papers which are utterly discreditable, I confess that I am not in any way surprised that the gentleman should wish to keep those letters which show these statements to be unfounded. If any authority could be shown that the love-letters should be given up, that might be another matter, but that could hardly be when the letters were written to a man by one who subsequently accuses him, and the very letters in question show the accusation not to be true." The judgment was for the defendant with costs.

Popular Cures for Headache. Headaches are one of the greatest banes of humanity, and the so-called cures are without number. Among them may be mentioned smelling salts, toilet vinegars, hot foot baths, etc. But the most effective and reliable cure yet discovered is Hawker's Liver Pills, which regulate the stomach and bowels and relieve the brain of all fevered and congested blood. If your head aches, try them.

Fernando De Noronha. At the time of our visit to the Brazilian penal island there were 1,800 convicts in the settlement. Of these 1,000 are divided into 10 companies of 100 each, under the command of a sergeant, himself a convict. They live in outlying villages, and are employed at work in the fields and plantations and tend the sheep and cattle. The rest live in the town and are engaged at different handicrafts in the workshop, or fish in catamarans, the native Brazilian canoe, too roughly built to attempt to escape in, being merely two or three logs bound together and propelled by sail or paddle.

That Love Letter Case. LONDON, December 26.—The comedy of last week has been Lady Mable Sievier's attempt to compel a former lover, Captain Crosbie, to give back her love letters. She is probably sorry she asked for them, at least in a law court. In September, 1892, Crosbie saw in a newspaper an announcement of the marriage of Lady Mable, to whom he had been engaged for several months. Next day he received a letter breaking off the engagement.

The society papers printed reports that the match was broken off because the Captain's motives were mercenary. Lady Mabel told the judge the same thing when she asked him to compel Crosbie to return her letters. Then the Captain's lawyer read a few extracts from the letters, which he explained were retained because they contained proof of the falsity of Lady Mabel's charges. A few days before her marriage to Sievier she wrote to Crosbie: "I wrote you a tiny line about the settlement, and I will not trouble you about money. In a few days all will be done with, and we shall be far from lawyers. We shall have about 100 people witness our marriage. I have written in bed, as usual. No time to write to-morrow, as it is a case of church all day. To-morrow is the second time of the banns, and there will be only three weeks, my darling, and then your bunny will be really yours, and she longs for the company of another bunny." Lady Mabel told the Judge that she had no intention of marrying Crosbie when she wrote him this letter, which she asserted was a tissue of falsehoods. Justice Hawkins was indignant. He thus passed judgement upon the moral and legal right of discarded lovers to retain their sweethearts' letters. "There are some letters that every honorable, right feeling man would desire to return; but when charges are made against him, and when the engagement is broken off on the day before the lady's marriage, and when, after that there are paragraphs written in the society

Sensoning a Beefsteak. Nor can one overestimate this brand new recipe for sensoning a beefsteak, which has been amended from one which is a high favorite with certain royal good liver. Broil a 2 inch thick porterhouse steak, preferably the short steak which has no tenderloin. It is easier to manage if the bone is removed. Have its platter scorching hot and bring it to the table unseasoned. There add to it a dusting of assaife tida. Score the surface lightly with the carving knife and rub in on each side a salt-spoonful of dry mustard. Add a liberal quantity of butter, some salt a little black and less red pepper. Then spread each side with a fair table-spoonful of chutney sauce, turning the steak over dexterously until the sensoning becomes a mastery sauce. Then cut in half inch slivers and serve each ruddy strip smothered in goodness.

Scraped with a Rasp. SIRS.—I had such a severe cough that my throat felt as if scraped with a rasp. On taking Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup I found the first dose gave relief, and the second bottle completely cured me. Miss A. A. Downey, Manotick, Ont.

"Going Out." There seems to be considerable difference between "coming out" and "going out" as applied to a young girl's debut in society. "Oh, Daisy X is not coming out this winter; her people are still in mourning. She will only go out to this, that or the other," said a belle of two seasons the other day. "Will you tell me what constitutes the difference between 'coming out' and 'going out'?" asked a puzzled masculine listener.

