Mill Branch Notes.
Times are dull in this section, but farmers are looking forward to a good crop in consequence of the heavy snows and many long prayers.

We now boast of a most beautiful church in our locality, where many followers of the adorable John Knox assemble for worship. Oh! may their worship be in spirit and in truth! Some have their doubts as to the genuineness of many of the followers. Any well-meaning person being at church last Sunday, must have been surprised at the actions of some of these so-called faithful ones. It seems to me that only some, less than a score, go for the sake of worship. Surely the greater number do not go to laugh or pass remarks on the dress of this or that person, or even the sermon of an orthodox character. I may have been called a "heathen" because I do not attend church, but if I would only go to church, whether for worship or not, I am all right as some do say. I fully know that the scripture suits not to forget the assembling of ourselves together etc., but I do not think it means for us to assemble with some of the pretending Christians that were there last Sunday. A man will grow to be like the company he keeps.

For the chance the singing last Sunday was very good, but how if the choir were purged. Why should a pretending Christian say the singing was poor, the sermon dry, and did you see this or that one? And when the collection box is being passed round, to ask to have a five cent piece changed. A man that goes to church with a five cent piece in his pocket and then wait to get it changed for the collection, and at the same time sing in the choir and come out of church and swear, should be made to take a back seat, and then I might go to church. In a short while time, brethren, these things ought not to be and the sooner these are "weighed in the balance" the better for the church and people.

Acadiaville.
MARCH, 16.—As about all the news was reported in THE REVIEW of last week, there is not much left for me to say. However, if I do not interest your readers I will at least cause them to do penance as is Lent.

Since March began it seems that spring has come. Red robins are reported to have been seen.

Councillor Barriault's red mare got hurt on a stump the other day, and will likely die.

Councillor B. J. Johnson, of St. Louis paid us a flying visit here last week. What did he go right round the parish and here at Fx's lot?

Hero seems uneasy about Pete. Take patience Hero, Pete will only come out after Easter, as in Lent he could not say anything about dancing.

A meeting was held at Rogersville to place the parish officers of Acadiaville who have resigned.

A man of Lower Acadiaville made a big horse the other day on account of the road and yard being blocked up with pulpwood and railway ties, near Acadia Siding.

One day last week some parties built a bridge across the river. There was a little row over it, and the next morning the bridge had been floated away.

An effort is being made lately to get a new Justice of the Peace. We have plenty of justices who cannot do any more than sign their names.

Our esteemed teacher, Mr. Doucet, is still among us.

What is the matter with Old Man? He does not give us any more of his news. Is he dead, or has he changed his name, MACROIRE.

MARCH 22.—Having seen no notes in THE REVIEW for some time, I thought I would try my hand at writing some.

I have just raised up the blind and peeped out the window, and I see that there is more snow falling.

G. H. Perry, of Harcourt, paid us a flying visit the other day.

Our school master is looking as well as circumstances will permit.

The snow is very hard on the eyes. "We must wear glasses."

Mr. Allan McLeod arrived home from the U. S., a short time ago.

Six of our young ladies visited Rogersville, last week.

Two of Rogersville's sports arrived here on foot, after dark, Saturday night.

Pulp wood is booming here. Wood and Gallant are the principal shippers.

We are sorry to have to record the death of one of our old and respected citizens, Mr. M. McGinnis.

Mr. J. Desmond attended the funeral of his sister-in-law, Mrs. D. Desmond, at Nelson, N. B., last Monday.

To look at the streets after dark, convinces one that "In the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love."

There were five cars placed in the siding here, and when they arrived there were no less than 40 men for every car. When your correspondent left, they were fighting among themselves to see who would get the cars.

J. F. Desmond, who is studying Telegraphy at Rogersville, spent last Sunday at his home here.

Several of our young hunters started a moose last week, but they lost it in the swamp back of Porcupine settlement.

WIDE AWAKE.
South Side Richibucto.

MARCH, 15.—Plenty easterly winds and lots of ice outside the Harbour. And we have already heard the hunk of the wild goose.

Mr. F. S. Peters' grist mill has been kept busy all winter. He is doing good work. Fred is a hustler.

Rumor has it that one of our young ladies intends entering the bonds of matrimony. Sam says Alfred is getting the best looking girl in Perog.

Our school is ably conducted by Miss Sarah Jane Arsenault.

Mr. Jude Finnigan is busily engaged in hauling cord wood to town.

Mr. Philip Brine is dangerously ill. The doctors have given up all hope of her recovery.

Mr. Louis Michéau is busily engaged in making preparations for the gaspéaux fishing.

Mr. James Irving is building a lobster boat for Mr. E. McInerney, Kingston. Jim expects she will outlast anything at the Cape.

Mr. Jas. Long, Jr., has completed his boat and decoys. Jim means to get his share this year.

Mr. Wm. McBeath was hauling feed from Buctouche last week.

Mr. D. McBeath is busily hauling wood for White & Graham this week.

Mr. John Curwin, (pilot), has been building a small boat in the place of the one lost last fall.

In your issue of the 8th inst., Vida in his South Side notes mentioned that as the smelt fishing was a failure, some of young men would have to wait for the development of the buckwheat crop. I wonder if the rest are going to wait for the barley crop. I suppose Vida thought when he mentioned everybody but himself that we did not know who he was, but he is the only one who ever finds fault with the roads. He has the most to say about the school at Graham's point. We might have had school all winter but for him. We will expect to hear more from Vida before long, and his opinion of the barley crop.

FENCEPOLE.

Fall River, Mass.
MARCH, 15.—The weather is something beautiful. March has come in like a lamb all right this time, as the old saying is.

The farmers are nearly all done farming. As soon as the snow goes off the ground here they can commence farming, as the frost is so slight and the sun so warm that the land is soon ready for cultivation. One can scarcely pass along the sidewalks for the school boys spinning their tops.

We have had a call from William Mundle, of West Branch, St. Nicholas River. I think he is seeking a position as Janitor in one of the school houses.

Mrs. Horton will go West in the summer if her son does not come home. It is nearly eight years since she saw him. She, however, expects him to come and they will go East together.

Times are very dull at the present time. Factories and shops are closing in Lawrence, Lowell, Providence and other places around here and there is talk of another shut down in the mills here, but if they do there will be a strike as the Unions have been preparing for that since the shut down last summer.

I am very sorry to hear of Mrs. Stephen Ward and Mrs. Margaret Warman being in poor health. I sincerely hope they are both better by this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilmore are well, so are their two little boys Willie and Harry.
DAISY BELL.

West Branch.
Creamy question—latest topic. Hope it will be a success.

Coasting is the order of the day. Some of our young ladies had the misfortune to fall off the sled but did not get seriously injured. Also a young fellow got her on the sled, and had it not been for the large tassel on her cap, she might have fared worse.

L. P. lets the girls fall off the sled. I think George will not go to Hatcourt now, as the attraction is nearer home. He is often seen crossing the brook. Beware George, the ice is not safe.

The young student has changed his occupation for cutting wood.

Mrs. Hugh English who has been visiting her daughter Mrs. Adam Black, of Trout Brook, for a few days, has returned home.

Miss Bessie Murray who has had an attack of neuralgia, has recovered sufficiently to be out coasting.

Bill has been visiting friends here. There is rumor of a party floating around. Hope rumor will prove true.
