AS IN YOUTH Ayer's Hair Vigor CORDIALLY INDORSED.

RESTORES Natural Growth OF THE HAIR. -WHEN- ALL OTHER Dressings FAIL.

"I can cordially indorse Ayer's Hair Vigor, as one of the best preparations for the hair. When I began using Ayer's Hair Vigor, all the front part of my head—about half of it—was bald. The use of only two bottles restored a natural growth, which still continues as in my youth. I tried several other dressings, but they all failed. Ayer's Hair Vigor is the best."—Mrs. J. C. PREUSSER, Converse, Texas.

Ports of the Sea.

GLOUCESTER, MASS., Sept. 4.—Capt. Parsons, of the ship Emily F. Whitney, arrived to-day from Tripant and reports August 17, in lat. 44 53 north, long. 50 40 west, he picked up four men in a small boat in a starvi g condition. They could not speak English, but he learned through an interpreter that they belonged to the French fishing schooner Maria, of St. Pierre, Miq., which sprung a leak on Grand Banks and foundered August 13. The crew, eighteen in number, took to the dories, and after drifting two days and managing to keep together, fell in with a Norwegian laque, which, on account of being short of provisions, could not take them on board.

The captain gave them instructions how to row for the fleet that lay at anchor a short distance away, but the fog prevented their finding them. Finally on the third day they fell in with a French vessel, which took eight. Another vessel took four, and two died from fatigue and hunger. The four men were brought to port and expected to get on board another vessel that lay near by. A heavy breeze with a rough sea came on, and after pulling for several hours and exhausting all their strength they finally put out a drag and laid down in the bottom of the boat and drifted before the wind and sea. Several times she filled, and with a bucket they picked up they managed to keep afloat until rescued by the Whitney. Captain Parsons said they were in a pitiful state when picked up. Their tongues were parched, and their feet and faces swollen almost beyond recognition. The schooner had 4,000 quintals of codfish on board when she sank.

The refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Cumming and Mrs. Nicholson, all of Harcourt. The baskets were auctioned by Mr. D. Clarke. Everyone reports a good time.

I think H. must have got the right basket as he seemed to be quite pleased. By the smile of J. he must have succeeded in that line also. But "Bruno" was bound to have satisfaction out of his basket for he took to the woods with it and enjoyed its contents immensely—all alone in his glory.
