THE COLONIAL CONFERENCE AT OTTAWA.

The report of the Colonial Conference, just published, gives a very interesting account of the discussions which took place on the three important subjects which engaged the attention of the delegates. These subjects were, the proposed Pacific cable between Canada and Australia, the steam-ship service, and the trade relations between Great Britain and the outlying portions of the Empire. A resolution was adopted approving of the subsidizing of a company to lay the cable and calling upon the Imperial Government to survey a route at the joint expense of all concerned. In a line with this decision, proposals will at once be asked for the laying and maintaining of a cable across the Pacific ocean. The discussion of the Trade question brought out a considerable diversity of opinion, and nothing practical or definite was arrived at. The exchange of views must, however, prove of great service, and the deliberations of the Conference, composed of representatives from the mother country and the different colonies of the Empire will eventually result in good to all concerned. Canadians especially, have reason to feel proud of the position in the Conference taken by the delegates from the Dominion—Hon. Mr. Bowell and Hon. George E. Foster. Mr. Foster's speeches were eloquent and statesmanlike, and he dealt with the trade question especially, in a way that reflected infinite credit upon himself, and won the enthusiastic applause of the Conference.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH AND THE TEMPERANCE REFORM.

The dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States have recently assumed an attitude of active opposition to the liquor traffic and the church adherents engaged in the trade, which must necessarily have an important influence and is likely to do more than any event that has occurred for years, to advance the temperance and total abstinence movement in the neighboring republic. Bishop Matthews, of Columbus, Ohio, who is recognized as one of the leading total abstinence workers of the nation, recently decided that liquor dealers could not be admitted to membership in Roman Catholic societies and that abolition should be referred to Roman Catholic saloon keepers who carried on their business in violation of the law by selling on Sundays or otherwise, unless they promised either to abandon the business or comply strictly with the civic or municipal regulations. The bishops ruling was appealed from to the apostolic delegate Monsignor Satolli, who sustained it, thereby giving to the decision the approval of the Church and practically establishing it as the law for the guidance of the Bishops and Clergy throughout the States. As such it was promptly accepted by Archbishop Corrigan, of New York, who, replying to a challenge from the organ of the liquor dealers, "The Wine and Spirit Gazette" to enforce the decree, wrote that paper "loyally accepting the principle laid down by Monsignor Satolli" and adding that "no Catholic can refuse to accept them."

At the annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America held last week at St. Paul, presided over by that great American prelate Archbishop Ireland, a platform of resolutions endorsing the decision of Bishop Matthews and Mons. Satolli was adopted. Amongst other things the platform said: "This convention wishes a hearty God-speed to every worthy worker for total abstinence. Many associations may not be workers on the same lines as the C. T. A. U., but every man who is working for total abstinence is so far in the sight of God.

"This convention recommends to Catholics to seek out ways and means of furthering the cause of sobriety from every honest worker in the same cause. We recommend that every society in our union establish a permanent committee on missionary work among the victims of intemperance where they are most needed, and let them try in every way, and especially by personal appeals, to move the drunkard from self-destruction.

"This convention approves most heartily and rejoices at the formation of societies among women and of total abstinence corps among our boys. It believes with Bishop Keane that women are to do a great work for the cause of total abstinence. Total abstinence cadet corps formed among the boys are the oddest of prevention which is worth a pound of cure."

In the course of his eloquent address of welcome Archbishop Ireland said:

"The church demands that its members be temperate. America has set her face against the saloon, the den of corrupt politics, and any church which will not come out for temperance is an odious ex-prosecution of the soil. I appeal to you in the name of the country, of God and of the church to lead all Catholics to be true Catholics and servants of the church.

"The church has other methods of work and practices of zeal, but prominently among them all is the work of temperance. Have your festivities, but let not the tables bear the weight of alcoholic spirits. The great self-denial to-day is in the pledge. Be charitable, but the best charity to practise is to lead your brothers in the ranks of temperance.

"I am not looking for the millennium, but we can reduce the number of drinking men so that it will be the accepted saying that no drunkards are among the Catholics. Speak to the victims of the drink habit. They have the principles of faith in them and only need a helping hand.

"If we would maintain a crusade against intemperance for half a decade, what a change we could effect. If it is not accomplished it is the fault not of the weak but of the strong, who are unwilling to take up the work.

"The American saloon is the vile den of intemperance. It is laden with blasphemy and sensuality. Temptations are there created which bring men to drink. I make no reference to the personal characters of the saloon keepers, but the business is bad. It is the enemy of good and the country. Let the day soon come when we shall not see the name of a Catholic above the portals of a saloon.

"We must have all Catholics in office arraigned against the saloon element and its interests. Political slavery is hideous, and especially so when it brings slavery to alcohol. I beg the clergy to enlist in the grand cause, to organize for it, and demand legislation against selling to minors.

"Those in the saloon traffic should seek a more worthy calling. The church holds up a high ideal, and whatever the Catholics may do, the church has done its duty. Will Catholics rise up to this high ideal? The cause has prospered; it is now respected by the public, and I thank God for it from my heart."

The effect of these deliberations and this expression of what have hitherto been regarded in many quarters as extreme views, must necessarily prove far reaching and will place the Roman Catholic church in the front ranks of the numerous agencies now promoting the temperance reform, and give increased zeal and encouragement to all the organizations and workers now engaged in the total abstinence movement.

Paine's Celery Compound Does the Good Work.

No troubles are more common and prevalent in our midst than dyspepsia and nervous debility. These horrid ailments make life miserable for thousands, and many die every year because they have received improper treatment and bad care.

Hundreds of lives during the past year have been saved by Paine's Celery Compound, that wonderful medicine that cures so successfully with dyspepsia, indigestion and all nervous affections.

Mr. H. G. Poirier, merchant, of Belledune, N. B., writes as follows: "It gives me very great pleasure to say something in favor of your wonderful remedy, Paine's Celery Compound. My object is to let others know what a valuable medicine it is for those who are afflicted with dyspepsia and nervous debility. For years I have been a victim of these dreadful troubles, and have suffered terribly from time to time. I have tried to get relief and cure by using various advertised medicines, but all failed to give the desired results. I fortunately gave your medicine a trial some time ago, and soon found I had got hold of a valuable and honest agent. It soon commenced to do me good, and after using it for a time it has cured me.

I know of nothing I can so strongly recommend to the suffering dyspeptic; if it is faithfully used it will give him a new and enjoyable life instead of misery and woe. I cannot say too much in its favor, and would urge all to give it a trial at once."
