THE SUGAR TRUST.

Controls the Sugar Output for Millions of People.

The Evolution of a Giant Monopoly from the Original Haveremeyer "Bakery" in New York to a Trust Capital. is at $85,000,000. and Making 52,000,000 a Year.

Henry O. Haveremeyer, who is the First Vice President, manager and active front of the great Sugar Trust, and who of late has been so conspicuous in the Washington investigation of the trust's methods, political and otherwise, is the grandson of Frederick C. Haveremeyer, who, with his brother, William F. Haveremeyer, came to this country in 1802 from Buchsburg, Schaumburg-Lippe, Germany. These two original Haveremeyers began the sugar-refining business as soon as they reached this country, and their refinery as well as their residence was in Vandam street, New York City. It was in this street that Henry O. Haveremeyer's father, who was then Frederick C. Haveremeyer, Jr., was born in 1807.

At the time Henry O. Haveremeyer's father was old enough to begin to be interested in the mysteries of the sugar-refining business, the establishment in Vandam street was a very modest little affair. The two brothers, who came originally to seek their fortunes in this country, had learned the sugar-baking business in London, and even when Henry O.'s father began work in the Vandam street concern it was called the Haveremeyer "bakery." It was considered a very creditable day's work in those days when they baked an entire hoghead of sugar in a day. The building in which the entire Haveremeyer business was conducted was a little concern only 25 feet wide by 40 feet in length. This is in rather striking contrast with the enormous Williamsburg plant, covering acres of ground, and the output of the sugar trust's works—and the Haveremeyers virtually are the sugar trust—is very many times more in a single day than was the entire yearly production of the Vandam street factory. Yet even in those early days the Haveremeyers were, as they are now, at the head of the sugar-refining industry in the United States, for the Vandam street concern was the largest establishment of the kind in the United States.

The great sugar trust, which monopolizes the entire sugar-refining business of the United States, was formed in 1887. So far as the production of refined sugar in the United States is concerned, it actually has no competitor, and as Henry O. Haveremeyer recently testified with so much frankness in Washington, can and does regulate prices in this country at its pleasure.

It was not until the Claus Spreckles refinery in Philadelphia was admitted into the combination that the trust was fully formed and its arrangements for the absolute control of the sugar refineries of the country were completed. When that arrangement was made the trust consisted as it consists to-day, of what formerly had been seventeen distinct firms.

The total daily capacity of these companies is about 44,000 barrels. The total capitalization of the trust is $85,000,000, made up of $75,000,000 capital stock and $10,000,000 of bonds. The actual value of the plants is estimated at about $40,000,000. The annual profits of the trust on refining alone are in the neighborhood of $25,000,000, or about 73 per cent. on the actual investment and 34 per cent. on the present capital, water and all.

REPUBLIC OF HAWAII

Late News From the Islands: Lili Looks No More to Uncle Sam.

San Francisco special: The steamship Australia has arrived, bringing Hawaiian advices to June 23.

The constitutional convention made a number of changes in the constitution as proposed by the executive council. It decided to declare Provisional President S. B. Dole President of the new republic without the formality of a vote. It is claimed that if this was not done the royalists would take almost any oath in order to obtain the right to vote for President in the hope of electing their candidate.

The ex-Queen has become fearful at last that the United States does not intend to reinstate her. She has sent protests to all the foreign diplomats here, requesting them not to recognize the new republic claiming she is the only lawful ruler of Hawaii. All the foreign representatives returned the protest, unnotified with the exception of J. H. Wodehouse, English Minister. He will probably recognize her claim, as he is known to be an ardent royalist.

The new constitution will probably be adopted on the 4th of July. Preparations are now being made to make this day one of the greatest in the Hawaiian calendar of holidays. A few days ago the crew of the United States steamer Philadelphia was brought ashore for battalion drill.
