Local Legislature.

FREDERICTON, March 15.—The Legislature was formally opened by the Lieut. Governor at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The Lieut. Governor's speech was as follows:

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

It affords me sincere pleasure to meet you in Parliament for the first time since entering upon the duties with which I am charged as the representative of Her Majesty in this Province.

I am sure you will join with me in paying a just tribute of respect to the memory of my immediate predecessor, who, in the order of Providence, was only permitted to occupy for a brief period the high station to which he had been called.

It is fitting that we should acknowledge in a spirit of gratitude and thankfulness to the Giver of all good things that, while other countries have experienced and are still suffering the most distressing consequences of a disordered business condition, we in New Brunswick have enjoyed almost complete immunity from the worst phases of these exceptional troubles. It is true that the shipping and lumber business of the country have not recovered from the depression to which for some time past they have been subject, but evidence is not wanting that improvement in both these departments of our industrial life may be hoped for at an earlier period.

During the recess the Earl of Derby, Her Majesty's Governor General of Canada retired from the position, which he had filled most acceptably, and has been succeeded by the Earl of Aberdeen, a representative of one of the most illustrious families of the Empire. Should His Excellency and the Countess visit the Maritime Provinces during the ensuing summer as there is reason to believe they contemplate doing, I am sure there will be no lack of heartiness and loyalty in the reception the people of New Brunswick will accord their Excellencies, as well as account of their estimable personal qualities as of the high representative character in which they will come amongst us.

In accordance with your desire, expressed by resolution at the late session, that an investigation should be held into the administration of the school law and the conduct of the trustees of schools in the town and village of Bathurst, a judge of the Supreme Court was commissioned to hold the enquiry and report upon the facts which he should find established by evidence upon such enquiry. I shall cause the report of the investigation with the evidence taken to be as soon as practicable laid before you.

I am happy to be able to congratulate you upon the unqualified success with which the policy authorized and approved by you in respect to the management of our Timber Crown Lands has been attended. Notwithstanding the discouraging condition of the lumber business, and the uncertainties respecting the future policy of the United States as to the free admission of lumber, you will be pleased to observe when the report of the land sales is laid before you, that the most sanguine expectations of my government have been more than realized.

Make the Church Attractive!

A neatly designed pew is cheaper in price and is far more attractive than one with a lot of "ginger bread work" on it. We have several nice designs which we make up in different woods. Prices on application.

CITY ROAD,
ST. JOHN, N. B.

The commission appointed under the Act of Assembly, Fifty-fifth Victoria Chapter 18, to examine into and report upon the general subject of laws relating to the assessment of rates and taxes throughout the Province, and of civic and municipal taxation generally, have attended to that duty and have prepared a bill relating to the subject which they recommend for enactment by the Legislature. I will cause this bill to be presented to you and invite your most careful consideration to its provisions.

It is a satisfaction to me to have observed the growing interest which attends the sessions and proceedings of the Farmers' and Dairy-men's Association, and the increasing impetus which the policy of my government has imparted to the dairy industries of the country. Such marked success will encourage you to continue and, if possible, increase the liberal grants in aid you have been in recent years extending to this important department of agricultural industry.

So many and considerable are the changes which have of late years been made in the statute law of the Province, and so few of the acts contained in the Consolidated Act of 1877 continue in operation, that my government will ask you to consider the advisability of authorizing a new revision of the Provincial Statutes. A measure to that end will be laid before you.

The opinion has come to be strongly entertained by the general public that the practice and procedure in Probate Courts, and the law relating to these courts generally, requires to be materially altered and improved. Sharing in that opinion, my advisers have been giving attention to this subject, and have prepared a bill in amendment of the law relating thereto, which will be submitted for your consideration and approval.

