Some Serious Thoughts

Love always weeps when it has to whip.
Love never bestows a burden that is heavy.

We are following God when we fear to do wrong.

Faith in Christ changes the coffin into a chariot.

To believe the devil is to lose the peace of Christ.

In the true fold of Christ there are no black sheep.

One symptom of backsliding is a lack of thankfulness.

Religion pure and undefiled never works by the mouth.

Law wears iron shoes and don't care where it steps.

There are no real strong people in this world but good people.

The truth we hate the most is the truth that hits the hardest.

The more polish you put on a mean man the better the devil is suited.

Growth in grace is never promoted by watching for faults in others.

To love an enemy is the most important service a Christian can render Christ.

The sins that pay their rent promptly are the last ones we want to give up.

The closer the competition, the more God is needed for a business partner.

When unselfish love is asking for a place in your heart, God is knocking at the door.

The only thing a Christian can do for an enemy that a worldling can not is to love him.

Every time a bad man throws mud at a good man he hits himself in the face.

It takes more courage to endure than it does to act.

A lie is often told without saying a word, by putting the rotten apple in the bottom of the basket.

You can generally tell what a man thinks of God by the way he talks about his neighbors.

If you let the devil go to dinner with you, you will have to take him for a regular boarder.

The man who has on the whole armor of God never expresses any doubts as to the reality of the devil.

When you go to bed at night and think of the thousands around you who will go to sleep on the brink of the bottomless pit, are you satisfied that you have done during that day what you could to wake them up?—General Booth.

A High Purpose.

"To go through life with a high purpose brings out the best of youth and manhood. Money, fame, and position, influence may come. But the noble impulse to turn them all to others' good comes with them, and every year marks the practical difference between one whose only thought in life is of being successful and one who is all the time thinking of being useful in that station of life to which God has called him. The one as a matter of habit, looks over everybody with whom he comes in contact, wondering how far he can use him for his own purposes. The other is trying as he can to see how he can use himself for others and for manhood. The record that the first-named class makes is that of self seekers. The record that the others make is that of a noble manhood."

Duty.

No one can choose his duties. He may accept or reject those presented; there is no third course. He may shut his eyes and try to persuade himself that something more pleasant, and not those painful, difficult things, are what is required of him. But it will be of no use. They will remain duties just the same. If they come to him in the order of God's will, his only hope of peace and true prosperity lies in manfully performing them. He will not escape by fleeing the pain or the trouble from which he shrinks. This is inevitable to every one who lives. But he may very easily escape the consolation, the high support, the glorious thrill of joy which come only to him who stands manfully in the place allotted him and holds till death the post to which he was assigned.

Our Knowledge of God.

There is perhaps no truer statement in the whole Bible than "The fool hath said in his heart: There is no God." The man who denies the existence of God presupposes his own omniscience, for, unless he knows all things, that which he does not know may be God. However searching and far-reaching his investigation may have been, there must be a point beyond which it has not gone, and perhaps it is there he would find God. Ignorance may be ground for doubt but not for denial. If we were asked why we believe in God, we should answer; Because we find it far easier to believe in a God than to believe in no God; it makes a far less demand upon our credulity. In no other way can we so easily account for our own existence and that of the wonderful world about us, upon which our ideas of God mostly depend: here is effect—there must be a cause; here is creation—there must be a creator. It is this cause, this designer, this creator—this "Power not of ourselves, which makes for righteousness," "this infinite and eternal energy from which all things proceed," this source through which "we live and move and have our being," this all pervading, all embracing spirit, which reveals itself in the world of nature, in history, in the personal experiences of our daily lives, and in our inmost consciousness—whom we call God. We may not be able to "find out the Almighty unto perfection," nor to define Him in words; but we believe that we may be conscious of His existence, and form some idea of His attributes, through His works and the operation of His laws.

DO THOU LIKEWISE.

A LADY SAVES FIFTY DOLLARS BY WISELY INVESTING SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.

A wise, careful and thrifty wife and mother living about five miles from a large and flourishing Ontario town, tells how she was enabled to save fifty dollars by the judicious investment of seventy-five cents. Her story runs as follows:—

"Last autumn I found it was necessary to provide new overcoats, suits and dresses for three boys and two girls. The materials for these garments and the making and trimming would cost fifty dollars. This was a large sum to expend just at a time when we were making great effort to build a new house."

"For two days I thought the matter over, and after carefully examining my children's garments, the question strongly presented itself to my mind, 'can I make use of the Diamond Dyes?'"

"I had used the Diamond Dyes before with great success in a smaller way, and so I determined to see what could be done, with the view of saving so large a sum as fifty dollars. My children's garments were not torn or very badly worn; they were simply faded, dingy and old looking. I commenced with an overcoat to test my skill, and succeeded in dyeing it a lovely dark shade of brown. I pressed and finished it in such a way that it looked like a new garment from the hand of a tailor."

"Meeting with such great success, I tried the other garments and achieved wonderful results, and the total cost of the work was only seventy-five cents."

"My boys and girls were astonished, and were quite as well pleased with the renovated garments as they would have been with brand new ones. Very few people around me were aware of the fact that I had used Diamond Dyes to renew my children's clothing, and fit it for another winter's wear. Of course I told some of my friends how I had saved fifty dollars, and they are following my example, and are freely using the Diamond Dyes."

"You will clearly see how any intelligent and handy mother can easily save quite a good lot of money every year. Diamond Dyes are certainly money savers."

"Wanted a Boy."

"Wanted: A boy." How often we That quite familiar notice see,
Wanted: A boy to expand run!
Wanted for everything under the sun,
All that men of to-day pursue
To-morrow the boys of the land must do,
For we know that it cannot be long until
The places of sires the sons must fill.

Wanted: The world wants boys to-day
And it offers them all it has to pay!
Honor, station, wealth and fame,
A useful life and a deathless name,
Boys who will guide the plough and pen,
Boys who will shape the paths of men;
Boys who will forward the tasks begun,
For the war's great work is never done.

The world is waiting to employ
Not just one, but every boy
Whose brain and arms are staunch and true
To tasks his hands shall find to do,
Honest, faithful, earnest, kind;
To good awake, to evil blind;
Whose heart of gold holds no alloy,
Wanted: The world wants such a boy.

FARM

IN WELDFORD PARISH

FOR SALE!

I offer for sale the lot of land and premises in the Parish of Weldford, on the north side of the Richibucto River, containing one hundred and three acres, known as the Scotch Graham lot, adjoining the James Pine and Perkins lots, and fronting on the River and the Post Road leading to Harcourt Station. The lot was formerly owned and occupied by the late Malcolm M. Kendrick, and by him conveyed to the late Robert Lawson. It is well situated and embraces a quantity of very fine land. A good title will be given.
