AN ADVOCATE OF WOMAN'S RIGHTS.

Premier Blair of New Brunswick, and Sir Oliver Mowatt of Ontario, could not have chosen a more opportune time to give expression to their views on the question of woman suffrage. A new advocate of woman's rights has come forward in behalf of her down-trodden sisters, in the person of Sarah Grand, who contributes an article to the North American Review, dealing with "A new aspect of the Woman Question." Sarah is evidently on the war path. She has on her war paint and feathers, and we may expect ere long to see the political scapels of the two premiers adorning her belt. She has thus far directed her shafts towards man in the aggregate, but when once she condescends to direct her venom towards a single object of attack, woe to that luckless individual. Sarah is down on the whole lot of us, and does not hesitate to let us know her opinion of us. An exchange has taken the trouble to select from the article referred to and comment upon a number of the sentences. Speaking of horrid men she says: "He has hitherto tried to howl down every attempt on the part of our sex to make the world a pleasanter place to live in." The brute! "We have endured most poignant misery for his sins and have screened him when we should have punished him." The inhuman monster! "We have meekly bowed our heads when he called us bad names." The forgiving angels! "Man cramped our minds so that there was no room for reason in them, and then made merry at our want of logic." The sneaking idiot! "He set himself up as a sort of god and required us to worship him, and, to our eternal shame be it said, we did so." Pulverize the graven image! "While on the one hand man has shrunk from his true proportions, on the other have been expanding to our own." The shrinking, shivering wretch ought to go and hide his diminishing carcass! "It is the woman's place to teach the child, and man morally is in his infancy." Morally, the heathen is not yet born! "Woman may be foolish but her folly has never been greater than man's conceit." The fool will pin a herring to his coat tail and imagine himself a whale! "The sacred duties of a wife and mother will be all the more honorably performed when women have a reasonable hope of becoming the wives and mothers of men." That's what's the matter with Sarah! "Man in his manners becomes more and more wanting until we seem to near the time when there will be nothing left of him but the old Adam who said 'it wasn't me.'" The cowardly apple-thief knew it was himself all the time. We are not told whether Sarah is the possessor of a husband, but for humane reasons it is to be hoped she still wears "Miss" before her name.

JUDGE PALMER RESIGNS.

Judge Palmer of the Supreme Court of this province, last week handed in his resignation and asked for a retiring allowance. The cause assigned for this unexpected step is ill health, but there are some who claim that the judge's resignation is due to his unwillingness to meet impeachment proceedings threatened by the Liberals at the coming session of parliament. Last summer the St John Globe made some very serious charges against Judge Palmer in his judicial position, claiming that he had used, and was using his position to his own advantage, and that of his son. His son, a practising barrister figures in most of the cases tried in the Equity Court, and it is claimed rightly or wrongly, that the judge's sympathies were always enlisted on behalf of his son's clients. The Judge did not condescend to take any public notice of the charges made against him, but it is said wrote a private letter to the Minister of Justice, explaining his position in the Parks Cotton Company Case and other matters in which it was charged he had looked after his own personal interests. This explanation it is said, did not satisfy the Minister of Justice, and as a consequence, Judge Palmer has handed in his resignation. Just how much truth there were in the charges made against him will probably never be known as his resignation will put a stop to all inquiry into the matter. He was one of the ablest judges that ever sat on the Supreme bench, and his resignation will, in many respects be a great loss to the judiciary of the province. There is much speculation as to who his successor will be. The two most prominent names for the position are those of C. N. Skinner, Q. C., of St John, and J. A. Vauvart, Q. C., of Fredericton. It is generally admitted that Mr. E. McLeod, of St. John, can have the vacant position if he desires it, but Mr. McLeod is said to be looking in another direction. The Fredericton Gleamer says the appointment of A. A. Stockton, Q. C., or J. D. Phinney, Q. C., would give general satisfaction.

Report From Kingston Agricultural Society to the Farmer's and Dairymen's Association.

