NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous de-

Learning Another's Age.

There was once a wise king who was awfully curious. He was possessed of a desire to know everything, and was continually asking questions. Indeed, his thirst for knowledge carried him so far that he wanted to know the age of every person he met. But, being a king, he was exceedingly polite, and would resort to strategy to gain his ends.

One day there came to the court a grayhaired professor, who amused the King greatly. He told the monarch a number of things that he never knew before, and the King was delighted. But finally it came to the point when the ruler wanted to know the age of the professor, so he thought of a mathematical problem.

"Ahem !" said the King. "I have an interesting sum for you; it is a trial in mental arithmetic. Think of the number of the month of your birth."

Now, the Professor was 60 years old, and had been born two days before Christman; so he thought of 12, December

"Yes," said the Professor. "Multiply it by 2," continued the

"Yes."

"Add 5."

"Yes," answered the Professor, doing

"Now, multiply that by 50." "Yes."

"Yes."

"Add your age."

"Substract 365."

"Yes." "Add 115."

"Yes."

"And now," said the King, "might ask what the result is ?"

"Twelve hundred and sixty," replied the Professor, wonderingly.

"Thank you," was the King's response "So you were born in December, sixty years ago, eh?"

"Why, how in the world do you know?" cried the Professor.

"Why," retorted the King, "from your answer-1260. The month of your birth was the twelfth and the last two figures give your age."

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed the Professor. "Capital idea. I'll try it on the next person. It's a polite way of finding out people's ages."

How to Preserve the Eyes.

Engravers, designers and workers of fine embroidery are apt to be troubled with congestion of the corner of the eye and inflamed lids. Generally this does not interfere materially with their power of vision, but gives them a most unpleasant expression. An old engraver told a Philadelphia Record writer his experience with his eyes and how he cured them.

"About five years ago one of our engravers went to a leading New York oculist, paid him $15 and received a prescription which cost him five cents to have a dru gist put up. It cured his eyes like magic and he told us about it. We all laughed, for we had grown tired of hearing about remedies, and had no faith. The perscription called for a 'saturated solution of boracic acid,' or what we call 'powdered borax.' For five cents you Are you in debt? No; I ain't in it. I can buy enough at a druggist's to last you for months. Put a heaping tablespoonful in an ordinary tumbler of water and let :t thoroughly dissolve. Then apply to the eyes with the fingers; never use a sponge or cloth. Let it dry on the eyes. Use it first before retiring and after rising, or at
