The Heresy Case.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—The trial of Professor Campbell of the Montreal Presbyterian College for heresy was commenced today by the Montreal Presbytery. The first charge was dealt with, it is as follows: A view of the inspiration of the Holy scriptures which impugns and discredits them as the supreme and infallible source of religious truth. Prof. Campbell made a lengthy defence in which he claimed the charge was false to the foundation. The sensation of the trial was the attitude taken by Rev. James Barclay, pastor of the richest and most fashionable Presbyterian church in Canada, St. Pauls. He moved an amendment to the motion declaring the first charge unproven and seeking to establish the innocence of the accused. He came out straight in favor of Professor Campbell's views in all their broadness and regretted that the libel was ever formulated. Late to-night a vote was reached on the first charge which was decided proven 21 to 13.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—The Montreal presbytery tried the second charge of the heresy libel against Prof. Campbell today. It charges him with holding a view of God which sets him forth as one who does not suit either in the way of punishment or discipline and who has nothing to do with the judging or punishing of the wicked, contrary to the word of God and the standards of the Presbyterian church in Canada. There was the usual motion and amendment and subsequent discussion but nothing of unusual interest except that Rev. James Barclay went against Prof. Campbell on the second count. On the vote being taken the second count was sustained by 27 to 2. The Rev. Prof. Campbell then said: "I protest against the decision of the majority of the Presbytery, and appeal to the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa at its next meeting for the following reason: That the presbytery in the consideration of the arguments on which its decision was based failed to weigh the scriptural ones presented by the defence, which the appellant regards as sufficient to exonerate him from the charges entertained in the libel.

Folly Village, N. S.

Mrs. Cummings, wife of the Hon. C. A. Cummings, of Folly Village, N. S., writes to say that she was entirely cured of sour stomach, which had troubled her for over 20 years, by the use of Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic and Hawker's Pills.

A Wife's Terrible Revenge.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 9.—Mrs. Rose Douglass threw a tin dipper full of oil of vitriol in the face of her husband, Hugh Douglass, to-day, and then fled to the police station and gave herself up.

The young couple—they are each only in their 20th year, but have been married three years—have lived unhappily for some time, and the husband had applied for a divorce, alleging cruelty on the part of the wife and claiming the custody of the two small children.

Mrs. Douglass has recently been driven from the house of her mother, and she says she has had to sleep in cellars for the past three nights.

She procured the vitriol a day or two ago, and has been looking for her husband since.

She met him about noon to-day, talking with some friends, and, without a word of warning, threw the acid full in his face.

Douglass was taken into a nearby physician's office, suffering terribly. One eye was entirely burned out and the other will probably be sightless, and his face was seamed and burned in a horrible manner.

His wife said after her arrival at the station that she would do it again under the same circumstances.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

Symptoms.—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Swayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Returning to Europe.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The Press to-day says: America is losing population. The "tide of immigration," of which the orators speak so often, has for the first time in thirty years turned to one of emigration. This phase of the hard times—for due to the hard times it is believed to be—has passed unnoticed save by the agents of transatlantic steamship lines.

"Two emigrants are leaving this country," said Dr. Clavis, representative of the North German Lloyd and other steamship companies, yesterday, "to one that is coming here. It has been going on for some time. The steerage of the North German Lloyd ships has been crowded to its full capacity on the outward trip all summer. The steamer that sailed for Genoa Saturday had to refuse more than 1,000 applications for passage simply for lack of room. Other lines report a similar state of affairs. Those going back to their native land are mostly Italians and Scandinavians. Any one who will take pains to investigate the matter will find that we are just at present losing twice as many foreigners as we are receiving."

"How do you account for it?" Dr. Clavis was asked. "Probably the hard times in this country are responsible for it," he said. "Many people have been thrown out of work through the closing of mills and factories and the stopping of various enterprises. Among this class there are a great many Italians and people from all over Europe. Finding themselves out of employment they perceive that it would be cheaper to return to the old country, where the cost of living is much less than it is here, and await the return of prosperity in this country. This is the first time in thirty years when the tide of emigration has set away from and not toward this country."

A Pilot's Experience.

Pilot Scott, of St. John, tells his experience. He says, I suffered for months from a severe and constant pain in the side. I was treated for congestion of the liver, but the medicine failed to help me, I finally tried Hawker's Liver Pills, which removed the pain and fully restored me to health. Hawker's Liver Pills sold everywhere.

Riding to Save a Life.