KINGSTON, Kent Co., Feb. 19.—The prosecution of farming in its several branches has been with me for the past few years a very interesting subject, more especially that part pertaining to the conservation of the soil and turning its products to the best advantage. But as I do not cultivate the soil to any great extent my interest has more properly been in studying the reports, lectures, etc., than in much practical application of the same. The questions asked and answers given in the "Feeder's Corner" of the Chicago Breeder's Gazette have to me been very interesting and highly instructive. I may be mistaken, but I do not believe there is more than one in a hundred in this province among the best tillers of the soil that feeds his produce to the best advantage; so the effects of this new fad that has got such a foothold in the corn belt and is gradually extending over the dominion (I mean the silo), if it but instructs the ninety and nine that each cow should get forty or fifty pounds of ensilage a day, with eight pounds of crushed grain and five or six pounds of hay, then I say God-speed to all ensilage teachings. But cannot the ninety and nine be as easily taught that a crop of rutabagas of 500 bushels or fifteen tons can be more relied on from an acre of ground in most parts of this province than twelve tons of corn in the glazed condition for ensilage purposes? And according to Stewart's Feeding Animals a ton of rutabagas is only twenty cents less in feeding value than a ton of ensilage, viz., ensilage $3.20 and rutabagas $3. And further, a cow fed 50 lbs. of ensilage a day will consume 12 tons (yield of an acre) in 480 days, while a cow fed 60 lbs. of rutabagas will consume 15 tons (yield of an acre) in 500 days; while the feeding value of the rutabagas at $3 per ton is $45, while the feeding value of the ensilage is only $38.40. Again, the ninety and nine might be instructed that all animals relish and do well on vegetables, while accidents have happened and may again on ensilage, and that the "corn disease" or abortion of cows from corn ergot cannot possibly occur when vegetables are used instead of ensilage. The ninety and nine might further be told that no turnip taste will be in the milk if the cows are fed on vegetables night and morning, shortly before or after milking. The instruction might be extended to the buildings required for each of these cattle foods by explaining that a roof cellar under the barn never rots, while the silo has to be re-built, or partly so, every few years. Still if the ninety and nine will not believe that the mode of feeding that has produced in England and Scotland some of the best mutton and beef and some of the finest butter and cheese (but not enough for the whole people), rather than have them try to make milk from dry hay and straw, by all means tell them to build silos and buy expensive cutters. I can't yet be led to believe that most parts of this province are so well adapted to the growth of ensilage corn (even the early varieties), as roots—such as rutabagas, mangolds, carrots, potatoes, etc., although Ontario may be. However, I am this much a convert to the silo that were I a large cattle owner I would have a small silo for the preservation of the rutabaga and mangold tops, mixed with the second cut of clover and assist in feeding during our long winter seasons. This of course, would not necessitate an expensive cutter, as the articles could be placed as they come from the field. I can understand that the profit from a cow comes from the amount of feed over maintenance, but where hay costs $15 a ton, bran $20, oats $22 and other foods in proportion, while butter sells at 20 cents per lb., there should be no fooling about the feeding. It is all very well where cattle foods (not speaking of ensilage or roots) are very cheap to "give a cow all she will eat up clean," but my experience is that most cows will eat far more than they can digest and assimilate, therefore a waste in doing so follows. I am feeding four small cows, average weight about 600 lbs., that have lately calved, as follows, viz: To each cow 7 1/2 lbs. oat straw, 4 lbs. mixed crushed grain (composed of oats, barley, peas and flax seed), 30 lbs. rutabagas and 12 1/2 lbs. skim milk. This allows each cow 13.82 lbs. of dry digestible matter, of which 1.46 is albuminoid, 8.90 carbo-hydrates, 28 fat and the feeding ratio is 1.63. Under this treatment they are milking fairly well, but no doubt would do better under more generous grain allowance. Question—Which is more profitable to feed milking cows on skim milk when butter sells at 22 cents a pound, or feed it for pork at seven cents a pound? Speed the plough.

Yours very truly,
 I. W. DOHERTY.
 W. W. HUBBARD,
 Secretary, etc., Fredericton.
 P. S.—My oat straw is mostly cut, the rutabagas pulped and the grain ground. A pile is made for a week's feeding with the different foods and some salt, kept in a warm place and nearly a bushel is fed to each cow night and morning, and about two and a half pounds of straw with the skim milk at noon. There is no turnip taste to either milk or butter. Little Etta May is making eight pounds of butter a week from this moderate feeding.

Portland, Me.

MARCH 3rd, 1894.—Once more the annual combat between Democrats and Republicans, for the election of Mayor and officers of the city, is causing some excitement and general interest. The most general belief is, we think, in favor of the present Mayor, Hon. J. P. Baxter. Two other candidates have been nominated. Mr. Charles Cushing, democrat and Mr. Kimball the republican are as usual working tooth and nail, and are confident of success. The Democrats seem to be more quiet, but then say nothing but saw wood, is a good old motto. However, Monday will decide the contest, and we say good luck to the party, whether Democrat or Republican, that acts with justice and integrity.

