THE TRANSCRIPT RENEWS THE ATTACK.

The Moncton Transcript is again interested in alleged Kent election frauds. A short time after the election took place it made a series of charges against the returning officer and his deputies, accusing them of all manner of fraud and misconduct, and intimating that an effort would be made to have their misdoings brought before the attention of the public through the trial of an election petition. Mr. Carlyle very promptly replied to these charges, and the Transcript hastened to explain that it had received its information from a professional gentleman in this county. It will be remembered that one charge made by the Transcript against Mr. Carlyle was that he had instructed his deputies to initial the counterfoil and not the ballot proper. It has evidently been again communicating with its professional friend here, and has received what it believes to be "startling proofs" that grave frauds were perpetrated in the interest of Mr. McInerney in the late election contest. It appears from the Transcript that one William J. Smith was deputy returning officer at polling division No. 21, and that he with malice aforethought and with intent to injure the political prospects of the Transcript's favorite, Mr. LeBlanc, put his initials on the back of the ballot proper and not on the counterfoil. It criticizes Mr. Smith's gross breach of duty as follows:—

The deputy of polling division No. 21 was William J. Smith—his initials are W. J. S. Mr. Smith of course is beyond suspicion but by an unintentional error he marked the ballots with his initials on the ballot proper and not on the counterfoil. This was a poll supposed to be favorable to the two Acadian candidates, and had the result been close, a recount demanded—all the ballots so initialled with their majority against Mr. McInerney would have been rejected. An error such as this displayed at least unpardonable ignorance on the part of the deputy returning officer.

We confess we have always been of the opinion that a deputy returning officer's initials should be put on the back of the ballot and not on the counterfoil, and by referring to the Supreme Court reports we find that our judges hold the same erroneous opinion. They have decided in more than one case, we believe, that uninitialled ballots should be rejected. No doubt, when the opinion of the Transcript and its professional adviser in Kent is brought to their notice they will at once proceed to reverse their judgment. In view of the fact, however, that Mr. Smith had not the advantage of professional advice the Transcript is perhaps a little too severe in accusing him of "unpardonable ignorance."

But this is not all! The Transcript has other charges to prefer. It appears that other irregularities were practiced at this poll. A certain Magloire Babineau has come forward with an official ballot, which the Transcript declares was given him by Mr. McInerney's agent, but which he declares was given him by one Docthee Caisey. Mr. Babineau appears to be an illiterate man and doubtless acted on the advice of the Transcript's professional friend in making an affidavit which would subject him to a heavy penalty. We do not know who the man is, as there is no such name on the official list. We do know, however, that Messrs. John Jardine and John McInerney, of Kingston, were Mr. McInerney's only agents at that poll.

Mr. McInerney and his friends will hear with regret that want of funds will prevent a judicial inquiry into these alleged frauds. From all that has been said on the subject they were led to believe that proceedings would be at once instituted to annul the election, and they have been preparing to meet them. We understand they have secured evidence that would place some of Mr. LeBlanc's Westmorland friends in a very unenviable position. It is a great pity that some of the funds that were so freely distributed by the LeBlanc party on election day had not been saved for this purpose.

THE RACE CRY AGAIN.

A correspondent signing himself "St. Louis de Kent" writing to Evangeline, bewails the fact that the Acadians have lost the County of Kent, and declares that the Acadian Conservatives are very much to blame in the matter. The writer, whose style is too well known to leave any doubt as to his identity, gives an interesting batch of rumors concerning politics in the County of Kent and the province generally. It is possible, he declares, that Hon. P. A. Landry will resign his seat on the bench and join Mr. Blair in wresting this province from the Conservatives. If this rumor has no more foundation than others which the writer puts forward, it must not be taken too seriously. A letter from Dundas, Kent County, appears in the same issue, and although it is not intended as an answer to the first writer, it serves that purpose well. It points out the hypocrisy of the race cry now being raised by some of Mr. LeBlanc's friends, and declares that if it had not been for them there would have been no break in the Acadian ranks. They pretend to be savage because an Acadian was not returned in the late election. Yet they were among Mr. McInerney's most ardent supporters when he ran against Dr. Legere three years ago. Their friends in Westmorland were not satisfied until they had defeated Mr. Melanson and thus lost another seat to the Acadians. Evangeline's Dundas correspondent has very little sympathy for them and their crocodile tears.

The Bathurst Courier asks the local government to explain why the vacant inspectorship was not filled by the appointment of a Frenchman. Evangeline has not yet been heard from on the subject.

The Sun is the name of a new journal published in Toronto. It will advocate a political union of Canada and the United States.

Bass River Items.

The Arctic wave which struck this part of the country has passed away, and the air is fine and warm again. There is no sign of the "beautiful" as yet, and the roads are still bare.

Christmas has come and gone again, and the young men have returned to the woods, and everything is as quiet as ever.

