We are turning over a new leaf. We mean progress in the interests of our customers. A larger stock, a better assortment, later styles, newer novelties, choicer grades, finer qualities, lower prices, greater bargains. Continually striving to still further promote the interests of our patrons, we now offer the opportunity of the season in better values and closer figures than ever before. We believe our Fall and Winter styles will please our customers beyond a shadow of a doubt. J. FLANAGAN.

—Before the Supreme Court Saturday, in re parte Flanagan: In re Flanagan vs Vye—Geo. W. Allen moved for certiorari to bring up an order for the discharge of the defendant made by the clerk of the peace for the county of Northumberland, with a view to quashing the order. The principal ground relied upon was that the defendant, when disclosing the actual state of his affairs, did not produce his books of account, nor a trust deed which, it appeared, he had executed for the benefit of his creditors, and in which he had made a number of preferences. Rule nisi granted.

—We are having a big run in our Jacket Department. We have repeated several lines already. Furs are selling well, we have had to repeat some lines in these as well.
