ALMOST DEAD.

“MILITARY CONDITION OF A YOUNG GIRL IN TORONTO.”

A Mysterious Illness—Doctors Were Unable to Give Her Any Relief—Her Uncle's Story of the Case

From the Toronto News.

The remarkable recovery of Cora Gray from a mysterious illness that baffled two of the best known physicians of West Toronto has been the subject of a good deal of talk among the residents in the neighborhood of Bloor street and Brunswick avenue. As it was expressively put by a neighbor, “she was all but dead, when suddenly she began to regain strength, and in a short time was out on the street with the color restored to her cheeks and the brightness to her eye.”

Learning of the case a News reporter called on her uncle, Alpheus Ramsay, who is the proprietor of the Bloor street shoe store, at the corner of Brunswick avenue, and with whom she has lived almost since infancy. On learning that his visitor was a reporter he was somewhat loth to speak of the case.

“Everybody about here knows of the case,” he said, “and I will be glad to tell any sufferer all about it, but I would rather not have it published.”

When the reporter pointed out that he was in a position to let thousands know and probably be the means of giving them information that would lead to their recovery, he began to hesitate, and finally, he gave a brief account of the girl's miraculous restoration. He said:

“My niece is more like a daughter to me. She has been in my care since she was a child, and when she was taken sick a few months ago I was heart-broken. I got two of the best doctors in the west end to prescribe for her, but their medicines made her worse instead of better. She laid in bed week after week, looking like a corpse, eating nothing, and apparently wasting away in a mysterious manner. Her blood was thin and poor, and almost every day there was a change for the worse. She could not take the doctor's prescriptions, for she sickened at taste of them. While I was in this state of worry and anxiety a man came around one day delivering pamphlets and he threw one into my shop. I picked it up and I read an exact description of the illness with which my niece was suffering. The remedy prescribed for the cure of the malady described was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I sent for a box and Cora took them in a mechanical kind of a way. Well, sir, when she had taken them four days a change came over her. She began to eat with a relish, and every day she seemed to gain fresh strength. She adhered faithfully to the directions, and took four boxes. By that time the roses had returned to her cheeks and she was a different looking girl. She discontinued taking the pills and later the same languid feeling began to creep over her, so she bought another box and is now as bright and well as ever she was.”

“That is the whole story,” added Mr. Ramsay. “There may not be much in it for others, but I believe these pills saved Cora's life, and while I am not anxious for publicity on her account, it may be that other sufferers will be benefited by hearing of this remedy. I cannot speak too highly of Pink Pills. I recommend them to everyone I know, and I take them myself.”

Mr. Ramsay is one of the best known men in his neighborhood. He is the superintendent of the Sunday school of Concord Congregational church, and has the confidence of the entire community among which he lives. He has spent two years in business at his present location and his business has grown so much that he is about to remove to larger premises in the Douglas block on Bloor street, near Bathurst.

His statements as to the young girl's condition are amply corroborated by residents of the locality, and up that way there is a boom in Pink Pills.

Any sceptic who has the inclination to visit Mr. Ramsay will be courteously received, no doubt, and the circumstances frankly related. His gratitude for his niece's recovery leads him to make the most enthusiastic statements regarding the efficacy of the remedy that saved his girl's life.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

Symptoms—Moisture: intense itching and stinging: most at night: worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S Ointment stops the itching and bleeding. Heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At drug stores, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lownan, Sons & Co., Montreal, wholesale agents.

How The Pigeons were Used.

The manager of an Antwerp daily paper sent a reporter to Brussels to take down the King's speech, and provided him with a brace of carrier pigeons to convey the report without any loss of time. On arriving at Brussels, the reporter went to a restaurant handed the pigeons to a waiter and ordered lunch. He was kept waiting a long time, but at last they brought him a rich “fricandeau” which made up for the delay. When he had finished his meal he paid the bill and asked for his carrier pigeons.

“Pigeons!” exclaimed the waiter, “why you have just eaten them!”—Household Words.

Children Cry for Sickroom Doubts.

