THE THIRD PARTY.

Mr. Dalton McCarthy, M. P., at one time a strong supporter of the present government, has turned his back on his old associates, and is attempting the formation of a third party in Dominion politics. The policy of the new party has been laid before the public, and Mr. McCarthy has taken the public platform to resist the attacks made upon it by government writers and government speakers. Whether he will succeed in inducing any considerable number of the electors of Canada to enroll themselves under his political leadership is as yet uncertain, though it is evident from the attention the Conservative press and Ministers are giving him in Cardwell, and other Ontario constituencies that the government is a little afraid of the new movement. Third parties have not been met with any great measure of popular favor either in this country or in the United States. The last move in this direction in Canadian politics was when Hon. Peter Mitchell sought to induce a number of his friends to follow him to the cross-benches. His defeat in Northumberland two years ago removed the first, last, and only member of the party. In the United States they have met with a little more encouragement, though not enough to leave any great impression on American politics. The Prohibition, Greenback, Equal Rights, Independent, and several other parties have sprung up and sunk out of sight again without affecting the standing of either of the two old parties. The populists in the last Presidential election polled a larger vote than was ever before given a third party, though it did not materially affect the result of the election. It remains to be seen whether the McCarthy movement will be any more successful in Canada. His proposals touching the tariff, fair trade, and redistribution, may be as claims, popular with the masses of the people of Canada, but his avowed determination to stamp out the French language and Catholic sectarian schools in Manitoba and the North West, will arouse a bitter opposition to his party in the province of Quebec. The Acadians and French Canadians would sink all their political differences and unite in the preservation of their religion, their language, and their customs.

DR. BRIGGS' CASE.

The excitement in ecclesiastical circles aroused by the action of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in suspending Dr. Briggs from the ministry after the New York Presbytery had acquitted him of the charge of heresy, is gradually subsiding. The ardent supporters of the reverend gentleman have cooled off, and now announce their intention to remain in the church unless they are driven out. If, as they profess to do, they entertain views pronounced heretical by the Assembly it is a little difficult to understand how they can retain their places in the ministry unless they conclude to keep silent and conceal their real sentiments. The General Assembly was careful to point out to erring brethren the particular utterances of Dr. Briggs which it condemned. He was convicted on three distinct counts. In the first place his contention that the Scriptures are not without error was pronounced to be in direct conflict with the established doctrines of the church. Secondly, it declares that the Bible alone is the rule and guide of the faith, and thirdly, that there can be no sanctification of the soul after death. To an ordinary layman it would appear impossible for ministers who entertain pronounced views in conflict with the established doctrines of the church on such important questions to retain their places, more especially when one of their brethren has been suspended as a heretic for a like offence. The younger members of the Assembly, we are told, were almost unanimous in supporting Dr. Briggs, and a religious contemporary comments on the fact that "the secular press and people outside the church sympathize with those who profess to be fighting for freedom of thought, whether they are right or wrong." This would seem to indicate that there is a growing feeling, in the church and out of it, that human reason should have a place in theology. It is to be regretted that the controversy has given rise to so much bitterness, and furnished to infidels, agnostics and scoffers an opportunity to have a fling at the teachings of the Scriptures. It must be remembered, however, that Dr. Briggs though suspended from the ministry is still a christian, and while his views may differ from those of the majority of his fellow-laborers regarding the correctness of the sacred text he still regards it as God's revelation to man. He can have no sympathy with a class of young men of the present day who consider it highly intellectual to rank themselves among the unbelievers and rail against the scriptures as misleading, untrue, opposed to reason, and in conflict with the teachings of modern scientists.

Prisoners Liberated

Many who have been confined to their beds for years by rheumatism, lame back and kidney complaints, have been liberated from their sad prisons by the wonderful regulating and purifying action of Burdock Blood Bitters which drives out the acrid poison from the blood and restores health to the afflicted.

THE STEVENS TRIAL.