On the eve of the expiration of their term of office, the Mayor with the councilmen and aldermen held a meeting at City Hall, Friday evening. At its close His Honor escorted the members to his residence, 61 Deering St., whither they had been invited to partake of supper.

Mrs. Baxter was present and assisted in welcoming the guests. About half past nine they were invited to the capacious dining-room where the table groaned beneath its burden of good things. And though the majority were Republicans, party feeling was for the time being rooted out, and all agreed to do as good old staunch Democrats do—help themselves to the goods provided. His Honor carved turkey, Mr. Percival Baxter served lobster salad and oyster patties, Mrs. Baxter, assisted by the Misses Cughton and Gorman served coffee, chocolate, ice cream, grape sherbet and cake. Everyone seemingly quite at home, did justice to the ample repast, and after fully satisfying the inner man they repaired to the parlours, where speeches were made by His Honor and several of his guests. At a late hour all joined in singing Auld Lang Syne, and then bidding their host and hostess good-night they departed fully satisfied with their well spent evening.

MARCH 6.—The battle has been fought and won; the victors are triumphant. Mayor Baxter has been re-elected and with considerable of a majority. The majority in council and board of aldermen are republicans, also, so the latter party seem to have gained a good, if hard fought victory.

Miss Bessie Callendar, of 5 Bramhall St., entertained a few of her friends last evening, it being her birthday. Among those present were—Mr. and Mrs. Barbaric, the two Miss McNairs, Miss May Cughton, the Misses Bell, Maggie and May Calendar and Miss Cassie Robinson. A very pleasant evening was spent, and after partaking of a delicious lunch the guests betook themselves to their homes, hoping that friend Bessie might see many happy returns of March 5.

Lovely weather, seems very spring-like. Mr. Sol now honors us with a number of hours of his presence, and beneath his sunny smile nature's winter coat is fast disappearing. Good bye dear old winter, stem and cold though you be, we love you still and hope to be able to welcome you again, frozen ears and cold fingers.

MARCH 8.—Our heartiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John J. Quinn on the advent of the young traveller, a big bouncing boy. May his journey be a pleasant one.

Cardinal Gibbons is in daily expectation of a decision in Rome in regard to the removal of the ban of the church from the Oddfellows and Knights of Pythias, which was submitted to the Pope by the last plenary council. The Pope is also said to be considering the advisability of removing the ban of the church from Free Masonry.

TWO YEARS AGO I had a bad attack of biliousness and took one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and can truly recommend it to anyone suffering from this complaint.

IT HAUNTS ME STILL.

THE BALEFUL BLOOD BITTERS BOTTLE OF CHILDHOOD DAYS AND WHAT IT CONTAINED.

Whenever I see the snows beginning to melt and signs of spring to make themselves unmistakably known I remember with horror the springtime season of my boyhood. How mother used to dose us poor little unfortunates with home-made bitters! And we had to be the ministers of our own punishment. We had to scour the woods for ground hemlock, cherry bark and princess pine, which were to be stewed up together, mixed with liquor of some kind and then poured down our devoted throats to clear our blood and tone up our system. Ugh! the taste of it, like "her bright smile" in the old song—it haunts me still. Very often there was wormwood in it. Next to the little sulphur bags we wore around our necks at school to ward off the itch, the bitters bottle, a huge black one, was one of the terrors of existence. How much more fortunate are the people, old and young, of to-day, who can purify their blood and tone up their system in the springtime by a mild and pleasant course of Hawker's Liver Pills and Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic, the most thorough and effective combination in the form of spring medicine ever placed before the public. That tired, depressed and exhausted feeling with which so many suffer at this period of the year, is a sure indication of a weak and debilitated state of the system. Sleeplessness, Dyspepsia, Mental Inactivity, irritability and other symptoms of a disordered state of the system gradually follow. Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic is a certain cure when faithfully used for all diseases arising from nerve exhaustion, weakened or impaired digestion, or an impoverished or impure condition of the blood, and the prostrating effects of La Grippe or any nerve weakness of the heart or brain arising from worry, overstrain of mind or body or excesses of any nature. Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic can be obtained from all druggists and dealers. Price 50 Cents a bottle or 6 bottles for $2.50. Pills 25 Cents a box.
