THE BRITISH COLUMBIA FLOODS.

The floods in British Columbia are the most disastrous that have ever been experienced in that province. Telegraphic dispatches received from the nearest points to the flooded districts, tell a sad story of death and devastation. The destruction to property and farm stock is terrible. The upper valley of the Fraser river has been completely swept by the water and the settlers, to save their lives, were forced to construct huge rafts out of the wrecks of their buildings. On these rafts many of them managed to escape to a place of safety. Dwellings were carried off their foundations by the force of the flood and swept down the river, and in some cases families were obliged to climb trees to escape the rapidly rising water. For nearly a hundred miles the flood carried death and destruction in its path. The Canadian Pacific Railway track for about fifty miles is much damaged, and in many places swept entirely away. Passenger trains between the east and west are hung up and will be unable to run for a fortnight at least. The Earl of Aberdeen's model ranch and fruit farm has been damaged to the extent of thirty thousand dollars. Landslides and cloudbursts aided in the work of destruction. The Spellkuman river rolled down into its ancient bed and buried a large Indian village in seventy feet of water. It is not yet known how many lives have been lost but it is feared the number is large. The floods in Washington, Oregon and Idaho were the highest ever experienced in these states, and an immense amount of property has been destroyed. The water in the Willamette river in Oregon and the Kootenay river in Idaho rose over thirty feet and whole towns were submerged.

The South Carolina liquor law about which so much has been said and written, has a strong champion in Governor Tillman of that state. The act is a modification of the Gothenberg system, and it was hailed by many as a solution of the liquor question. The judgment of the Supreme Court declaring the law unconstitutional, has unfortunately prevented a test of its efficiency. The governor is, however, a firm believer in the act and predicts its ultimate triumph. At the international prohibition Congress last week, he was invited to give his views on the question of prohibition and he seized the opportunity to say a word in favor of the defunct law of his state. The act, he declared, was away in advance of prohibition as a means of destroying the whiskey traffic. "I came here," he said, "to contend that prohibition does not prohibit, and never will prohibit; and to tell you that we in South Carolina have found a plan that utterly destroys the saloons." He then went into an explanation of the famous dispensary law of South Carolina, and told his audience that the prohibitionists would some day be willing to accept the South Carolina plan. It is unfortunate that a fair trial of the act is prevented by the adverse judgment of the court.

At a Conservative banquet in London last week, Lord Salisbury took occasion to indulge in a severe criticism of the policy of Lord Rosebery and his government. A new principle of taxation had been resorted to, he declared, to lay heavier burdens on the agricultural classes. By heavily taxing the land the life blood would be drained from the agricultural population. The late budget was the harshest, the most superficial and the worst ever presented to Parliament. With reference to home rule, Lord Salisbury declared that the House of Lords was quite willing to abide by the opinion of the country when its opinion was clearly stated, but not by an opinion filched and swindled out of the country. The present policy of the Liberals, he declared, was to cloud the Irish issue with irrelevant questions. They would not find another Parnell or Gladstone. There was not anybody able to repeat the impulse those two men gave to an unholy cause. He deplored the fact that an upgrowing tariff wall separated Great Britain from almost every civilized nation, and that the opportunities for the self-support of the people were daily growing fewer and fewer.

The contention of some of the Liberal papers that the P. P. A. organization of Ontario is a creature of the Conservative party is pretty effectually met by the declaration of Mr. Madill, the leader of the movement that the first object of the organization was Sir John Thompson's scalp. The P. P. A. men do not appear willing to ally themselves with either of the old parties, and they most decidedly object to being classed as a side show of the Conservative party, especially in Dominion politics. Their love for Mowat may not be strong, but their hatred of Thompson is much more intense. The attitude of the Roman Catholics of Ontario, whose sympathies are with Mowat in provincial politics, and with Thompson in Dominion affairs, appears to have had something to do with shaping the policy of the P. P. A. organization, and the fact that the premier of Canada is a Roman Catholic does not tend to soften their feelings towards him. Their motto is, "No Roman Catholic need apply."

Metronome.

It is bad enough to be an old maid without having it thrown up to us all the time, anyway it is not our fault. I remember long ago, oh, it seems so long, I used to have my ideal, when I was sweet sixteen, I had a fellow I used to think much of, and we would have been married if we had had our say, but my old folks were against it. He withered and faded and dropped into an early grave. I withered and faded and lived on, and I am still withering and fading although I am still on the war path, but I cannot sing that song "They're after me, they're after me, to catch me is every one's desire," but in mine own heart I hear the trembling song "I'm after men, I'm after men, to catch one is my earnest desire." But if such be the case I do not see the propriety of sweet sixteen or sour sixteen for that matter parading it in the papers. I lived for years on the old saying that there was a man born for every woman and that in time they would get together, but I have come to the conclusion that my mate was ship wrecked and drowned coming to me, or his mother died before he was born. I could recall the bridge and other favorite walks but I preferred keeping my fellow in the house all to myself, and I used to be happy then. But I must throw in a lot of news or my letter will be a failure.

