

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE TONIC AND Stomach and Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great curative qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.
To the Great South American Nervine Co.:
DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If everyone knew the value of this remedy as I do you would not be able to supply the demand.

A REMEDY FOR ST. VITUS' DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.
My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the stomach, because the experience and testimony of many go to prove that this is the one and only one great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unalarming disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

HARRIET E. HALL, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to the Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted stomach, indigestion, nervous prostration, and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors, with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I have never seen it too highly." Mrs. ELLA A. BRATTON, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I cannot express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic, and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the greatest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

No remedy compares with SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE as a cure for the Nerves. No remedy compares with South American Nervine as a wonderful cure for the Stomach. No remedy will at all compare with South American Nervine as a cure for all forms of failing health. It never fails to cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It never fails to cure Chorea or St. Vitus' Dance. Its powers to build up the whole system are wonderful in the extreme. It cures the old, the young, and the middle-aged. It is a great friend to the aged and infirm. Do not neglect to use this precious boon. If you do, you may neglect the only remedy which will restore you to health. South American Nervine is perfectly safe, and very pleasant to the taste. Delicate ladies, do not fail to use this great cure, because it will put the bloom of freshness and beauty upon your lips and in your cheeks, and quickly drive away your disabilities and weaknesses.

framing of the tariff, and every section cannot have just what it wants. The widest interests of the country, the national interests of the country must be taken into consideration. I think it may safely be said that that is the view in which the National Policy has been received and approved by the people of the Maritime Provinces. They said: It is true that it does weigh upon us somewhat; still, for the advancement of this country, and in order to carry out the national idea, the ambitious idea we have that this country shall become great, we are willing to make our share of the sacrifice. It has often been stated, and it was stated early in this debate by hon. gentlemen in Opposition, that the combines and manufacturers alone were consulted in private with regard to this tariff, and that they alone were benefited. How can hon. gentlemen, as honest men, make such statements, in the face of the fact, that in the revision that has taken place there has been a large cut in cottons and woollens, and a large cut in manufacturers of agricultural implements? Why, Sir, these changes are made against their interests, against their selfish interests, and we Government supporters, who are for the lowest tariff consistent with a fair living for the manufacturer in this country hold this as a tariff for the farmer, the agriculturist and the labourer of this country. We have heard all through the country cries about sugar barons and cotton lords. But, Sir, now is that consistent with the fact that a change has been made affecting the interests of the manufacturer of sugar, under which sugar up to 16 Dutch Standard is allowed to come in free? Is that in the interests of the sugar barons? The same thing is to be found with regard to the nail-manufacturer; the same thing with regard to the so-called cotton lords. While we view protection as the basic principle of the fiscal policy of this country, we must see that the revenue of the country is not too much impaired. This is a point to which I desire to give just a few minutes' consideration. I cannot understand any tariff based upon the free trade principle advocated by members of the Opposition that would enable hon. gentlemen, if they came into power to-morrow, to raise sufficient revenues to cover the expenditures of this country. The revenue of this country must be at least $35,000,000. Gentlemen of the Opposition wait that it should have gone above $25,000,000. But they must face the situation as it is, and should they come into power to-morrow, they would be obliged to recognize that the condition they had to face would not be that of fifteen or sixteen years ago. What is the situation at the present time? We have to face a fixed expenditure of $25,000,000. The interest on the public debt amounts to $10,000,000; then, $2,000,000 must be put into the sinking fund yearly; the sum of $4,000,000 goes for provincial subsidies and $9,000,000 for the collection of our revenue—for our customs and excise officers, for operating our railways and canals, for our post office system and for other services of that kind. Beyond that $25,000,000 we must raise