In a fight between French and Italian workmen, at Aigues-Mortes, on Thursday, that at least 50 men were killed and 100 wounded. The French, numbering 100, carried every kind of weapon from pick axes and bludgeons to fire arms. There were frightful hand to hand conflicts in the streets.

William A. Lehr of Kendallville, Ind., says Hood's Sarsaparilla is

King of Medicines And His Cure Was

Almost a Miracle

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. 'Gentlemen: When I was 14 years of age I was confined to my bed for several months by an attack of rheumatism, and when I had partially recovered I did not have the use of my legs, so that I had to go on crutches. About a year later, Scrofula, in the form of

White Swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for eleven years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed six years. In that time ten or eleven of these sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. Several times pieces of bone worked out of the sores. Physicians did not help me and

I Became Discouraged

"I went to Chicago to visit a sister, as it was thought a change of air and scene might do me good. But I was confined to my bed most of the time. I was so impressed with the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in cases similar to mine that I decided to try it. A box of the medicine was sent, and to my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better. This strengthened my faith in the medicine, and in a short time I was

Up and Out of Doors

To make a long story short, I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for a year, when I had become so fully released from the chains of disease that I took a position with the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since that time have not lost a single day on account of sickness. I always feel well, and in good spirits, and have a good appetite. I endorse for it has been a great blessing to me, and to my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous. I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of all medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, No. 9 North Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

What the Arizona Kicker's Correspondent has to say.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.—Our World's fair correspondent writes as follows this week:—

I wouldn't have missed it for the best dozen longhorns ever pastured in Arizona. The fun begins 10 miles away and keeps growing on you till you reach the grand roundup inside the fence. Don't forget to take your bottle inside with you. Biggest lot of human critters ever corralled in one spot, and all chewing the cud of contentment and spending money like water. It's a good deal like wandering through an Arizona canyon—full of surprises. I backed right up ag'in a mummy, 7,000 years old the very first thing and hadn't gone 20 feet further when I collided with the governor of California. You can rub ag'in a duke with one elbow and a heathen with the other. You can cast your eyes to the right, and there you behold a relic of the days of Adam and Eve. You cast 'em to the left, and there stands the purest critter of an American gal you ever laid your eyes on. It's a gigantic combination of past and present, and anything you want you lasso, except ice cream and ginger ale.

I stopped before a case containing a mummy who died in the year 320 B. C. It was a woman. I was thinking of how quick she could have got spliced in Arizona had she lived on till the present day, when a fellow came along and says: "It's too turned bad, ain't it?" "You bet!" "But this is a cold and sinful world?" "She is, for a fact. I ain't feeling cold just at the present time, but I realize that I'm as sinful as the rest of the herd." "Seen any of the relashuns about?" he innocently asks as he cocks his eye. "Not in particular—not to be dead sure of it." "Mebbe they hain't got around to h'r yet, but they'll be certain to come. No use making 'em feel too bad, eh?" "No."

Then he wrote on a piece of paper, "Everything warranted fresh," and stuck it on the case and went away. I thought it was a joke till three or four Egyptians came along and stopped to gaze at the mummy. They begin to feel bad when they caught sight of the sign, and one of 'em explained it, and they were the tickledest lot of fellows you ever sot your eyes on. They seemed to argue that there was a big chance somewhere for the old gal yet, but I don't think she'd have any market value in our territory.

In the Turkish department the other day I saw prayer rugs worth $600 apiece. Would make pretty fair saddle blankets for winter use, but it wouldn't be a paying spec to put 'em ag'in the regular article at $2 apiece. I was trying to figure $600 worth of prayer meeting out of one of 'em when I ran ag'in a galoot from Montana. He sniffed around till he got my scent and then said: "Too rich fur my sort o' prayin, but I'm lookin fur sumthin that might be wuth the money. Kin you talk Turk?" "Not unless it's properly branded. What do you want?" "If I kin strike the Turkish bath that don't come too high, I'll take it home to show to the boys, though I reckon the blame critters will begin shootin' at it the first thing."

Nobody should try to "do" the Turkish department under half an hour. If he's in a hurry for a drink, he should go out and get it and come back and take up the trail where he left off. These Turks have the knack of twisting carpet rugs into a rug in a way a Yankee can never hope to catch on to, and the older and dirtier the rug the higher her cash value. I saw one rug made up of blue and red flannel shirts 500 years ago. The dogs and children had been playing an it ever since and the price was $1,500. Five hundred years hence that rug will be a regular gold mine. In going through the art department I found a painting called "The Dying Cowboy." While I was sizing her up along comes a fatherly old man and says: "It's dreadful, ain't it?" "Yes."

"No mother to close his eyes." "No." "But he thought of her in his last moments?" "Not a doubt of it, uncle." "And the poor woman will never have the consolation of looking upon his grave. How sad these things are! Have you any objection to my leaning on your shoulder while I shed a tear?" "I held him up while he shed, and he thanked me kindly and changed his grazing ground. After he had gone I missed my watch and chain, but a critter had got the watch several days before. I shall put in at least 15 minutes more in the art department before I am through, making about 50 in all. They have been to so much pains and expense to gather all this stuff together that all visitors ought to feel it a duty to spare at least 15 minutes to the department."

Trout Brook correspondent arrived too late for insertion this week. Mr. J. W. Barnett offers for sale the Basterche schooner now lying grounded near McLeod's store, where she can be inspected. The roof was blown off Mr. Yantour's barn at St. Louis Monday night, and the frame of a barn erected by E. Lezer was blown down.

Australian papers per steamer Miowera give an account of a raid made recently by bush tribes of Malaya, Solomon Islands, on the coast tribes, when a number of the latter, principally women and children, were taken prisoners by "Men of the bush." After the battle the victorious natives held high carnival, and a trader found the bones of ten human beings on the spot, though the natives try to conceal the fact. Both head hunting and cannibal feasts are practised to a fearful extent, the trader says, and the smell of roasted flesh is quite common in Malaya. The crew of a small coaster was recently butchered, and their vessel was burned by the natives.

USE SKODA'S DISCOVERY, The Great Blood and Nerve Remedy. A gang of men have been arrested in Biskupiz, Croatia, for mutilating young children. The men have for years made a trade of crippling children and then sending them out to beg or selling them to others for the same purpose. When the police forced their way into the house they found two girls of twelve or fourteen years, with their legs broken. Another girl of about the same age lay bound on a bed with her right arm broken and both eyes gouged out. Two other children, hardly less horribly mutilated, were found on cots in the cellar. Many instruments which had been used in physical deformities were uncovered in the cellar and were seized for evidence.

Summer complaints and all bowel troubles are soon cured by Johnson's Anodyne Linctament. Said a sharp attorney to a rambling witness: "Now you must give explicit and correct answers. You drove a milk wagon, did you not?" "No, sir, I didn't."
