John Jankins' Sermon.

The minister said last night, says he, "Don't be afraid of givin'; If your life ain't nothin' to other folks, Why what's the use of livin'?" And that's what I say to wife, says I, There's Brown, the miserable sinner, He'd sooner a beggar would starve than

I tell you our minister's prime, he is, But I couldn't quite determine, When I heard him a givin' it right and

At every word he was sayin'.

And then the minister went on to say, There's various kinds o' cheatin' And religion's as good for every day As it is to bring to meetin'. I don't think nuch of a man that gives The Lord Amens at my preachin', And spends his time the following week In cheatin' and overreachin'."

I guess that dose was bitter enough For a man like Jones to swaller; But I noticed he didn't open his mouth, Not once after that to holler. Hurrah, says I, for the minister-Of course I said it quiet-Give us some more of this open talk ;

It's very refreshin' diet. The minister hit 'em every time; And when he spoke of fashion, And a-riggin' out in bows and things As a woman's rulin' passion, And a-comin' to church to see the styles I couldn't help a winkin' And a-nudgin' .ny wife, and says I, "That's

THE MARITIME RECORD FOR THE HIGH JUMP BROKEN.

Over One Thousand People Present Fraser and Mrs Fraser.

On Thursday, the 24th of May, the annual sports of the University Amateur Athletic Club. took place. The day which had been looked for so eagerly, and which gave premise of being unusually interest ing, dawned quite foggy and dark. But be ore long the sun came out and gave us wend their way up the hill to the college, The Constantinople correspondent of which was gaily decorated for the occasion | several newspapers has told this story in with flags and bunting. Rapidly the terraces and grounds in front of the college assumed a very animated appearance. Breezes were playing through the foliage of the trees in the groves around, and the dust which was so disagreeable in the city, was entirely wanting on the smooth, green

Time, 101 sec. breaking the former record of 10 4-5 sec. Both Armstrong and Mc-Kee broke the record, McKee being a few inches behind the winner. Putting the shot followed, and was won by C. H. The next event was probably the most interesting-the running high jump. This was won by Elliot, 5 ft. 3 in., Gold Medal. McLellan and Burpee tied for second glory by doing just that thing. He was place and divided the prize which was 1 an old timer, this driver, and one afterdoz. Photos. Hoben came third, clothes brush. For this he received the first prize, a Gold Medal, and also another Gold Medal for making the best time in three years in this event. Jordan secord, Fishing rod; Hoben, third, a clock.

The pole vault was very interesting. Elliot and Powers tied for first place for the Medal and Powers won. Wiley, whose vaulting was very graceful, took the second prize, Waverly Novels; Shea, third pr ze, Shaving Set.

McCullough then tried for the record and cleared 9 ft. 74 inches, only 13 inches behind the Maritime Record, and 4 in. ahead of the McGill college record.

In the Hurdle race McKee came first; Gold Medal. Time 16 1.5 sec. Armstrong, second, 1 doz. Photos. Hoben, third, Cigar case.

His Case.

Courts of law are now and then enlivened by the unintentional comicalities which will occasionally crop up even in most serious cases. In a certain lunacy case tried in the Court of Queen's Bench, the last witness called by Mr. Montague Chambers, leading counsel for the plaintiff, was a doctor, who at the close of his evidence, described a case of delirium tremens treated by him, in which the patient recovered in a single night.

"It was," said the witness, "a case of gradual drinking-sipping all day from morning till night."

These words were scarcely uttered when Mr. Chambers, who had examined the witness, turning to the Bench, and unconciously accepting the last word but one

"My Lord, that is my case." Roars of laughter convulsed the Court

Remarkable Driving.

It is generally the easiest thing in th world to drive a horse without spirit, but there was one recorded instance where a stage-coach driver covered himself with noon in the days of long ago he and his coach-and-four came rattling up to the tavern door like an avalanche. As the coach stopped one of the horses dropped

"That was a very sudden death," remarked a by-stander.

"That sudden!" coolly responded the driver. "That 'oss died at the top of the hill nine miles back, sir; but I wasn't going to let him down till I got to the reg'lar stoppin' place. "-Harper's Young People.

Plant Fruits.

