State, with the authority of the then Premier—Sir John McDonald—had before the general election of 1891, met Archbishop Taché at Montreal, and privately but formally engaged the Government to the disallowance of the Act.

Mr. Tarte has, in his many public political addresses since the last session, and particularly at the Liberal Convention lately held in Ottawa, repeated his statement, and apparently emboldened by the failure of contradiction, added some very important incidents to the meeting he at first so meagrely described.

On the 28th of June, however, in an open letter addressed to Mr. Tarte, Archbishop Taché gave a distinct and positive denial, a very flat contradiction, to Mr. Tarte's statement. "Neither Mr. Chapleau nor any other person," says the Archbishop, "ever entered into negotiations with me, in the name of the Federal Government, on the subject of the Manitoba schools. Please mark my declaration; it is explicit. Nobody, directly or indirectly, orally or in writing, by telegraph or telephone, concluded, followed up or began any negotiations with me, in the name of the Government, on the school question. The negotiations of which you speak never took place; consequently it was never agreed that the Government should disallow the Manitoba Act."

Mr. Tarte has, already, in two very lengthy letters to the press, endeavored to answer the Archbishop and to prove that such negotiations did take place. He complains that the Archbishop should have allowed four months to elapse without contradicting him. He then draws attention to the circumstance that the Archbishop tries to shelter himself behind the phrase: "in the name of the government." And next he publishes what he says is a copy of a letter written by the Archbishop to his nephew, Mr. L. H. Taché, on the 20th of August 1892, containing these words: "Sir John Thompson has bound himself officially and publicly; others have done the same, privately but solemnly." Mr. Tarte states that he had the letter written by the Archbishop to Mr. L. H. Taché, in his possession, and that the Archbishop waited until after Mr. L. H. Taché had got the letter back, before he, the Archbishop, ventured on his contradiction. Mr. Tarte declares, however, that he kept a copy of the letter, and asks the Archbishop to explain "the private but solemn promises made by others," of which he writes.

Mr. Tarte further claims that, before the General Election of 1891, the Quebec Hierarchy had prepared a pastoral letter on the Manitoba School Question, to be read in all the churches throughout the province, which would have militated seriously against the Government; but that the negotiations he mentions between Mr. Chapleau and Archbishop Taché supervened, and the pastoral was in consequence suppressed.

The Archbishop's contradiction appears full and explicit; Mr. Tarte resists his case on circumstantial evidence. Can it be that another Prophet hath arisen in Israel?

AN EYE FOR AN EYE.

The Messenger, a Hebrew journal published in the city of New York, refuses to accept the interpretation put by Christians of certain portions of the old Testament, and proceeds to point out several passages which will not bear the construction usually given them. Selecting as an example the text, "an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth," which is often cited to point out the harsh, revengeful features of the Mosaic law, and to illustrate the great change introduced by Christianity, it says: "The law was never designed to teach the duty of vengeance, or that we should inflict the same harm which we have received. Read the text further. It says: 'Brand for brand, wound for wound, boil for boil.' It would be a daring fancy, indeed, if we made the text imply that we were to cause our neighbor to suffer from a boil if he afflicted us similarly.

The meaning is plain. The whole chapter is largely devoted to the subject of money compensation. It is clear that the law laid down this principal for the adjustment of the money penalty. Eye for eye, you have taken his eye, you must give it back as far as it lies within human power, while you return him in money what he has lost in money through the misfortune that you have occasioned. By these means justice is maintained in the commonwealth, while mercy is none the less upheld, as no dishonorable penalties against person and liberty can be inflicted. And every brand, wound, and boil can be duly estimated and a full return made."

MOB LAW.

