bring up the matter at once. Knew the strong feeling against it from some parishes, but thought if Richibucto and Weldford desired it not asking other parishes to interfere, could not see why they objected. Weldford was anxiously looking for this relief, he would not represent a parish as St. Louis, with such a mandate over the heads of the Councillor. Clerk of the Peace is requested to give his opinion as to the working of Alms House in two or three parishes in County.

Moved that the further consideration of Alms House be postponed until 10 o'clock to-morrow.—Carried.

Councillor Leger gives notice of motion to divide Wellington parish from 2 into 3 Districts.

Oyster River Notes.

Mr. Aiton's Spool Mill on Oyster River is in full blast again, and with the recent modern improvements for the manufacture of spool wood, is superior to that of last year. Mr. Aiton having added some new machinery and put considerable repairs on the old, making the machinery more capable of turning out better stock. Quite a quantity of squares, which will bear inspection, have been cut and already hauled to place of shipment. Mr. Aiton has again secured the services of the amateur sawyers whose names appeared in print last April, which shows that he has every confidence in their ability. Our esteemed friend, Mr. John Fraser, has again secured the contract of supplying the mill with wood which he is filling with his usual promptitude.

The snow in this section is pretty deep, averaging about three feet, which makes wood's work hard.

Oyster River has again been favored with a visit from our friend, Jas. Dover, or better known as the "hound who hunts the hare," or in milder terms, the man who shot thirty-six rabbits in one day last winter. Jim will probably be good for a big day's shooting on the same grounds this year.

It has been fashionable among friends down here to swap dogs, and grave suspicion rests upon a certain J. P. down here for taking the life of a canine, but not the one that was presented to our golden haired lady friend.

We are pleased to hear that Mrs. Jas.

Mahoney is recovering from her recent illness.

A certain gentleman here has vowed against attention to engaged young ladies as well as forty-niners. He heroically resisted the bewitching attractions of two young ladies who entreated him to take them for a ride. It may have been that he was ashamed of the horse, but we will be charitable and attribute the refusal on his part to his grand firmness of character, such as prompted such characters as John Hampden, when he refused the payment of ship-money, or Lord Nelson who, when asked on his death-bed to give up command of the fleet, said "No, not while I live."

Jim's pupil is progressing rapidly, being possessed of more than ordinary musical talent.

We were again favored with a visit from friends from Chatham, as well as from Kent and Gloucester counties, showing that the waters of Oyster River have attractions for friends from other parts of the province.

On Tuesday last, a driving party, consisting of the Misses Fraser, Miss Annie Dunn, Messrs. John Fraser, J. A. Dower, Amos Wilt of Chatham, Capt. Wm. and Mrs. Malley of Kingston, Miss Garrett of Bathurst and Miss Fraser of Bartibogue, visited the scene of spool operations. After partaking of a hearty meal prepared by our worthy cook, Mr. P. LeBreton, the party engaged in an interesting euchre contest, Captain Malley's side winning. On visiting the mill they were pleased to find most of their old friends at their usual posts, as well as Mr. John Crumley who has forsaken a winter in New York for the position of a sawyer in Oyster River. However, John may be out on the first crust in the Spring. In the evening all were invited by our worthy friend, Mr. Aiton to his house, where they indulged in a dance kept up until a late hour. Music was ably furnished by Mr. Crocker on the violin, assisted by Messrs. Dower and McCallum on the flute and banjo, interspersed with songs and speeches. Notwithstanding the thermometer falling 30 below zero, all enjoyed themselves heartily and left for home with the hope of some time during the days of March, again visiting Aitonville.

USE SKODA'S DISCOVERY, The Great Blood and Nerve Remedy

I heard last week of the narrow escape of one of our most favored and fashionable clergymen had from being the recipient of a most touching New Year card. A member of his congregation, a fascinating widow, was showing to her sister her purchases and among them this card as intended for the clergyman, a white dove flying toward a blue sky. "You didn't happen to read the legend, I suppose?" said the sister. The widow shook her head. "I never thought of it. Why?" And then she reads, "I would take thee to this bosom, but thou wilt not come." Needless to state that the card was not sent.—Ottawa Free Press.
