RICHIBUCTO, N. B., MAY 24, 1894. THE REGISTRY ACT. The act passed at the last session of the Legislature respecting the registry of deeds and other instruments relating to land, makes some special provisions in reference to the outfit and management of the Registry offices and the Records to be kept, which will prove of interest to the Municipal Councils and the ratepayers generally. In order to the sate keeping of the books, plans and instruments belonging to the office, it is provided that the County Council of every county not already furnished with fire-proof offices or vaults, shall provide, furnish, maintain and keep in good repair a safe and fire-proof vault according to a plan to be approved of by the Governor in Council in or immediately attached to and forming part of the Registry office; and it is also provided that the County Council shall keep the Registry office furnished with fuel and furniture and in good repair. Under this provision Telegram, the organ of the Whiteway it will without doubt become necessary for the County Council of Kent to take steps of a suitable Registry office and fire-proof vault, or for such alterations and improvements in the present building as will make it practically a new structure. It is also provided that under the direction of the Provincial Secretary the Registrar shall, at the expense of the municipality, prepare a general double alphabetical index of the names of all persons by and to whom conveyances have been made or recorded in the Registry office of the county from the earliest records therein, showing in separate columns the names of the persons to and from whom conveyances have been made, and the number of the instrument, the date, the book and the page in which the same is registered. This will, we believe. he a somewhat expensive work, and we doubt if the mode of indexing will be found any more satisfactory than that which now obtains in the Kent Registry office. However, the change will doubtless be made and the expense incurred and, as Mr. Blair says, "If the people want these modern improvements they must expect to pay for them." While the local government thus continue, by methods of this character, to impose additional burdens upon the municipalities they jealously guard the right of appointment of the Registrars and other County officials to whose salary or remuneration not one dollar is contributed from the provincial exchequer and they refuse to forego the petty patronage which the power of appointment gives, by placing the power in the hands of the municipalities. When the Registry Act was being passed in the Legislature the following amendment was moved by Mr. Phinney and seconded by Mr. Powell :- "The Municipal Councils of the several counties of the Province are hereby authorized and required whenever the office of Registrar of Deeds of the said counties respectively shall hereafter become vacant, to appoint a fit person to the said office in the respective counties and fill up any vacancy from time to time occurring in the said office by death, resignation, removal or forfeiture of office."

The question of weman suffrage is being gradually pushed to the front and mer and women are beginning to realize that it is a question that must be met and decided in the near future. The latest deliverance on the question was a sermon preached by Dr. Parkhurst, of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, New York. Dr. Parkhurst is the gentleman, who some months ago, created a sensation by visiting a number of the houses of ill fame in that city in disguise and afterwards publishing a report of his visit in which he charged the police with secretly aiding the proprietors of these houses. Dr. Parkhurst questions the contention advanced by those who favor woman suffrage that woman is but a female duplicate of man, and therefore entitled to all the rights and privileges enjoyed by the male sex. He warns women that if they wish to preserve their individuality they can only do so by remaining womanly and not by trying to become manish. Women, he admits, are gradually pushing themselves forward into many of the callings of life which have heretofore been filled by men, and with this the reverned

Newfoundland.

Since last writing the crisis has developed some very serious and important features. Scarcely were the new govern-