MONCTON, June 10.—The cross-examination of Miss Hallett continued this morning when the court opened.
To Mr. Wells—The letter I wrote to Mable in regard to going to Mrs. Stevens was written in July, 1890. [Witness was shown the deposition sworn to by her at Moncton.] I signed it as my sworn testimony. There may have been some conversations that I do not remember. I may not have given the identical words Mrs. Stevens used in the conversation. I think Mrs. Stevens told me the hours that Mabel went to her work and came home. I will swear that Mrs. Stevens told me about the hour she came home the night before she died. I will swear that I remember what part of the house we had the different conversations in. I will swear that the words I told you about Mrs. Stevens saying she came home at five o'clock the night before are the identical words used by Mrs. Stevens. I don't remember Mrs. Stevens telling me about Mable being constipated. The conversation between myself and Mrs. Stevens the first night was in the parlor, and in the presence of my father. I will swear that I saw Mrs. Stevens the first night I was there. I don't remember seeing Miss McDonald at Mrs. Stevens' house the first night. It is not possible that Miss McDonald was in the parlor the first night. I will not swear positively that Miss McDonald did not meet me at Mrs. Stevens' door the first night. I only asked Mrs. Stevens for mother's gold ring. Mrs. Stevens offered me Mabel's furs, which she, Mrs. Stevens, had given her as a Christmas present. I said I did not wish the furs. She sent the furs and Mabel's clothes to my sister Gretta in Amherst. Mrs. Stevens offered me the gold ring that she gave Mabel. I did not take it. Mrs. Stevens never told me she gave her an injection. I swear positively. I swear positively that Mrs. Stevens said she had given Mabel squills, not syrup of squills or figs. I had never heard of syrup of squills or syrup of figs as medicines. I will not swear positively that the nightdress sleeves were folded back. I will not swear that Mabel's arms were not as long as Mrs. Stevens'. I am not prepared to say that Mrs. Stevens found Gretta on the doorstep and took her in and kept her for nine months. Was always well treated when at Mrs. Stevens' house. I kept house for Mr. Burnett. Mabel was well dressed, well fed and well provided for while I was there.

To Mr. Pugsley—My business in Sussex was not so rushing that I should go back the following day, but the funeral was over and I thought there was no need of staying. Mabel was well treated while I was at Mrs. Stevens' house. I had no suspicion when I saw the body that Mabel had been ill-treated. I had not been to Mrs. Stevens for three years before Mabel's death. The first time I saw Miss McDonald was the afternoon of the day of the funeral. I think Lucy Caldwell was there the first day I went. The first conversation with Mrs. Stevens was in regard to Mabel's working hours.

To Mr. Wells—I will not swear that I told Mrs. Stevens that I had to go back to Sussex that night to attend to my work. My father was not present when Mrs. Stevens told me about giving her squills. He was to the funeral.

To Juror Friar—I only made two visits to Mrs. Stevens' house within the last two years. My sister never complained to me in her letters that she was ill-treated by Mrs. Stevens.

Why you take Cold and Cough.

Generally caused by exposure to cold, wet feet, sitting in a draught, coming from hot and crowded places, in thin dress, or wearing damp clothes, stockings, or any other cause tending to check suddenly the perspiration. The result produces inflammation of the lining membrane of the lungs or throat, and this causes phlegm or matter, which nature tries to throw off by expectoration. In many cases she is unable to do so without assistance, and this is Why you use Allen's Lung Balsam.

Miss M. Marvin, called and sworn: I reside in St. John and living with my brother at present. I was to Mrs. Stevens' house the last two weeks in October, 1892. I went there on Monday and stayed till Friday of the next week. I saw Mabel Glennie Hallett Stevens the morning I went there. I would say Mabel was small for her age. I saw her Tuesday following. I saw Mable twice while I was there.
Mr. Powell objected to this evidence being admitted as facts occurring in October, 1892, on three grounds; first, the charge of manslaughter did not involve malice; and because the deceased, as has been shown by testimony of the crown to have been in the ordinary state of health to within a few days preceding her death; second there is nothing which shows in any way that the death of the deceased was connected with any previous acts or with any acts prior to the first of January; and thirdly, the evidence was irrelevant. He cited Regina v. Theal, 21st, New Brunswick, reports Pugsley and Burdige, pages 2449. Mr. Powell at some length quoted the Theal case and went on to read the judgements of the different judges. He however had not concluded at the recess for dinner.

Mr. Powell occupied some time after dinner citing authorities on the point as to whether or not Miss Marvin's evidence was admissible. Counsel on both sides talked to some extent on the subject. His honor decided to give his opinion on Monday. Miss Marvin left the stand for the time being.

P. S. McManus called and said: I was on the coroner's jury in this case. I noticed a mark on the brow of the left eye. When Mable was taken out of the coffin I noticed the sleeves of the night dress extended within two inches from the ends of the fingers. I saw that the legs were swollen before they turned her over. There were at least twenty-five marks on back of the legs. There were only ten marks on the front of the legs. The marks were from one half to three quarters of an inch in length. There were marks on the arms near the shoulder. There was a piece of flesh about an inch wide off the calf of the leg.