Don't make unnecessary noise. Don't let doors squeak; oil them. Don't whisper. Don't make noticeable and exaggerated efforts at being quiet. Don't speak of similar cases with fatal terminations. Don't admit lachrymose visitors. Don't keep the room too hot. Don't forget frequent ventilation. Don't raise a dust. Don't forget to bathe the patient's face and hands frequently and wash the teeth and mouth. Don't give stimulants unless ordered by the physician. Don't wake patient from a sound sleep to administer medicine. Don't ask the patient “how he feels” every few moments.

Don't taste the patient's food with his spoon. Don't masticate loudly and cheerfully yourself while the patient is dieting. Don't prepare food in the sickroom. Don't ask the patient what he wants to eat. Don't let food stand by the bed. Don't have a table by the bed covered with soiled dishes and burned matches. Don't bring too much food at a time. Don't wet the bedclothing and dress in feeding the patient. Don't make him drink too fast. Don't leave bureau drawers open and shades crooked. Don't jar the bed. Don't rock vigorously and continuously. Don't introduce mournful and suggestive subjects. In a word, don't forget that a sick person, if conscious at all, is apt to have painfully acute perceptions and sensibilities on which trifles jar in a superlative degree.

It Must Be the Best.

Rev. W. H. Madill, Alton, Ontario:—“I received the bottle of K. D. C. and have given it a fair trial, and I can say it has done me more good than the hundreds of dollars worth of doctors, medicine that I have taken.”

The mildest as well as the worst forms of indigestion need a remedy, and that remedy is K. D. C. Free samples mailed to any address. K. D. C. Co., Ltd., New Glasgow, N. S., and 127 state street, Boston, Mass.

Strange Story of Crime.

One of the most remarkable stories of thwarted crime that we remember to have met with comes from India. A lady with her two children, who were both young, was going in her own ekka from Ramnagar to a place in the centre of the Bar tract.

The driver was an old servant of the family and was thought to be trustworthy. For this reason the lady did not think it necessary to leave her jewelry behind her. At a lonely part of the road the trustworthy servant stopped and ordered his mistress to pass her gewgaws along. She did so, not unnaturally, and then the man proceeded to bind her, preparatory to killing her.

At her request he agreed to kill the infants after he had dispatched their mother. He lifted the axe to strike the blow, but the head flew off and disappeared in the brushwood some yards away. By this time the lady was unconscious.

When she came to she found her husband leaning over her and undoing her fastenings. He explained that he had felt a dread as of some impending calamity, and so had followed her. In the thicket the trustworthy servant was found dead his body already blue, putrid and bloated. He had been stung by a Khagi snake whose bite paralyzes the victim on the instant and decomposes him in an hour.

Catarrh in the Head

Is due to impure blood and cannot be cured with local applications. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured hundreds of cases of catarrh because it purifies the blood and in this way removes the cause of the disease. It also builds up the system and prevents attacks of pneumonia, diphtheria and typhoid fever.

HOOD'S PILLS become the favorite cathartic with every one who tries them. 25c.

A Harlequin Hassock.

Procure seven tin cans such as are used for the preservation of vegetables; the quart size is best. Set one in the centre and place the remaining six close around it. Cut from pasteboard a foundation for the bottom, with six round sides corresponding to the shape of the cans. Fill the cans, which of course, are placed with open ends up, with excelsior or other stuffing, placing over the top a quantity sufficient to make the hassock soft. Cut from ticking or other strong cloth two pieces the shape of the pasteboard, one for the bottom and one for the top, allowing for the seam, and cut from a straight piece of the ticking a strip the depth of the can long enough to serve for the sides. Sew the pieces together over the cans, and you have a substantial harlequin hassock. A pretty cover may be crocheted of bright worsted in sections diverging from the centre, as a pie is cut each large enough to reach down over the sides of one can, or the cover may be made of furniture plush or of a remnant of carpeting.

Distressing Pain Cured.

DEAR SIR,—I can recommend Haggard's Yellow Oil for pain of any kind. It cured me of distressing pain that the doctors could not cure, and my doctor is a good one, too.
