this morning pursuant to adjournment Samuel Gammon testified that he was | vent here. Barry about placing the seats. He cam and said, wait till the children come and we will see better O'Brien told witness that grade seven was to be changed to the convent. Witness said : "If my children have to go through the convent to read the higher grades, I will not send them. O'Brien said they would have to. Wit ness did not have to send his children Mr. Crocket came to Bathurst and san that no children would be compelled to go ST. JOHN, N. B. to a convent. He did not want his children at a convent because the schools wer in a Catholic convent. He would send them there if a lay teacher was there. He believed the convent schools were under the control of the Catholic church

Dr. Duncan, a Presbyterian and secre ary of school trustees of Bathurst villiage gave a detailed account of the negotiations between the trustees, the chief superior tendent of education and others with respect to the school troubles over a term of years. He said that in January, 1801, the Protestants protested to the trusted against the employment of Sisters of Charity as teachers, as a violation of the law Meetings and conferences were subsequently held, but, as the doctor's evidence shows, without any satisfactory arrangement having been reached up to this date. In 1889 the school assessment was $500, and in 1890 it was $1,300. There were thirty-seven Protestant rate-payers in the district and ninety-one Catholics. The latter paid $322 school tax and the former

To Mr. Skinner -Being a Presbyterian he would not send his children to the convent school. The Protestants did not object to Roman Catholic teachers per se but to the conventual idea. Adjourned.

BATHURST, June 7 .- This morning Samuel Gammon, re-called, testified that he objected to members of religious orders of any church teaching in the public schools, as on general principles he wanted the school free from all ecclesiastical control. He was examined at some length as to the immoral conduct on part of pupils of the grammar school some years ago when Mr. Cowperthwaite was principal.

Rev. Fr. Varrily was on the stand for the balance of the day. His evidence went ly medicine. to show that the objections to the godlesschools on the part of Catholics were immutable and irreconcileable and that they desired to control the education of their own children in religious and secular matters, according the same right to Protestants. He said it was a fundemental idea of the Catholic church that the church was the interpreter of revelation, that is of the Bible, etc. The use of the Bible in the hands of the youth indiscriminately was not a desirable thing, and proper restrictions should be put on it as a text book. He held that children had a right to a continuous religious education, and that the Sunday school alone was not sufficient. Among the objections which the witness recited against the public schools was the exclusion of religion; some of the contents of some of the text books; compelling Catholics to teach on holy days, and the conduct of a few of the Protestant teachers. Father Varrily said that some of the books had a denominational basis, and in this connection he read extracts from Dalgleish's Composition, historical exercises, Robertson's grammar, Micklejohn's arithmetic, etc. The fifth reader contained two Methodist hymns and there were, he said, sectarian hymns in the prescribed song books for our schools. In the sixth reader page 388, was a hymn from Perry's Bible manual, a Protestant work. Another objection he took to some of the school books was their negative character, due to the absence of what he considered essentially necessary. Father Varrily gave two illustrations of the manner in which passages in text books were used by Protestant teachers, grossly insulting to Catholic pupils, one by the late Chief Supt. Crocket at Chatham, and the other by Miss Clarke at the Fredericton Normal school. He condemned the works of Huxley and other writers who taught that matter contained the promise and potency of life and assailed the existence of God, the creator. He gave a categorial denial, so far as he was concerned to all the charges set out in the memorial of the complaints at this enquiry, and testified that to the utmost of his knowledge the Catholics of Bathurst village had in no way whatever attempted to induce Protestant children to attend the Convent schools. He did not believe all Protestants favored the exclusion of religion from the schools. The Church of England was almost on all fours with the Catholics in this matter.

BATHURST, June 8 -This morning Rev. day, the witness pointed out a paragraph on the news stands, and is a very lively in Micklejohn's grammer which said the volume, particularly suited to the season, version of the Bible "We" use is that of and a very engaging company for a railtext-book, and should not appear in a York. work prescribed under a non-secterian school system. Coroner Burnett, of Sussex, was sent for, and this morning he opened an inquest on the remains. The jury is composed of Joseph Hornbrook, foreman; George Elliott, Charles M. Hunt, Timothy Buckley, John Elliott and Arthur Sheck. The evidence of Alexander Elliott and George Middleton was taken. They testified to the finding of the body. As there was no other evidence the coroner decided to postpone the hearing until July 15th in order that other information might be gathered. The general belief is that the be dy is that of an old pedlar, as some years ago people going through the fields near where the body was discovered found some thread, razors, straps, etc. The money found with the body, amounting to about $45, bears dates in the sixties.

Dodd's Pills Again, KINGSTON, May 15.—Mr. L. Yott, of Wolfe Island, oppositie this city, has been cured by Dodd's kidney pills. It is a well known fact that Mr. Yott has been a sufferer for years from backache resulting from disordered kidneys, so much so that if in a standing position he should turn round suddenly the pain would take his breath away. In speaking of his case to Mr. Henry Wade, the druggist of this city, from whom he purchased the pills, he said: I have been a sufferer for years from pains in the back and kidney disease. Have tried liniments, plasters, ointments and other remedies from doctors and druggists, but none of these remedies helped me in the least. Hearing Dodd's kidney pills so much talked of, gave them a trial, and as a result two boxes cured me. This cure is probably not as marvelous as many that has recently been made by Dodd's kidney pills, but it is creating considerable talk and comment among his friends and acquaintances here.