I am glad to be able to inform you that the Boys' Industrial Home, established under the authority of an enactment of the last session and concurrent legislation of the Parliament of Canada, and aided by your liberal appropriation, has been opened under the most favorable auspices, and gives promise of accomplishing the most valuable results. In the interest of that class of the youths of the country who, it is confidently expected, will profit by the associations and training which this institution is able to afford, I would recommend a continuance of the grant which you generously voted last year to this service. It has been found by the board of governors of the institution that a smaller charge than that now imposed upon the localities from which the inmates have been sent will suffice to cover the actual expense of maintenance of the youths admitted to the Home, and an amending bill will be introduced at the present session reducing the per capita charge upon the municipalities for such maintenance. I will also cause to be laid before you the report of the Board of Governors of the Home since its opening in July last.

During the recess my government has elicited opinions and information as to the working of laws respecting liens of mechanics and laborers in certain cases in some of the Provinces of the Dominion and States in the American Union where such laws have been in operation. These reports upon the whole not having been unfavorable, a bill on this subject has been prepared and will be submitted for your consideration.

Owing to the inconvenience occasioned to many of you in attending the sessions of the Assembly at this season of the year, and the impossibility, as the fiscal year is now adjusted, of completing the public reports so as to convene you at an earlier date, you will be invited to consider and determine whether an arrangement of the time at which the accounts of the year shall be closed might not with advantage be entertained. Any resolutions you may be asked to approve, as also any bill founded thereupon, relating to this question will, I am sure, receive your careful attention.

My government has not been discouraged by past failures from pressing with continued persistence for a settlement of the Eastern Extension claim against the government of the Dominion. That claim, the justice of which has been repeatedly affirmed by the government and Legislature of this Province, has been again urged upon the attention of ministers at Ottawa, and I am not without strong hopes that the careful examination and study to which a sub-committee of the Dominion Cabinet recently submitted the case has induced a more favorable opinion of its merits than has been hitherto entertained. I have directed the accounts of the in-

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

A Little Difficulty in the Common Council Explained.

The long distance despatch sent from here last week to the Chicago and St. Louis papers regarding the trifling incident in the Common Council meeting puts as in a wrong position before the Eastern public. At the regular meeting of the Common Council the question of building a sewer in Shawnee street came up for discussion. We knew it would. We knew that Alderman Jackson would favor it, and that he would be armed with at least one gun. The sewer fund of this town at the present moment consists of 17 cents and an old pork barrel, and we feel it our duty as Mayor to hang on to most of it to provide for a Spring cloudburst. Under the head of unfinished business, Alderman Jackson moved to take from the table the resolution appropriating $5,000 for a sewer in Shawnee street. He was voted down, and he then began a speech full of fervid eloquence. At least, that portion which referred to us was as fervid as anything we ever listened to. After calling us a czar, tyrant, scoundrel, conspirator and other choice things, he launched out with a picture of 5,000 people dying of yellow fever for the want of that sewer.

We interrupted him to observe that there was not a single house on the street as yet, and that he was out of order, and then the trifling affair referred to above took place. It was very brief. We reached him before he could pull his gun, and as near as we can recollect, we slammed him against the wall and threw him down stairs. There was no "scene of wild disorder," as was stated by the correspondent; neither was it "feared for the moment that a dozen guns would be turned loose." Why should there have been? That was the seventh trifling affair between the alderman and myself within the last year, all beginning and ending about the same way, and we do not think any of the other aldermen even left their seats or evinced more than ordinary interest. In the course of half an hour Alderman Jackson himself limped in and withdrew his motion, and the only complaint we heard him make was after the meeting adjourned. Then he did say something about a broken rib and one man power, but nobody paid much attention to him. The correspondent had to draw on his imagination for all the rest of his article, and as a whole we are placed in an entirely false position.

We have conscientiously sought to preside over this Common Council according to the rules laid down in Cushing's Manual. Mr. Cushing was probably never west of Chicago in his life. He provided for certain exigencies which might arise in the East, but he didn't outfit his book with the right sort of lariats to hold a wild Westerner down to pasture when the grass was short and water scarce. It simply can't be done. A free-born Alderman, possessed of a six-shooter, a buckskin shirt and the historical knowledge that Christopher Columbus discovered America, feels himself the peer of Mr. Cushing every day in the week and will not be bound by his rules. We had run a meeting for thirty-four minutes on the St. Louis system and were just beginning to breathe easy when up popped Alderman Clitz with a proposition to spend $250,000 to bridge a $250 river. We wanted to fool around with Cushing's Manual before calling him to order, and as a result we lost 50 per cent of our prestige as a presiding officer and had to lick him after the meeting adjourned.

