Flin's Views.

To the Editor of The Review: Allow me to say a few words in explanation of an incident brought to my notice in your last issue.

A few days past I received from the real namesake a rather informal piece of intelligence, a letter, conveying such an irrepressible outburst of threatening demonstrations...

"You are surely a stupid and silly old ass." My more than that, inasmuch as the pretended quotation from my article is as unlike the original as day is from night...

Addison says, "Falsehood and fraud shoot up in every soil, the product of all climes." I deny any premeditated show of gratefulness on my recency in the profession...

But says my contemporaneous namesake, your article "set me dreaming of my juvenile experience." Ah, sorry for that, what painful recollections it must have reproduced...

And such he intimates may be my fate. Ah, perhaps so. For in the field of destiny we reap as we have sown.

characteristic of my friend O'Flin, the latter writes to this effect, "A blacksmith that makes queer shoes is like a teacher who teaches from theory."

My senior O'Flin professes no faith in theory, but in my opinion this deferential regard is feigned. If he is at all genuine, he cannot but admit that theory is that gained by actual experiment combined with the closest and most exact observation...

My friend's motto is, "to ram it, to jam it, to cram it, to bang it, to slap it, to rap it, to punch it, to club it."

Summing up the substance of Thos. O'Flin's antagonistic oration, I style it no better than a frightful conglomeration or unwholesome mastication of few ideas, to reverse the old adage, the minimum of thought in the maximum of words...

The rapid action of the "great pain cure," Polson's Nerviline, in relieving the most intense pain, is a matter of wonder to all who have used it.

Installation and Ordination of Rev. J. M. Wathen, A. M.

The Congregational church was the scene of an event of more than ordinary significance Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The decorations were in charge of the young ladies and lads of the Sunday school and were artistic and beautiful.

searching questions asked upon the conclusion of his paper showed that his practical ideas of church work were in no way inferior to his intellectual attainments.

After a short time spent in deliberation, the Council reported an unanimous vote to ordain and install Mr. Wathen and Revs. Mr. Hillman and C. E. Wathen, were appointed a committee to arrange a program for the exercises of the evening, which was as follows:

- 1. Remarks by Moderator. 2. Reading of Minutes by Scribe. 3. Invocation and Scripture Reading by President Hyde. 4. Anthem, "How Lovely are Thy Dwellings Fair." 5. Sermon by President Hyde. 6. Male Quartet, "Hark the Song of Jubilee." 7. Ordination Prayer by Rev. M. J. Allen. 8. Hymn. 9. Charge to Pastor by Rev. C. E. Wathen. 10. Charge to the People by Rev. J. W. Lees. 11. Anthem, "God is a Spirit." 12. Address of Welcome by Rev. L. B. Danforth. 13. Right Hand of Fellowship by Rev. A. T. Hillman. 14. Male Quartet, "Go Ye Earth Into the Harvest." 15. Benediction by the Pastor.

The sermon by Dr. Hyde from the text "Therefore every scribe which is instructed into the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is a house holder which bringeth forth out of his treasure things new and old," was one of the finest ever heard in town.

The difference between the old conservative school of thought and the newer and more liberal tendencies in orthodox belief were clearly shown; but the unity between Christians of all shades and opinions in that which is really vital and necessary in the religious life was a prominent point in the preacher's discourse.

Each address was appropriate to the occasion and conveyed both to the church and its new pastor cordial good will and Christian fellowship. A specially pleasing feature was the address of Rev. Mr. Danforth, pastor of the Methodist church, during which was sung as the brother ministers clasped hands, the stanza beginning, "Eliet be the tie that binds."

The music was rendered by the choir, assisted by eight male voices under the direction of C. J. Kelsea, and reflected much credit upon the singers.

Mr. Wathen carries with him into his new field of work the sincerest wishes for success on the part of the many who witnessed the impressive service, while the whole community bid a hearty God speed to this young and enthusiastic laborer in the Master's vineyard.