In order to rectify an omission which occurred in last week's correspondence, I wish to say that Miss Bessie Howell's name was left out of the programme in the Bass River Literary Concert. She took part in the recitation entitled, "Poor old Maids," by 7 little girls, Bertha Dunlay, Mina Campbell, Bessie Howell, Effie Horton, May Ward, Gertie Keswick, May Dunlay. The omission was unintentional on the writer's part, as the names were not given to him correctly, and he is very sorry the mistake occurred.

Wishing you a Happy New Year, I will close.

I. W. M. Bass River, Dec. 30th, 1892.

To the Editor of The Review:

As the sayings of great men should be treasured, I send you for publication the report of a speech delivered here by a prominent parish politician a few years ago, when an aspirant for the municipal council of this county.

D. D. D.

Your Honor Gentlem and Ladies: The honorable gentlet that addressed themselves previously has told you a great many things about the council of municipalities, and one of the honorable gentlemen—Mr. Walker—says 'this is his meeting.' If that is so, then I have no business to digest this honorable congregation. (A voice, "Take Radway's Pills.") No, I'll come some other night when I will be prepared to digest you better. As this meeting was all unnecessary of me I did not hear anything of it till previous coming here.

The previous reverend speaker, Mr. Carlisle, that went before me was talking a good deal about the English and Irish and French and Scotch. (Applause.) I don't think such things ought to be talked about. There are too many communications of politics mixed up in this election now. The reverend Mr. Carlisle asks you all to vote for him. What has Mr. Carlisle created that you should have to vote for him? (Applause.) I say, What has he created? He has created a few mowing machines and rakes! Now, what else has he created? (Hear! Hear!)

Some people says, what do I know of the municipie policies of the province? I say, look at this head and tell me there is nothing in it. I tell you I have come to the years of mortality, over forty years. Yes—I am a British object forty-seven years, and know as much about municipie principalities as the reverend gentlemen as has previously digested you before.

The other previous gentlem that digested himself before you was talking about the union of the national policies a great deal. I want to ask Mr. Roach what has that to do with the composition of a councillor of this province? Mr. Roach told a honorable gentlem that I would not get ten votes. I was in Kingston to-day, and two of the most influential men of Kingston told me that they were making votes, and they found me guilty of 700 votes. (Tremendous applause.) People says, what do I want to president the council for? I say, I have as much right to president the council as any of the previous honorable gentlem (Hear! Hear!), and more than that, I will be your presidentialive for the time being. Now, as it is getting late, I will not expidiate you much longer, and I hope that every man on West Branch will find me guilty of a vote. (Yes, yes! Go on, go on!)

I thank you, honorable gentlem, I will retire. (Tremendous applause.)

Moncton. Dec. 22nd.—Business in the city is very quiet on account of the absence of snow. Most of the travelling and shipping has to be done by rail. Messrs. Sumner & Co. cleared three vessels last week, which closes the shipping from this port for the season.

One of Messrs. Healy & Bigelow's advertising companies are giving fine dramatic entertainments in the opera house. Their aim is to advertise the Kickapoo Indian remedies, of which they sell immense quantities. Chief Big Bear and his family from the Kickapoo reserve in Connecticut, are with the company. The chief takes part in the entertainments. The building was so crowded that over three hundred people could not gain admission last Saturday evening.

Prices for country produce remain good the supply being about equal to the demand. No. 1 beef brings from 4 to 5 cts. per lb. Geese 10 cts., and turkeys 12 cts. per lb.

Some of the prophets say that Moncton has seen its best days, and prophesy blue ruin for the city. Others have not lost their faith, and look for better times in the near future. It is true that there are a few empty houses in the city, owing to the fact that many of our citizens have left for the United States seeking better times and bigger wages. A few prophesy that the government will soon own the C. P. R., and that the change will benefit Moncton. Others contend that the C. P. R. will soon own the government, and that this would be a great disadvantage to the city. The majority appear to hold the latter opinion. G.

Sheep Shearings.

Especially when on dry feed sheep need a good supply of water.

To keep sheep healthy they require a frequent change of food.

Care should be taken to clean out the mangers of feed racks regularly.

Never allow sheep to be frightened or run by a dog or in any way be disturbed.

A sheep kept thrifty will shear a heavier and better fleece than one poorly kept.

In commencing to feed grain to sheep, feed a small quantity at first and gradually increase.

The farmer that is too careless to give sheep good care will do better with some other class of stock.

The days are for feeding and the nights are for repose, and with no stock is this more the case than with sheep.

Sheep of different ages and conditions should be sorted into different lots and the weaker ones have a little better feed.

With comfortable surroundings, which implies dry, warm shelter and regular feeding, a small amount of grain may be made to count.

Wide sliding doors are best for the sheep sheds as it lessens the risks of slamming on them or of their injuring themselves by crowding in.
