THE CLARKSON

Remarkable Cure of Diabetes in Toronto.

Never III Before in his Life-Runs Down Thirty-One Pounds In five Weeks-Is Civen up-Takes Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured.

The Dodds Medicine Co.

Toronto, Oct. 12th. 1895

Gentlemen, -I am sixty-two years old past, and up to last June had never had a day's sickness in my life. It was then I began to feel distress in my back, suffered great thirst, had ravenous appetite, a dry mouth and coated tongue. I ran down in several weeks from one hundred and forty-nine pounds to one hundred and eighteen. My eye sight began to fail and for the first time in my life I began to look for a doctor. I also had to quit work, which I was never able to resume until cured by your Dodd's Kidney Pills.

I consulted two doctors and was treated by one of them for diabetes. The other concurred as to the nature of my disease, also pronouncing it diabetes, and said that I was firmly in its power.

Instead of going on with doctor's treatment, however I had read of cures effectby Dodd's Kidney Pills in cases I consider similar to my own, and decided to ves."

After a few doses I experienced the first relief from the constant misery, the scalding, and the frequent desire to urinate. I kept on using from one to two pills a day until I had used two boxes, and completely recovered my health in about seven weeks. I am perfectly cured and working as usual at my business, and have no occasion to take any more medicine.

JOSHUA CLARKSON,

114 Robert Street. Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only treatment that has ever been known to cure diabetes.

Wouldn't Take the Risk.

A travelling photographer had arrived at a village at the base of the Cumberland Mountains, and two or his first callers were a mountaineer and his wife, who wanted their tintypes taken. The husband thought it well to have a fair understand. ing of the matter at the beginning, and so he entered the gallery on wheels and asked:

- "How much fur two pictures?"
- "Fifty cents," was the reply. "Will yo' take a prime coonskin payment?"
- " Yes." "Will we look nateral?"
- "You will." "Kin I stand with my knife in my hand, as if ready to tackle a b'ar?"
- "You can." "Kin the old woman hev her hands clasped and her eyes rolled up, like some of them rich folks?"
- "If she wants to."
- "And yo' take all the risks?" "What risks do you mean?"

"Waal, I hain't purty nor proud, but the old woman is, and yo'll hev to take a twist out o' her nose, and shorten up her chin a leetle or she'll git right up after seein' the pictur' and light onto yo' like a turkey on a 'tater bug. The last feller that was here only survived two days after takin' her pictur' and I thought it was only squar' to tell yo' 'bout it."

The artist declined to take the risks, and the man picked up his coonskin and went out, saying :

"Can't blame yo', stranger-can't blame ye' a bit. Yo' don't want to be tore all to pieces and hev this wagon wrecked fur the sake of one coonskin. I'll git the old woman seven yards of kaliker, and she'll hev to roll up her eyes at that and let the pictur' go."-Detroit Free Press.

Could Hardly Speak.

SIRS - Last winter my father had such a cough he could hardly speak. He was persuaded to try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at last, and was completely cured by half of one box.

"Is the editor in?" "You kin bet yer store teeth he is! W'y, his aunt died las' night an' lef' him $40 a ol'oak bedstead, a cord er wood an' a merlodian, an' he jes' won 79 cents offen the foreman matchin' pennies! Is he in? Wa-al, sumthin'!"

The Cautious Man.

It was on the day trip of one of to Norfolk boats, and the stranger on deci moved about among the passengers wir a very evident desire to know who his fellow-voyagers were, yet with quite as evident a purpose not to commit himself by giving away incontinently to his curi-My dream and my meeting with the osity. After some time he found a man sitting off to one side, and with him he entered into conversation. They talked Washington and scenery and delights of river travel, and one thing and another for awhile, and then the cautious man got around to the subject which most inter-

> "There are some very nice-looking people aboard," he said, glancing around the deck, "and some not so nice-looking." "Yes," responded the other party, also glancing around.

"I'd like to know something about some of them," the cautious man proceeded; "but, being a stranger, I don't ike to ask too many questions. A man can't be too cautious, I think, when he is traveling, in making comments on his fellow travelers."

"I've heard about some very embarrassing cases," said the other party.

"So have I; and for that reason I' am so much more particular. Still, I'd like to know who some of these people are." "Who, for instance? I know a few of them, and I guess I'm safe enough to trust."

"Well," said the cautious man, assured by this, "there's a lady over there by the

"Which one? That one that is talking fourteen ways for Sunday?"

"She seems to be talking more than the law allows," ventured the cautious man. "The one that's got a dress on like a three-sheet circus poster, trimmed with rainbows and Easter eggs?"

"Yes," laughed the cautious man. "Complexion like a tanbark walk?"

"Rather." "A bonnet that would fade a carpet?"

"Unless it was a warranted carpet;

"Got a jaw on her that would cut a nail in two ?" " Yes."

"Acts like she owned the steamboat?" "Somewhat dictatorial, I should say." "Got a voice you could swarm bees

"Sounds that way at this distance," and the cautious man laughed with unction, for he loved to know about people.

The other party got up and took a more critical look at the lady in question.

"Do you know who she is?" asked the cautious man.

"Um-er." hesitated the other party. I seem to think I ought to, she's my wife. Come over and let me introduce yon. What did you say your name was?" But the cautious man hadn't said and didn't say, and he removed himself with such precipitancy that the other party laughed as though he enjoyed it .- Wash. ington Star.

Finished the Picture.

The painter Hawkins, at twenty years of age, was the center of acclamation But at the close of his life he is described as having lived in a fool's paradise, content with himself, and fattening on the empty praise he had won. The mischief lay in the fact that he was an excellent boon companion.

On one occasion he was asked by a Mr. Ackers, a member of parliament, to accompany him and one or two others to Paris, the host promising to give him a holiday and pay all his expenses.

Hawkins objected. "I'm busy on a picture," said he, " and I want to finish it for exhibition."

"Never mind that," returned Ackers, "Bring it with you and paint it there."

Hawkins yielded, as he always did in the end, and the picture was put into the carriage. As they were driving along, Mr. Ackers asked to be allowed to look at it, and, when it was uncovered, he said . "What do you want for it?"

'I shall want fifty pounds for it when it is finished," answered Hawkins. "Very well," returned the member of parliament, "I'll give it to you, and I'll 36 Bromfield Street. - Boston, Mass. finish the picture for you, too!" With that he kicked a hole through the canvas, and the artist was thus set free for an undisturbed jollification.