Mr. Wells moved that the court adjourn, as he would like to go home on the next train.
Mr. Pugsley moved that an interpreter be appointed, as there were a number of French witnesses to be examined.
A. D. Richard was chosen.
The court adjourned till Monday two o'clock.

Restigouche Notes.

Mr. R. Henderson, proprietor of Bay Shore hotel, River Charles, died on the 30th ult, after a lingering illness, at the age of 60. The deceased was highly respected in the community where he spent his lifetime. His house was well patronized by travellers, and a high class of summer visitors, who were much pleased with the cordiality with which they were received, and the respectability of the house. The hotel, as formerly, will be managed on temperance principles by Mrs. Henderson, who is widely known for her many excellent qualities, which admirably fit her for the position she holds.

The salmon fishing in Restigouche, so far during the present season, has not been equal to former years. Some fishermen have caught very few. It is supposed that the cold weather has kept the fish from coming up the Bay, in as great numbers as in past years.

A house belonging to Mrs. T. Robertson, Maple Green, was burned on last Saturday. Partial insurance.

Main River.

JUNE 6th.—Allow us space for a few notes from our part of the county. Rafting has commenced, and will give employment to a number of men.
Brown's bridge has been sold for repairs. Mr. C. Thompson was the lucky man in securing the contract.
Mr. J. Cail and Mr. D. Betts have arrived home after an absence of two weeks, on a raft which they took from Cail's bridge to Kingston.
Two of our young ladies have become members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Bass River, conducted by Rev. J. H. Cameron.
The farmers are getting along nicely with their work.
We are pleased to see Mrs. John Baldwin out again, after her severe illness.
We are pleased to see Mrs. J. Lowery of

MRS. LIZZIE A. KNOWLTON, LIBERTY, ME.
She is the wife of a well-known Spring Bed manufacturer, W. J. Knowlton, and by him induced to try "Grocers." The remedy that cured him of a bad attack of dyspepsia.
She says: GENTLEMEN:—For several years I have been afflicted with dyspepsia and a complicated stomach and liver trouble. The least food I ate would distress me terribly and fill my stomach with gas. I was greatly troubled with dizziness, my appetite was poor, and I had a very bad cough, was very nervous, could not sleep, and in fact my whole system seemed to be affected; was unable to attend to my household duties. Physicians and medicines gave me no relief or benefit, and I had lost all faith in them, but to gratify the request of my husband I decided to try GRODER'S BOTANIC DYSPEPSIA SYRUP.
Before I had taken one bottle I was greatly improved. I followed its directions and continued its use, and to-day I am in my usual good health, can sleep at night, and enjoy life, thank wholly to Groder's Syrup.
Respectfully,
MRS. LIZZIE A. KNOWLTON, Liberty, Me.

HEART FAILURE, FAINTNESS, ACUTE DYSPEPSIA, with Complete Nervous Prostration, Cured by Using HAWKER'S NERVE & STOMACH TONIC.

A LADY'S EXPERIENCE.
Mr. Wm. Thompson of Musquash, N. B., says: "For 2 years past my wife has suffered with Acute Dyspepsia accompanied with complete nervous prostration and a smothering sensation about the heart which frequently produced an attack of faintness. She became weak and nervous, lost all energy, and had a constant feeling of dread. She suffered with intense pain in the stomach after eating, which was usually followed by the smothering sensation about the heart and fainting spells. She tried a great many remedies and was treated by the doctors for some time, but obtained no relief. She became so discouraged that she gave up all hope of ever getting better, when our gastrologist suggested that she try HAWKER'S NERVE AND STOMACH TONIC AND LIVER PILLS, which had produced remarkable cures in several cases like hers. We did so and she obtained immediate relief from the distress after taking the second dose, and has continued to improve ever since until today she is as well as ever, and can enjoy her food without fear of suffering. I cannot speak too highly of these valuable medicines which have restored my wife to health and strength and saved much suffering and expense."
Rev. Henry M. Spike, Rector of Musquash, N. B., says: "I am personally acquainted with Mrs. Thompson's case, and am greatly pleased that the medicine which I recommended to her produced such remarkable results."
Sold by all druggists and general dealers.