Lynchings have become so frequent of late in the United States that a protest has gone forth from the more law-abiding citizens, and the press everywhere is vigorously denouncing these resorts to mob law. Eleven men of whom nine were negroes have been made the victims of mob violence within the last few weeks, and it begins to look as if the Mob Court has become an established institution in the neighboring Republic. As long as cases of lynchings were confined to the South, and the victims were negroes, the disgusting details of these exhibitions of human brutality were not given in full to the outside public. Such open and notorious transgressions of the law have been so long allowed to go unpunished, that respect for the regular tribunals has ceased to exist, and lynch law is not now confined to the South. Lynchings have lately taken place in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and other Northern States. The danger of resorting to mob violence was never more vividly illustrated than in the case of the negro Miller, lynched at Bardwell, Kentucky, last Saturday. The poor wretch was strung up to the branch of a tree, riddled with bullets, and his body afterwards taken down and cremated. It was afterwards proved conclusively that Miller was miles away from the place where the crime for which he suffered was committed, and could not possibly have been the perpetrator. The hanging of an innocent man ought to serve as a warning to those who are so ready to resort to mob law.

Acadiaville Notes.

JULY 8th.—Acadiaville notes are so common in your paper, that people may think we are all writers here. We have lawyers and preachers, and some, who will no doubt attempt before very long, to make a living by using the end of their tongues.

Rev. Father Richard, paid a visit to Father Bédoué last Sunday, en route to St. Louis.

The crops have a fair appearance since the recent rain. The hay crop will be a light one.

A sad accident occurred here on the 5th. While Michael Woods, aged about 69 years, was leaving Acadia siding for his home, he was struck by the working train and was killed on the spot. The lower part of his body was badly bruised, and his legs were cut off. The train was running about 20 miles an hour. The first men that got to the place of accident were, Kenneth McLeod, John Maloney, Philip Gallant, Abraham Pineau, Sebastian Legere and others. The sight was not a pleasant one.

A little excitement was caused a few days ago, by the news that a new election was to take place to replace Councillor Barriault. One gentleman ran over a part of the parish, to endeavor to secure the election of a friend, but is now assured that nothing will be done, and Councillor Barriault will keep his seat.

In your issue of two weeks ago containing notes of Acadia which were never framed by any of our smart men, I notice that Novus Homo makes himself at home in saying that a few of our leaders were trying to remove our schools but the trustees were assured by the Inspector that nothing would be done. The new man, or Novus Homo was the cause why nothing was done and is opposing the plan which he made himself a few years ago, when he had charge of this parish. The placing a school house in the woods nearest over a mile from the nearest

NO HOPE OF RECOVERY.

WEAKNESS, NERVOUSNESS, SLEEPLESSNESS. A WONDERFUL CURE.

MR. VAIL, the well-known Checker of the I. C. R. Freight Dept., St. John, N. B., makes the following statement:

"Oct. 12, 1892.—Last spring I was completely run down from the effects of overwork and an attack of the Grip. I was weak and nervous and had no appetite. COULD NOT SLEEP and felt tired and depressed. I tried Doctors and various remedies but got no better, and had to give up work. I became so weak and exhausted that I had GIVEN UP ALL HOPE OF RECOVERY, when I was advised to try

HAWKER'S NERVE AND STOMACH TONIC.

I purchased 6 bottles and in a month's time after taking 4 of them, had gained 21 lbs in weight. My appetite returned, I slept well and grew STRONG and VIGOROUS and am Entirely Cured of Nervousness. I am stronger now than I have been for years and can do my work without fatigue or exhaustion. To anyone suffering from weakness or exhaustion I heartily commend it as a most valuable Restorative Tonic, as it restored me to health and strength after all other remedies had failed."

We endorse the above statement of Mr. Vail's case, as we have had a personal knowledge of it, and hereby do affirm his statement to be true in every particular.

JULY 12.—Mr. Thos. Burns' mill, with the greater part of the cut lumber was burned between six and seven this morning. A strong gale blowing at the time made it impossible to save anything.

Fire on the roof of Lanigan's mill one evening last week but was easily extinguished.

Why you take Cold and Cough.

Generally caused by exposure to cold, wet feet, sitting in a draught, coming from hot and crowded places, in thin dress, or wearing damp clothes, stockings, or any other cause tending to check suddenly the perspiration. The result produces inflammation of the lining membrane of the lungs or throat, and this causes phlegm or matter, which nature tries to throw off by expectoration. In many cases she is unable to do so without assistance, and this is