If you own a piece of land, even if it does not contain more than five acres, plant a portion of it to fruit. In a small orchard it is a good plan to alternate apple and peach trees. In this way you can plant trees much closer together, as the both clearing 9 ft. 31 in. They tossed up peach trees will have died before the apple trees are large enough to interfere with them. Don't plant apple trees closer than two rods of each other. If you do you will find you have made a mistake before they are half-grown. Plums, apricots and cherries may be planted twenty feet apart. It will be a long time before they crowd each other. Standard pears should have five feet more room each way. I don't favor planting dwarf fruit trees. They bear early and die early. This may be done in a new country where fruit is scarce and land is cheap. It is a good plan to cultivate a young orchard. Manure well. Plant small fruits (for the first five years) between the rows, leaving it so you can plow one way, especially where the cract is small and land is dear .- Farmer's Voice.

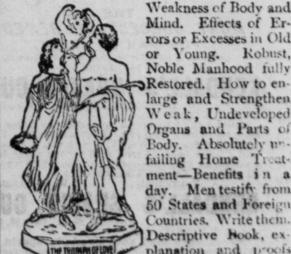

How to Raise Vegetables.

The following is said to be an excellent plan for growing cucumbers and melons in a small garden: Dig the ground up mellow and deep and make it pretty rich. Then make hills eight or ten feet apart each way, very slightly raised and about three feet in diameter. Now you need as many empty barrels (without head in either end) as you have hills. Stand a barrel in the centre of each hill and press it down into the soil so that it will not Teachers and Students blow over Nearly fill each barrel with fertilizer from the stable, old leaves, etc, and pour a pail or so of water on each.

Now around the outside of the barrels plant the seeds, and when the plants come up thin them out so that they are about six inches apart, Throughout the summer BERLIN, May 29 .- The developments instead of watering the plants directly simply pour water by the pailful into the barrels of compost and it will filter through slowly carrying moisture and nutriment to the very roots of the vines around the edge of the barrel .- Farm and Home,

Only Rich Men Can Be British Officers.

What the demands upon the private means of a cavalry officer really amount to was strikingly shown the other day by an article in the army and Navy Gazette. The initial outlay was here put at nine hundred pounds sterling and the annual expenditure at seven hundred pounds sterling, and these totals were supported by full details of regimental and personal expenses. Who can wonder that almost every Gazett tells the tale of young cavalry officers cutting the service, regardless of the money they have sunk, as soon as they realize what the position means, or that the difficulty of keeping up the supply of officers is constantly increasing otwithstanding the fact that the entrance standard for the cavalry is now below that or any other branch of the army?

Avoidable Expenses.

It costs money to neglect repairing the fences while the ground is soft. It costs money to have a poor fence around pastures, for the cattle to break

It costs money to allow the manure to lie under the eaves, and fertilize the roadside or nearest stream.

It costs money, in the extra feed required, to keep cattle and horses together loose in the same yard.

It costs money to let the cows become poor during the winter, and take all summer to recover condition.

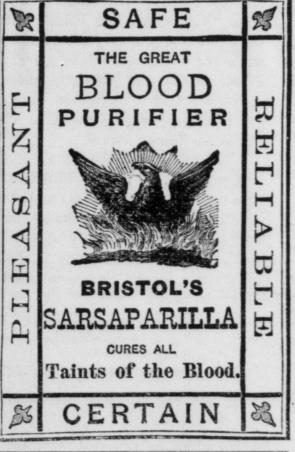

It costs money to let the manure lay in piles all winter, when labor is cheap and work scarce, and draw it out in spring, when labor is high and work abundant .-American Agriculturist.

Nationalities in the American Rebellion.

The number of soldiers who served in the union army during the war of the rebellion was 2,018,200. Of this number 1,523,3 0, or 75.48 per cent, were natives of the United States; 176,800 or 8.76 per cent were Germans; 144,200 or 7 14 per cent were Irish; 53,500 or 2,64 per cent were British-Americans; 48,400 or 2.38 per cent were foreigners not classified; 45,500 or 2.26 per cent were English, while 26,500 or 1.33 per cent were put down as foreigners, nationality not stated. The above figures are from records at the office of the military department at Wasnington .- San Francisco Call.

Increase of Suicides in Austria.

The increase in the number of suicides in Austria, which is stated to have been marked in the sixties and seventies, fell off in the ten years 1880-'90. Since the latter date, however, it has again become noticeable. In 1891 the number of suicides was 872, in the following year it was 903, and last year it reached 1,005.