A Georgia newspaper gave an account of the heroism of John Potter, a ten year old boy who rode a horse twelve miles to Macon for the purpose of calling a physician to attend his mother, who was believed to be dying with colic. The doctor could not be found, but a kind druggist gave the lad a bottle of medicine and ordered him to hurry home. The brave lad rode home, delivered the medicine, and then fainted from nervous exhaustion. The medicine cured the sick woman, and the boy is well. It is only necessary to say that the precious medicine was PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER, which never fails to cure disorders of the stomach. 25c. old popular price, for New Big Bottle.

What He Saw.

The country store in the sunny south is the rendezvous for all the village inhabitants, large and small black and white, where the news is circulated and jokes perpetrated.

A group of loungers were seated in a store of this kind when a coffee colored coon with sloping shoulders and ears at right angles to his head shuffled through the doorway.

"Hello, Pomp," said one of the loungers.

"You're looking just like that lion I saw this morning."

"Lion!" said Pomp, with his hair on end. "Where was he?"

"In Jake Smith's livery stable."

"Sho! What'd he look like?"

"Oh, he had legs and body and long ears."

"Dat was'n't a lion you poor white trash," returned the darky disgusted.

"Dat was a jackass."

"Well you look just like him," answered a loungeer with a grin.

Pomp saw the joke, though he did not like it to be on him. Just then a neighboring planter entered the store, and the negro saw a chance to repeat the jest at another's expense.

"Morning, Massa Johnson," said he "yo' look just like that lion I saw yes'day."

"Where did you see a lion you fool?" was the courteous response.

"Down Massa Smith's lib'ry stables. Had legs and body and big long ears."

"Dat wasn't a lion," said the planter.

"Den what was it?" asked Pomp eagerly.

"Why a looking glass, you black coon," answered the planter contemptuously amid a general roar of laughter.—Yankee Blade.

How the Colonel Felt.

On one occasion a distinguished Kentuckian Senator or Congressman as the case may be, witnessed the burning of a big warehouse in his native village. He was viewing the conflagration from the piazza of a residence in the vicinity, and a small boy-friend of his would rush down and back at intervals bringing him fresh news of the fire.

"Oh, colonel," exclaimed the excited boy after one trip, "there's 20,000 bushels of wheat burning."

"Let it burn, my boy," responded the colonel grandly as he swept his hand over the landscape, "we can raise some more wheat next year."

The boy ran off and came back breathless.

"Oh, colonel," he exclaimed, "there is a hundred thousand pounds of hemp burning."

"Let it burn, my boy," said the colonel waving his hand as before, "we can raise more hemp next year."

Again the boy departed and returned. "Oh, colonel," he exclaimed, "there is 250 barrels of 10-year-old whiskey burning."

Up jumped the colonel.

"Good Lord," he shouted, can't something be done to save it! We can't raise 250 barrels of 10-year-old whiskey next year," and he went after the boy.—Detroit Free Press.

The Doctor Passed Him.

GRAVENHURST, Sept. 18. About a year ago the newspapers contained accounts of the curious case of Sam Murray, a railroad brakeman, of this place. He was paralyzed, as a consequence of an injury received while coupling cars, and for two years was unable to work. Several doctors, among them, some Toronto specialists pronounced him incurable and his case hopeless. The Grand Trunk Railway Company paid him his total disability claim, and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen was about to pay a similar claim when Murray astonished everybody by a return to health. It was proven at the time, beyond the possibility of a doubt that Murray's recovery was due to Dodd's kidney pills. A few days ago Murray applied to a life insurance company to take out a policy on his life. Two physicians have just examined him, pronounced him a desirable risk, and recommended the company to issue a policy. That's the kind of work Dodd's kidney pills do.

Medicine in Vegetables.

The following information may be useful: Spinach has a direct effect upon the kidneys. The common dandelion, used as greens, is for the same trouble. Asparagus purges the blood. Celery acts admirably upon the nervous system, and is a cure for rheumatism and neuralgia. Tomatoes act upon the liver. Beets and turnips are excellent appetizers. Lettuce and cucumbers are cooling in their effects upon the system. Onions, garlic, leeks, olives and shallots, all of which are similar possess medicinal virtue of a marked character, stimulating the circulatory system, and the consequence increase in the saliva and gastric juice promote digestion. Red onions are an excellent diuretic, and the white ones are recommended to be eaten raw as a remedy for insomnia. A soup made from onions is regarded by the French as an excellent restorative in weakness of the digestive organs.—London Tit-Bits.

Now Well and Strong.

SIRS,—It is my privilege to recommend B. B. B. For two years I was nearly crippled with an inflammatory disorder of the kidneys from which six bottles of B. B. B. entirely freed me. I am now well and strong, and gladly recommend the B. B. B. Bitters which cured me after I had almost given up hope.