Excels all Others. DEAR SIRS.—Your Burdock Blood Bitters excels all other medicines that I ever used. I took it for biliousness and it has cured me altogether. Wm. Wright, Wallaceburg, Ont.

Mistaken Gallantry. A judge, riding in the cars recently, from a single glance at the countenance of a lady by his side imagined he knew her and ventured to remark that the day was pleasant. She only answered: "Yes." "Why do you wear a veil?" "Lest I attract attention." "It is the province of gentlemen to admire," replied the pleasant man of law. "Not when they are married." "But I am not." "Indeed!" "Oh, no. I'm a bachelor." The lady quietly removed her veil, disclosing to the astonished magistrate the face of his mother-in-law.—Boston Courier.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles. Symptoms—Moisture, intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals the ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman Saus & Co., Montreal, wholesale agents.

She Wrote "Jane." Some good stories are told of provincial Mayors and their wives. Here is one:—The Queen and Princess Beatrice had opened an exhibition, and then in the visitor's book they appended their royal names—"Victoria" and "Beatrice." Next came the turn of the Mayoress, who in a flowing hand wrote "Jane."

Scrofula Entirely Cured. DEAR SIRS.—I have suffered very much from scrofula and bad blood for seven years past. Six months ago I commenced using B. B. B. internally and externally and can now say that I am entirely cured, and have been for some time. To all sufferers I recommend B. B. B. as an excellent remedy for scrofula. Miss A. B. Tannier, Pictou, N. S.

His One Cigar. Sir Andrew Clark was so ardent in his crusade against overeating and overdrinking, and so firm in his belief that in a large majority of cases diet will do far more than drugs, that he was a little too much inclined to take it for granted that his patients were self-indulgent to the ruin of their health. Among the many anecdotes to which his views gave rise the following is one of the most amusing.

A patient came to consult him and was at once overwhelmed with directions on the subject of the life he should lead and the diet to which he should adhere. "Now remember, only one glass of wine at each meal," the physician concluded "and just one cigar after dinner won't hurt you. Good morning. Be sure you keep strictly to one cigar." "One cigar!" exclaimed the patient. "But—" "My dear sir," broke in Sir Andrew somewhat testily, "I must insist. If I am to treat you, you must follow my directions. I know quite well you will find it hard, but it is absolutely necessary for your health."

An Important Scientific Discovery. Nerviline, the latest discovered pain remedy, may safely challenge the world for a substitute that will as speedily and promptly check inflammatory action. The highly penetrating properties of Nerviline make it never failing in all cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, cramps, pains in the back and side, headache, lumbago, etc. It possesses marked stimulating and counter-irritant properties, and at once subdues all inflammatory action. Ormand & Walsh, druggists, Peterboro', write: "Our customers speak well of Nerviline." Large bottles 25 cents. Try Nerviline, the great internal and external pain cure. Sold by all druggists and country dealers.

A Well-Built Ice House. A writer of an eastern paper describes his little ice house as follows: "The frame is twelve by sixteen and one-half is devoted to the storage of ice, the other half to milk. The half intended for ice is boarded up and down with surfaced boards and battened. Inside these boards and securely fastened to them is a sheathing of odorless, waterproof and airtight building paper. The sills are wide enough to take a row of studding two by four, to which is attached another coat of building paper, and over this I put a ceiling of unplanned boards, leaving a dead air space of about ten inches. The inside is coated up with matched pine, there being an air space the same as in the ice house. Overhead in the milk room I have provided a door which may be opened or shut at pleasure, leading to the ice room. This, I think, will provide a way for admitting cool air when desirable. The room, I hope, will be large enough to provide for a creamer and table for the convenience of the good wife who cares for the same. The only mistake made is in not making the building larger. The entire house is painted, as are all my buildings. I believe it pays to keep everything painted.
