This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

CRAWFORDVILLE, IND., AUG. 20, '86.

DEAR GENTS—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at the wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If everyone knew the value of this remedy as I do you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARRIS, Esq., Trenton, Montgomery Co.

A SWORN STATE FOR ST. VITUS' DANCE OR CHOREA.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause.

The Stupendous Failure of High License.

By A. G. WOLFENBARGER, Esq.

The General Conference of the M. E. Church has repeatedly declared its unwavering opposition to all laws that license the liquor traffic, either for a high or low license. In 1892, this great body held its session in Omaha, the saloon-cursed, high license Sodom of Nebraska. At the close of several weeks session, the Conference declared by resolution as follows:

"The liquor traffic is so pernicious in all its bearings, so inimical to the interests of honest trade, so repugnant to the moral sense, so injurious to the peace and order of society, so hurtful to the home, and so utterly antagonistic to all that is precious in life, that the only proper attitude toward it for Christians, is that of relentless hostility. It can never be legalized without sin."

The Conference supplemented this magnificent resolution by another:

"License laws are the liquor traffic's strongest bulwark of defence. They are wrong in principle and impotent for good. We are unqualifiedly opposed to the enactment of laws that propose by license, taxing or otherwise, to regulate the drink traffic, because they provide for its continuance and afford no protection against its ravages."

UTTERLY BAD.

It is sufficient to comply with the limits of this article, to state that the above declarations are a fair index of the deliverances of the religious denominations in my country, with very few exceptions. The license system has become so odiously rotten that its endorsement by an ecclesiastical body would be held equivalent to blasphemy. This is not to say that every church member votes against the liquor crime. Even among Christ's chosen twelve there was one devil, and the race of that devil in the churches ever since has never become extinct. But the climate of the Christian world is becoming constantly more uncomfortable for such people.

ATTITUDE OF THE LIQUOR DEALERS TOWARD HIGH LICENSE.

The rum-sellers fought high license at first because they were startled at the proposition of increasing their annual dues to the municipality from three to five fold. In Omaha they resisted desperately, and for a time held out against enforcement, and banded together for offensive and defensive warfare.

A local organization of private citizens was organized to compel compliance with the law. Col. Watson B. Smith, clerk of the United States Court, was one of the active members of the society thus formed. The liquor dealers kept thugs on their track, and tried by every method known to an outlaw class to bulldoze him into silence. He could not be scared, and he was murdered in cold blood as he was leaving his office in the United States Court House. No unbiased man ever supposed for one moment that the liquor dealers did not plan the murder and hire the assassin. The brutal slayer of this worthy citizen has never been found. Only the merest mockery of an attempt was made by the local authorities to apprehend the criminal. This brutal murder aroused the whole state, and the drunkard-makers began to see that compliance with the money-payment part of the law was a self-protective plan.

The revenue feature is practically all that essentially concerns the towns and cities that legalize the drink traffic in Nebraska and in the Union for that matter. The restrictive clauses of the law are as "ropes of sand in the teeth of Niagara." The law prohibits selling to drunkards, but the sale goes on. The law against sale to minors is constantly violated. The Sunday closing provision is a dead letter in more than half the whole country, notoriously so in Chicago, Omaha, Cincinnati, Denver, Buffalo and scores of other large cities, and hundreds of smaller places. The traffic defies control wherever permission is given it to exist at all. Granted a lease, it assumes absolute proprietorship, and rules in despotism.

The opposition of the liquor men to high license has long since ceased. They now shout for it from New York to San Francisco. The distillers, brewers, saloon-keepers and all men directly engaged in the business, unhesitatingly approve the high license policy. They know it is the only thing left between them and Prohibition. It has been officially endorsed by J. M. Atkinson, President of the National Protective Association, the leading organization of distiller and wholesale liquor-dealers in the United States. Peter E. Her, the most prominent distiller in Nebraska, who has made his fortune in the business, in 1886 wrote a letter for the guidance of his brethren in the trade, in which he said:

"High license has not hurt our business, but on the contrary has been a great benefit to it, as well as to the people generally."

The people must be heard from as well as her, before the latter part of the distiller's statement can pass unchallenged. Mr. Her continued:

"I do not think High License lessens the quantity of liquor used, but places it in fewer and better hands with better regularity."

Wedded on His Deathbed.

The death of Fred Jeandron, baker, at Toronto the other day was the sequel of a marriage of a very romantic character which took place just six days previous. Young Jeandron and Miss Mary Fraser, had been engaged for some months past, and May 23rd was chosen as the wedding day. Invitations were sent out to numerous friends of the young people and all preparations made for the event which had been looked forward to with such interest by the contracting parties.

Jeandron had been in the habit of attending Wesley church with his affianced, and Rev. A. B. Chambers was selected as the one who should tie the knot. The young couple spent Sunday as usual together and talked over the coming event, but Monday, Jeandron was taken ill with inflammation of the bowels. Tuesday he was compelled to take to his bed and Dr. McFaul was called in, but the disease had not developed dangerous symptoms. Wednesday came and rather than postpone the affair it was arranged to have the ceremony performed at the bedside. In the presence of Dr. McFaul and the guests who had gathered, at exactly 8 p. m., the hour which had been set, Dr. Chambers pronounced Fred Jeandron and Mary Fraser man and wife. The young bride watched by the bedside of her husband, but he rapidly grew worse, and despite the combined efforts and skill of Drs. McFaul, Oldright and Cameron he died at 1 a. m. the next day, never having raised from the bed upon which he had been married but six days before.

A BOON TO HORSEMEN.—One bottle of English Spavin Liniment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavins, splints, curbs, swellings, stifles and sprains.
