and should you tire of the duty your Emperor will be ever ready to grant her the asylum she needs."

A week had passed away from the time of the strange scene just recorded. The former duke, Olga, had been convicted of treason, and was now on his way to the eternal wilds of Siberia. But let me say here, he never reached the land of his banishment. His proud heart broke on the road, and he died, unknown and uncared for, in a peasant's cot among the rugged mountains of Uralia. He had begged of the officer who guided him not to tell his station, and the peasants supposed they were burying a common traveler when they laid away the mortal remains of Olga in the cold grave they had prepared.

Savotano, the humpbacked priest, was executed as a common murderer, while his companions in crime were punished as their various degrees of guilt demanded. And now comes the closing scene.

Within the largest apartment of the ducal palace were assembled a brilliant company, and the Emperor himself was master of the ceremonies.

Ruric Nevel, the Gun-maker of Moscow, knelt at the Emperor's feet; and Peter drew his sword and laid the glittering blade upon Ruric's shoulders. And as he did so he said:

"Arise, Sir Ruric, Duke of Tula, and receive thy just titles and bounded instruments!"

The youth arose, pale and trembling with the strange excitement of the moment, and then the Emperor handed him a broad parchment roll, with its heavy seals and vignette bearing the arms of the dukedom.

"Now," cried Peter, whose brow was flushed with the joy he himself was making, "let the rest of the work go on. Come, holy father, we need your help to perform the rest of the ceremony."

Ruric was pale no longer. As he felt the warm hand of Rosalind trembling within his own the rich blood mounted to his brow and temples, and in his dark eyes the strange love-light danced like reflected sunbeams.

The word was spoken—the bond of union was made—and, after all, Rosalind Valadi had become Duchess of Tula. The widowed mother was the first to bless them—the Emperor came next. Then came Paul and Zenobie, hand in hand.

"Aha," spoke the happy Duchess, as she caught the new light of Zenobie's eye, and then turned to the glowing face of Paul, "you are playing at the game of Love."

"You will not object," whispered the fair girl hiding her face upon the bosom of her mistress.

"No, no, Zenobie."

"And you, my master," spoke Paul, gazing eagerly into Ruric's face—"you will not say nay."

"No, no, my noble Paul. If you can win her you have my consent."

But there was one more to come. Conrad, Count Damonoff, somewhat pale and weak, but yet on the sure road to health, moved slowly forward and took the hand of the joyous bride. Then he reached forth the other hand and took the palm of Ruric's, and as he thus held both their hands he said:

"My lord and lady—and, I must say, my best friends—let this moment atone for all of darkness between us in the past. Be you happy both—and may God bless you. Let me be accounted among your friends; and let the future prove how grateful I can be."

"Aye," cried Ruric, grasping the Count's hand more firmly, "let the future show how grateful we can all be for the blessings of this hour; and while we look to God for help we will not fail to remember in our prayers the author of our joys—our noble Emperor—Peter of Russia."

And so closed the scene as it should—with one long, loud shout of—

"God bless our Emperor!"

Peter never forgot that moment. In the long years thereafter, when he sometimes let the clouds of passion settle upon his soul, he remembered that scene and that shout. It was one of the bright spots in the memory of his youth which he cherished always.

THE END.

PEOPLE MAKE MONEY BY USING DIAMOND DYES.

In every section of Canada, Diamond Dyes are blessings and enable people to save money and make money. One user of Diamond Dyes says:—

"I have been using your dyes for seven years. I can only say they are the best on the market. I have made as high as $24 a week in dyeing, and could not give satisfaction unless I used Diamond Dyes. I would not be without them, for when I am without Diamond Dyes I consider I am without money."

Another user says:—My wife has thoroughly tested the Diamond Dyes, and they are better than any we have used. She used them according to directions, and we have washed the goods in strong soapsuds, exposed them to the piercing winds of our cold winter, and afterwards to bright sunlight, and they retain their beautiful fresh colors."

I'm back again from the long ago, with some fine weather and plenty of snow. I hope my friends will welcome me back, although my news is very slack. But such as it is you are welcome to it.

Mr. Artimus Hodnett has joined the list of benefactors this week, and has taken Miss Jessie Good to be his partner through life. We wish them every happiness, and hope that all their troubles may be "Little Ones."

Mr. William R. Knowles has erected another mill. Wind is the power this time. I am told it does very good work. No more tucksaw for you William, while the wind blows.

Miss Annie Freeze of Doaktown, is visiting her sister Miss F. Freeze, who has charge of the school here this term.

Mrs. R. W. Knowles is spending a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Ed. Jago, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Jago are to be congratulated on the birth of a daughter.

A surprise party was held at the residence of Mrs. Robert Knowles, on Shrove Tuesday, the 26th of Feb'y. A large number of people were present. Among the most prominent were Miss Bertha May Jeffus, Mr. Frank Robinson, Miss Alma Scott, Mr. Wm. Good, Miss Hannah Jeffus, Mr. Howard Good, Mr. Freeman Jennings, and Miss Gussie Chamberlain. The music was furnished by Mr. Miller, of Salmon Beach, and Mr. Robinson and Mr. Knowles, of Clifton, and Mr. Chamberlain, of Stone Haven. Dancing was kept up till the "wee sma" hours, when everyone went home feeling they had spent a very enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Good are to be congratulated on the arrival of another daughter. "Well done Nicholas."

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Smith, of Casobie, are rejoicing over the birth of a son.

The Rev. D. Richards held service in the English Church on Wednesday evening, the 5th of March. Quite a large congregation was present.

Where is my friend Connie this winter. The bears will soon be abroad. Why not he.

The Delineator for April is called the Spring Announcement Number, and is an excellent specimen of this most popular woman's magazine. Supplementary to the regular issue of patterns there is a timely article on Bicycling, with illustrations of Costumes, that will interest all lovers of the wheel. The papers on the Voice, which were interrupted by the illness of the author, are resumed; and there is begun a most practical series on Preservation and Renovation, the first instalment treating of the Putting Away and Care of Furs. Mrs. Roger A. Pryor writes very entertainingly on the Etiquette of First Calls and Introductions, giving the accepted usages and formulas; and the second paper on the Experiences of a Training School Life increases the interest already felt in the subject. The Dean of Barnard College contributes a charmingly written article on A Girl's Life and Work at the University of Chicago, of which she was a Fellow, 1893-'94; Belle Pierson Springer writes forcibly of Typesetting as an Employment for Women; and Sara Miller Kirby gives further instruction in Kindergarten Teaching. How to Make Dolls' Houses is shown in Crepe and Tissue Papers, new and exceedingly pretty designs are given in Venetian Iron Work, Knitting, Tatting, Netting and Crocheting, and the chapter on Burnt Leather Work gives illustrations and information of the necessary tools and implements and advice to beginners. The Cookery article gives recipes for some new dishes. There is a paper on the Serving of Pineapples and Grape Fruit, one on Table Decoration and the usual contribution on Floral Culture. Around the Tea-Table is bright and entertaining, Mother and Son is earnest and instructive, and a novel Salmagundi Party suggests a delightful evening's amusement. There is also a review of the Newest Books, some Instrumental Music and an Easter Carol. The subscription price of The Delineator is $1.00 a year. Single Copies 15 cents. Address all orders to the Delineator Publishing Co. of Toronto, (Ltd.), 33 Richmond Street West, Toronto, Ont.