So for the news of the place, the butter factory expects to open for business tomorrow. King's new mill will also be in operation this week, and A. Sheraton expects to have his carding mill in working order this week also. Rev. Mr. Watson is home on a visit. His father is here and occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian Church yesterday. Rev. Lewis Jack baptized the infant children of Dr. King and Jas. Ward, of Mill Creek, yesterday. A. T. Coates is up the river contracting for tan bark. The tug Alice towed a raft of deal to Pt. du Chene on Saturday. H. H. Stults is painting the Bay View. Lobsters are so scarce that a number of the boats are being taken off. Allan Bailey, formerly of the B. & M., is at the Bay View. Inspector Smith was in town last Friday. H. M. Ferguson of Kingston, spent Friday night in Bactouche. Mrs. McDonald, of Kingston, passed through here last week on her return from a visit at Moncton. The Presbyterians, with the assistance of others, are going to hold a grand concert on a week from next Friday. Programme to be divided into two parts, the first part is a musical and literary entertainment enlivened with farces. There will be an intermission of half an hour, during which you are supposed to eat ice cream. I don't expect to eat any unless I buy it myself, my day is past. All we are supposed to begood for now is to make it and lemonade. The second part of the concert is to be devoted to the young men, we are to have the Bactouche minstrels. Mr. Johnson is to be there and Tampo and Wiggins, Shorty and Sambo, and other noted characters. This Wiggins is not the noted E. Stone Wiggins, our weather prophet. Do you know I never took any stock in E. Stone. I believe I am a surer prophet than E. Stone because age has given me mystical lore and sure "coming events cast their shadows before," especially with regard to the weather, because the marrow is drying up out of my bones and my joints get stiff and the bones ache with rheumatism. I did not used to be that way when I was sweet sixteen, yea, I can dimly remember when, in the past ages, I and my play mates, many of them long since departed, would run out in the rain shower in our bare feet, boots were not so common then, and squat down in the middle of the road and make mud pies. My little grand nieces had letter not let me see them do it, oh, no, we look at things so differently as we advance in years. I used to have a happy smile and

A Complaint.

To the Editor of The Review:

Several complaints have been made to Mr. Wm. Beattie, Road Commissioner, of the condition of the street between McArthur's Corner and the Episcopal church, Kingston. This street has been for some time almost obstructed by old carts, sleds, racks and other trumpery left lying on it, yet the Commissioner has taken no steps to have them removed. How long are the people who live in the vicinity and use this street, going to submit to this state of affairs?

GREAT SALE OF Grey and White Cottons.

WE will inaugurate this week and the coming weeks the Greatest Sale of COTTONS ever held in Moncton. Grey and White Cottons are lower now than at any time for 15 years. Somebody is losing money, but we are not.

Read what "The Daily Telegraph" of May 18th says about the Cotton Combine:—

"The Cotton Combine and the St. John Mills." The movements of the cotton combine men at the present time are somewhat mysterious. For the past three years all their mills have been working up to their full capacity, and stock has piled up so that there is a supply of cotton goods far beyond the needs of the country. Prices were, however, fairly well maintained up to the 6th of April, when a cut of 10 per cent. was made. This did not appear to have the effect intended, and on Saturday last the combine announced another cut of 15 per cent. This brings the price of cotton cloth down to from 12 1/2 to 16 cents per pound, according to quality, an unprecedentedly low figure. The significance of these two cuts will be better understood by the reader if he places the matter in the form of a little arithmetical calculation. Let us suppose that the combine had on hand prior to the 6th of April last, a stock of cottons worth $1,000,000, and this we understand is very much below the true figure, these goods would now be worth only $750,000. Thus the combine would have lost, in the brief space of six weeks, $250,000 as a result of their own action in cutting the price. Now, why have these two cuts been made? If the object was to sell off their stock more rapidly it has not been accomplished, because the sales have not increased to any appreciable extent. If the object was to permanently close the two cotton mills in this city, which are not in the combine, that does not seem likely to be accomplished either. It is true that the St. John Mills cannot make cotton with profit at present prices, but neither can the mills in the combine. With raw cotton at 9 cents the prices of cloth, as made by the present cut, are below cost, and as the combine mills make 20 times as much cotton as the St. John mills, they sell cotton at such a low rate will be 20 times as great. As a matter of fact the St. John mills have no surplus stock, and are therefore not suffering any loss except such as arises from the being temporarily closed down. In the meantime people are wondering whether some person is not squeezing the combine and compelling them to unload their goods at an enormous sacrifice."

Prices we will guarantee are the lowest ever quoted in Moncton. Sale commences at 8 o'clock in the morning and ends at 6 o'clock standard.