at least $10,000,000, or allow the public service of the country to become impaired. We must raise for the support of our Indians, who are given to us as wards, about $1,000,000 a year. We must raise for the light-houses that stretch along our coast and up our principal rivers, from $500,000 to $1,000,000 a year. About $1,400,000 is necessary to keep up our militia. Then, for civil government and the administration of the various departments we need an additional sum, which will make up $10,000,000. What would hon. gentlemen in Opposition do if they got into power to-morrow? Take away the amount that is expended from year to year on the light-houses of the country? Take away the amount expended on the Indians of the country? Take away the amount expended in protecting the fisheries? Take away the amount expended on Civil Government? Even if they did appreciably lower the expenditures in those particulars they would have to raise at least thirty-five million dollars in order to meet the cost of governing the country. Now, Mr. Speaker, I cannot conceive of any fiscal policy they would adopt that would take the place of the policy that is now before the country. They might follow the example of some of their friends who are Premiers of some of the provinces; they might do as the Hon. Mr. Peters did in Prince Edward Island; they who are such great friends of the farmers, might put the entire tax upon land, make every acre of land in the country pay a tax; they might emulate the example set them by Mr. Peters, the Liberal Premier of Prince Edward Island, and introduce such a system as that. They might impose direct taxation all along the line, but in that I do not think they would succeed. Now, they have gone back on every policy they ever had. They have gone back on and barred free trade, they have gone back on commercial union, they have gone back on unrestricted reciprocity, they have gone back on free trade, which they proposed last year; and they now stand simply and solely for a revenue tariff. There was a very good story told last year by the Minister of Railways and Canals, in some part of the west, when he said that hon. gentlemen in Opposition, with regard to their policies, were like the colony of Sierra Leone with regard to their governors; they always had two, one that they were bringing out alive, and the other that they were sending home dead. Now, it appears to me that is a good illustration of the method of hon. gentlemen opposite. There is another thing that strikes me. They are like the Egyptians who only judge their kings after they are dead. The hon. gentlemen pursue the same method with their policies. After a policy is dead they then hold a post-mortem upon it, and pronounce that it was never any good, and more than that, they seek to disown it. There is no doubt at all in my mind that hon. gentlemen opposite will be driven to pronounce the same judgment upon their new policy. When they go to the country this issue will be clearly drawn. The fight between the two parties will be on that question. If hon. gentlemen opposite are at all consistent they will go to the country on a tariff-for-revenue-policy only, while the Government of the day will go to the country on a tariff having for its central idea protection to the industries and the products of the land. Nobody can be in doubt as to what the result will be. The Opposition will go to the country on a revenue tariff policy that will be the sun in the centre of their solar system, and they will have for nebulous comets floating round through their cloudy sky, creed cries and sectional cries, they will seek to raise prejudices on the question of the North-west schools, they will seek to raise the prejudices of the people of Ontario against the people of Quebec on those questions, and in this way they will endeavour, without having, perhaps, any well defined policy to put before the country, to snatch a verdict from the people. But they will not succeed, they will not come within measurable distance of success, unless their opponents should emulate them in the latter part of their policy. They will not succeed, because the Conservative party, strong in its rank and file, great in its leaders, honest in its ideas, fixed in its principles, will not be burned in the Acedama of fanaticism; but on the contrary, their appeal will be to moderate men in all sections of the land, their appeal will be to moderate men of every creed, and nationality, on an honest policy, a policy that has always been successful, a policy that has proved itself invincible. Standing upon an honest policy appealing to moderate men of every section of the country, this party will put its foot upon sectionalism and prejudice of every kind, national or religious; and standing under the banner of protection, will fight the great battle before the electors, and in the hour of trial I am certain they will vindicate their policy, and consecrate the triumph of the national idea in the triumph of the National Policy.

Mr. Carroll—I sincerely congratulate the hon. gentleman who has just taken his seat on his eloquent speech. This is not the first time I have had occasion to admire the eloquence of the hon. gentleman. In 1891, when I was fresh out of Laval University, in Quebec, I had occasion to listen to the very eloquent remarks of the hon. gentleman, but then his remarks were in favour of the policy of the hon. leader of the Opposition.