We went up to Chicago at our own expense and attended a meeting of the Common Council and absorbed a dozen good pointers. When we undertook to enforce them here the whole body of Aldermen filed out of the Council chamber without the formality of an adjournment and left us alone in our glory. Only four weeks ago Alderman Fitzpatrick was clearly out of the order when he moved that "the thanks of this body be and are hereby tendered to the surviving relatives of George Washington for the manner in which he conducted himself on various occasions." We ruled him out of order according to Cushing, but it took fifteen minutes and a great outlay of muscle to jam him in behind the stove and choke him off. To his dying day he and many of his friends will believe that we acted from purely selfish motives.

We think we can notice some little improvement in the Council as a body, but we have not looked for any radical or sweeping changes. Most of the trouble thus far has been caused by a superabundance of local pride and general enthusiasm, and the end is not yet. In the future, however, we hope that local correspondents of Eastern papers may feel inclined to do us justice. If the Mayor of a town does not seek to maintain a certain dignity he would soon lose the respect of the community. In the East he maintains it through his official power. We can't do that way. The only patronage at our disposal consists of two public offices, one of which ran the incumbent $17 in debt last year, and the holding of the other caused a man to suicide within six months. We have thumped the whole drove of Aldermen by turn, and the day may come when we shall have to pull a trigger on some of them, but whatever we do will be done with an eye single to the glory and benefit of our town and should not elicit personal newspaper abuse.

J. H. BRICKWOOD'S CASE.

A Government Official and his Rheumatism Cured by 12 boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills—Sets all the people asking Questions of the Druggists.

Kingston, March, 12th.—The fact that rheumatism is caused by diseased kidneys has been again conclusively proved by the case of Mr. J. H. Brickwood, fishery inspector for this district. He suffered from rheumatism for fifteen years and found no cure in the prescriptions of doctors or in patent medicines. Finally, he used Dodd's Kidney Pills, twelve boxes of which cured him. Harry Wade, the well known druggist here, who sold Mr. Brickwood the pills, says he is overrun with inquiries as to the genuineness of Mr. Brickwood's story, of which he is able to satisfy everyone. He also reports large sales of the pills with most satisfactory results in every case.

"AN ECLIPSE OF VIRTUE,"

by Champion Bisell, is the striking title of a novel contained in the March number of "Tales From Town Topics." A rather startling exposition of the mysterious power of love is made in this story. We find a beautiful young widow of great fortune rejecting to some extent the devotion of an ardent young lover. She philosophizes over the unwisdom of marrying him, although she loves him devotedly, and then of a sudden she literally kidnaps him, by drugging him and carrying him away alone with her on a yacht. Their life together is ideal but fatal, and it only requires the appearance of a wild little native of San Domingo to rob the widow of her cavalier. The little Cuban girl is the means of bringing the story to a tragic climax, and the reader is made to see the possible despair that results from woman's depravity and man's deceit. The story is written in a brisk and daring style, and is accompanied by an unusual bright collection of narratives, poems and witticisms culled from the pages of Town Topics. Town Topics Publishing Co., 21 West 23rd street, New York City.

A Tale of the Sea.

"While we were in South American waters," says Capt. Brooks, of the bark "Douglas," "my second mate went in bathing. He was afterwards seized with violent cramps and vomiting and we feared he could not recover. I gave him a dose of Dr. Manning's German Remedy and to our delight it gave instant relief." "On another occasion," continued the Captain, "one of my crew had such a lame back that he could not stand up. Two free rubbings with Dr. Manning's German Remedy cured him. I consider it to be invaluable to a shipmaster and would not be without it if obtainable." This valuable remedy is manufactured by The Hawker Medicine Co., St. John, N. B., and is for sale by all druggists and dealers. Price 50 Cts.
