THE TARIFF.

The Dominion Government has evidently been forced to the conclusion that the country desires a reduction of tariff duties, and is shaping its course accordingly. Hon. Mr. Foster has been appointed to feel the pulse of the people on this question, and as a beginning he has sought the advice of the wholesale importers of Montreal and other large cities. That these gentlemen are competent to give good advice and should be consulted in this matter is admitted, but there is a general demand that the Finance Minister proceed further with his inquiries, and learn the opinion of the consuming classes as well. The Toronto Empire, the leading government organ, advises him to consult all classes, and particularly points out to him the necessity of interviewing representative farmers and laboring men. That there is a very general desire among these classes for a thorough revision of the tariff, appears to be admitted on all sides. The attitude of Dalton McCarthy in the Commons last session, on this question, and the success that has attended and is attending his movement in favor of tariff reform, have probably opened the eyes of the government to the necessity for a change. The people of Canada were informed that a liberal measure of protection was necessary for a time to build up the infant manufacturing industries of the Dominion, and that when these were once built up and able to take care of themselves, the tariff would be gradually lowered. In the United States the same excuse was given, and the people accepted it. Instead of lowering the tariff, however, the government of that country continued raising it, until the people would stand it no longer. The sweeping victory gained by the Democrats there, last election, was simply a protest by the people against an unjust and unreasonable measure of protection. The tariff of Canada has never been as high as that imposed by the McKinley Bill; yet there is a strong feeling throughout the country that it is about time some of these protected industries were able to take care of themselves, and that our tariff should be modified to a certain extent. This feeling has no doubt, made itself apparent to the government and the Minister of Finance has been sent out on a pilgrimage of inquiry. He would do well to accept the advice tendered him by the leading organ of his own party, "Consult the farming and laboring classes."

That the cholera will visit the United States and Canada this year, is feared by all who have given the matter much attention, and the health authorities of many of our cities and towns are taking active measures to guard against its introduction. The reports of the presence of the disease in many parts of Europe, show that it has not died out and that it only awaits the coming of hot weather to renew its ravages. The history of this epidemic shows that it has never entirely disappeared in one year. On the contrary the second and third years have in every instance proved to be the most disastrous. The World's Fair too, and the crowds that will visit this side of the Atlantic from the cholera-infested countries of Europe, will make it more difficult for the health authorities to carry out a rigid system of quarantine inspection. Whether or not, we are in much danger here, should not prevent us from taking every precaution to guard against the introduction of the disease. Now, that shipping has begun, we may expect vessels from the principal European ports to visit us, and it would be a good idea for our local board of health to take steps to have a thorough inspection of each arrival made before any one is allowed to land.

The English-speaking population of this country has hitherto suffered most from the exodus. Of late, however, the Acadians of the county have been leaving in large numbers for the United States. The majority seek employment in the factories of New England, some of them with the intention of returning and settling in their old homes again. That they are gradually gaining a foothold in the United States is evidenced by the following from the Boston Journal:—"The migratory Frenchman is pushing ahead in Western Massachusetts, and getting possession of the hill farms. When the old settlers, whose children have left for busier scenes, die off, the farm is sold for what it will bring, and a Frenchman is generally the buyer, and the tendency of the Yankee being to leave the old hills."

Correspondents who have been advocating the "Gothenburg System" as a solution of the liquor problem, will be interested in learning that the system has proved a decided success in Norway and Sweden, where it was first introduced. Latest statistics concerning this system of dealing with the liquor traffic show that the city of Christiania, with 160,000 inhabitants, has now only twenty-seven cafe-restaurants, shops, etc., retailing liquor; Stockholm, with 260,000 inhabitants, 143 such places; Gothenburg, with 105,000 has 40. Under our system the County of Kent with a population of less than 25,000, has twenty licensed bars. The city of St. John with about 40,000, has 100 licensed saloons.

Dr. Keeley, the discoverer of the gold cure for drunkenness must have been born under a most propitious conjunction of the planets. He has recently sold the formula of his medicine and all the interests he has in the United States to a New York syndicate for the small sum of $10,000,000.

IN MEMORIAM.—Lines on the death of Eliza McInnis, wife of Daniel McInnis, which occurred at Marysville, York Co. N. B., March 21st 1893, at the age of 49 years. The deceased leaves a husband, five daughters and five sons, and a large number of relatives and friends to mourn their loss:— Our mother dear has left us In this dreary world alone, Until God please to call us To our eternal home.

We only have a little while In this cold world to stay, And then our Lord will send for us And take us straight away.