party, made a most savage attack on the standing of the leading merchants. It at its next session for the early construction | claimed to be in possession of information to prove that the men doing the greater part of the business of the colony were in reality bankrupt. That they had so largely everdrawn their accounts, that they, and in fact the banks were hanging as it termed it by their eyebrows. The well-known effects of the great fire and the disastrious effects of the failure of the seal fishery gave such color to these reports, that a panic was only prevented with great difficulty. It is by no means averted yet, and but little more would precipitate the most terrible disaster possible to Newfoundland-a commercial crisis in the spring. At this season the merchants are busy fitting out fleets for the cod fishery, and any interference with their arrangements would most certainly lead to most disastrious results. Yet in face of the facts that a panic would leave thousands face to face with starvation, paralyze the trade of the island, and make impossible the carrying out of the railway policy they are advocating, this paper set to work to deliberately ruin the merchants and banks of the island. That it did not succeed was largely due to efforts of Dr. Harvey, the veteran historian of Newfoundland. This gentleman whose information is most accurate and whose honor is unimpeachable, was able to give such assurance in answer to enquiries as satisfied the foreign houses that the banks and merchants were in no immediate danger of collapse. Bad as has been the conduct of our own Grits of Canada, they have never yet descended to buildings. the infamy of this paper. Would that we could truthfully say that they had never acted on the same lines. The judgement rendered in the case of the St. John election, confirming as it did in every particular the decision of the associate Judge Winter has drawn curses deep not loud from the followers of Sir William Whiteway. They see now that they will all be condemned for the flagrant violation of the law and the wholesale squandering of shall and they are hereby authorized to the public funds. The supreme court has come in for an immense amount of vocal, if not journalistic abuse. But if they did not vent their anger openly on the venerable chief justice, they were by no means backward in attacking the brave and honest old Governor. Because he would not grant them a dissolution and so as it were absolve them from their sins and allow them to come back scott free from the consequences of having misappropriated some his supporters and voted the proposition three hundred thousand dollars of the peoples money as was clearly proved in the courts and judgement delivered in accordance by the courts of their own country, they set on the old gentleman, who is very popular with all classes, in the most rabid style and have on all possible occasions insulted him in the most glaring manner. They refused to allow his messenger to enter the house of Assembly -they have referred to his actions in the press and the platform in the most opprobrious terms and in every way have endeavored to raise a popular clamor against him. The bold old Irishman that had never flinched in the presence of the enemy, was not cowed by these people and has rather plainly intimated that as he is concerned they need not apply. The vast superiority of the British system has been manifestly proved during this contest. The liberties of the whole people have been saved from the rapacity of a few, by the firmness of a party absolutely impartial.

> The revelations now made by the witin the Trinity case are that the defendants former premier Sir William Whiteway and Hon. Robert Bond spent some seven thousand dellars of the peoples money in improving his own Old Anglo-Indians tell me they doubt if the natives themselves understand these signals. In 1820 for instance, coconuts were mysteriously passed all over Jeypore, the Deccan and Bhopal and the signal excited the population like swarming bees. But nothing happened, and to this day the meaning of the thing is an impenetrable secret. But in the spring of 1857 there was one of these demonstrations which took the form of passing from village to village loaves of bread curiously twisted like giant pretzels and it is perfectly known now that this was the signal which prepared the natives for mutiny. GAVE HER MORPHINE.

THE STORY TOLD BY MRS. JUSTUS

To a reporter of a St. John paper Mrs. Justus Mowry of that city told the following story: Mrs. Mowry was for two years a horrible sufferer from chronic indigestion. She could not sleep without the use of morphine. Her stomach was so weak she could scarcely eat any kind of food without suffering immediate pain. In fact she seemed to have pains and aches all over her body, and became so nervously weak and prostrated that she was unable to attend to her household duties. She tried a great many medicines and the doctors were prescribing for her nearly all Sometimes for 24 hours at a time her suffering from cramps would be almost beyond endurance. Many a night it was necessary to sit beside her bedside and administer dose after dose of morphine After such an experience she would be thoroughly exhausted and was never in good health. She could not eat or sleep, and these horrible attacks made even the dread of death seem less than the torture of living. To be sure morphine relieved her, but the after effects of its frequent use were almost as bad. Words are powerless to describe her sufferings. Her friends feared she would die. Finally she told her husband to get a bottle of Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic and she mark the result. Before she had finished the first bottle, taken in conjunction with Hawker's liver pills, she could eat meat without any discomfort, something she had been unable to do before for months. She only took three bottles of the tonic altogether, and it completely restored her to health, with no return of her former trouble, and she states she has no hesitation in telling any one that these remedies have restored her from a state of horrible suffering to perfect health. Fellow sufferer here is encouragement for you.