The Blessed Saviour, He saw fit Our mother first to take, And see if he could turn our hearts And us good Christians make.

And now we'll do the best we can Without our mother dear; And the good Lord will comfort us And fill our hearts with cheer.

How very hard it seemed to us, By her death bed to stand, And see the one that we loved best Called to another land.

Our home seems very lonely now, Without our mother dear, But yet we have our father left And he for us will care.

And now we should prepare ourselves And pray both night and day, To be ready for the Saviour When he calls us far away.

We must try then to be ready, Our Saviour dear to meet, And among the blessed angels Our mother dear we'll greet. By her cousin, Mrs. DAVID BOWSER.

Donahoe's Magazine for May is the brightest and most interesting number yet issued of this valuable and entertaining periodical, and this is saying a great deal when we consider the meteoric fashion in which this monthly has flashed into the front rank of American periodicals. Among its special features this month are:—"Through the World's Fair in an Hour," illustrated by Commissioner E. C. Hovey; "The Sacrifice of the Shop Girl," by Mary B. O'Sullivan; "The Catholic in Politics" by Thomas C. Quinn; "The Sisters in the Civil War," by Charles S. O'Neill; "Thirty Years of Ireland's Battle," by Hon. John F. Finerty; "In American Studios," illustrated, by Henry Austin; "The Knights of Columbus," illustrated, by Thomas W. Cummings; "Suppressing Dangerous Books," by Rev. Charles Warren Carrier; "Bound About Plattsburgh," illustrated, by Bayard Brandford, and a discussion, "Should Married Women Work?" In fiction are contributions by James Realf Jr. and Jessie M. Burgoine, while there are poems by George Russell Jackson, Eugene Davis, Mary Therese West, Katherine E. Conway, Rev. A. B. O'Neill, C. S. C., Godfrey Egremont, Arlo Bates, Rev. Mortimer Edward Twomey, Cora Stuart Wheeler and John S. Browning. Donahoe's Magazine Company, publishers, Boston.

The inquest on the body, of Miss McEachern, victim of the poisoning affair which is the sensation of the day in Charlottetown was held Monday evening. The evidence of the doctors was to the effect that the girl had taken poisonous drugs with the intention of producing miscarriage. The girl admitted this to Dr. Johnson, but refused to give the name of the man responsible for her condition, and who had given her the medicine. The jury returned a verdict "that deceased came to her death by poison, which was administered to her by some other person with felonious intent."

A large number of residents of Ulster belonging to the Presbyterian and Unitarian denominations repudiate the resolution in opposition to Irish Home Rule which was sent to Lord Salisbury in the name of and as representing the opinions of the Protestants of Ulster. These Home RuleP protestants have therefore caused a communication to Prime Minister Gladstone expressing their confidence in him and his policy regarding Ireland. Gladstone has sent a reply to the communication in which he states he is comforted to observe the existence of such an enlightened opinion amid the sea of violence and intolerance at Belfast.

HEART FAILURE, FAINTNESS, ACUTE DYSPEPSIA, Complete Nervous Prostration, Cured by Using HAWKER'S NERVE & STOMACH TONIC. A LADY'S EXPERIENCE. Mr. Wm. Thompson of Musquash, N. B., says: "For 2 years past my wife has suffered with Acute Dyspepsia accompanied with complete nervous prostration and a smothering sensation about the heart which frequently produced an attack of faintness. She became weak and nervous, lost all energy, and had a constant feeling of dread. She suffered with intense pain in the stomach after eating, which was usually followed by the smothering sensation about the heart and fainting spells. She tried a great many remedies and was treated by the doctors for some time, but obtained no relief. She became so discouraged that she gave up all hope of ever getting better, when our pastor suggested that she try HAWKER'S NERVE AND STOMACH TONIC AND LIVER PILLS, which had produced remarkable cures in several cases he knew of. We did so and she obtained immediate relief from the distress after taking the second dose, and has continued to improve ever since until today she is as well as ever, and can enjoy her food without fear of suffering. I cannot speak too highly of these valuable medicines which have restored my wife to health and strength and saved much suffering and expense."

Rev. Henry M. Spike, Rector of Musquash, N. B., says: "I am personally acquainted with Mrs. Thompson's case, and am greatly pleased that the medicine which I recommended to her produced such remarkable results." Sold by all druggists and general dealers. TONIC 50 cts.; PILLS 25 cts. Manufactured by the HAWKER MEDICINE CO., LTD. St. John, N. B.
