FAIL.

"I can cordially indorse Ayer's Hair Vigor, as one of the best preparations for the hair. When I began using Ayer's Hair Vigor, all the front part of my head—about half of it—was bald. The use of only two bottles restored a natural growth, which still continues as in my youth. I tried several other dressings, but they all failed. Ayer's Hair Vigor is the best."—Mrs. J. C. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR
PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., LOWELL, MASS.

Mr. Editor:

In a recent issue of your valuable paper, "One who knows," alias "Merchant," succeeds, in his second attempt, to reply to our article of April 20th. His communications, even after accepting as we do, the many trifling untruths, contain statements of grave importance, which have been written with very little regard to facts, most easily procurable, if not actually in his possession at the time. And, Mr. Editor, that the public may not be misled, and in justice to all concerned, we will through the columns of your paper endeavour to correct any false impressions that may have been occasioned by our friend's communication.

Our friend, "One who knows" in his article would lead us to believe that Michael McLaughlin & Co. (so styled) has by glittering promises obtained the desired support of the farmers to an enterprise, in which he will deceive them to satisfy his own selfish ends. This, my friend you know to be, in its entirety and in every particular, utterly false, a gross insult to the gentleman named as well as every farmer who supports him. For, in the first place we farmers know of no such firm as McLaughlin & Co., and have yet to be informed of its existence; and secondly, that McLaughlin did not, by false promises, etc., obtain the support of the farmers. He was chosen by them for the purpose of building a cheese and butter factory and operating same, and every step he has taken in the matter was with their full knowledge and unanimous consent. Whom they chose to select was a matter entirely their own, to be exercised at pleasure, and the gentleman chosen has reason to feel proud of the confidence reposed in him. Why none of your merchants or (supposed) influential men were chosen, shows their lack of confidence in you, and the sting so caused, explains the tone of your letter.

You state in your communication that the merchants had once helped the farmers and were now willing to repeat the dose. We do not deny that you may have once done a good deed and we can judge of its immensity to a needy farmer, but it was in your interest to do so, for it is the mutual interest man has in man that makes every man dependent on his brother man. It is upon the farmers particularly that your future depends. Their prosperity then is your prosperity, and if as you say, you are willing to repeat that beneficent deed, you can do so at no more opportune time than now. Discontinue at once and for all time your present course of sacrificing the farmers' interests to obtain your own, in your judgment. Without the aid of the farmer, remember, you can never prosper; co-operation then is your only recourse. You deal with ridicule the fact that a barn was rented into which to manufacture cheese. This was done with our highest approval, as we can now have the benefits of a cheese factory while the factory is being erected. The barn in question is a large one, comparatively new, and situated in a clear, open field. Having been used for nothing but the storage of hay and grain, it was easily put into a condition to manufacture cheese, which is now being done in full blast. Operations were commenced on Tuesday, the 4th of June, with 50 patrons and 2000 lbs. of milk which has been increased to date to 75 patrons and 3300 lbs. of milk, and this will doubtless be doubled before the end of the month. As you say, "One who knows," we have to go to a barn to get our milk manufactured into cheese and we shall continue to go until the new factory is completed. We have just another word to say to you, friend, before we change the topic. Should you ever again be troubled with cowboys before your eyes in the morning, just try an eye-opener in the shape of a gin-cocktail. It's grand, we've tried it.

We are sorry to see you laboring under the misapprehension that we were opposed to your building a factory. It is far from being the case. We have no objections whatever, to your building any number of cheese factories you may choose, provided you do so within your limits, viz., on your sand flat or adjoining the graveyard, and in this we feel safe in saying, we voice the sentiments of our farmers.

To our farmer friends we have this to say: Your success in this matter depends on your efforts individually and collectively. Let every man do his duty and do it well. Your welfare, yours and your families prospects and future depend, in a way, on this issue. Stand by your rights unflinchingly; support one factory and let that be your own. We all know that two factories cannot be run successfully. Division among you, therefore, is fatal unity, alone, success. Your factory is in the centre of one of the best dairying districts in the country, so make it the centre of your dairying operations and have it so.

FARMER.

Consumption Was Feared.

DEAR SIRS,—Over three years ago I was troubled with cough and really thought I would go into consumption. A friend advised me to try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and one bottle gave me great relief. After taking four bottles I can truthfully say I have never had a cough since.

Religious Parliament Extension

There is projected an "Extension," on a large scale, of the Chicago Parliament of Religions. In The Monist, the Hon. C. C. Bonney rehearses the objects of the Parliament, and regrets that criticisms of it have come chiefly from christians. But his faith in its power for good is unshaken. He says:

"The Parliament of Religions will live. Its influence will endure, and will extend throughout the world. It will finally accomplish its high mission to unite all religion against all irreligion, and make the Golden Rule the law of religious association and intercourse. Under that divine rule, mankind will realize, as never before, the truth that 'all religion has relation to life, and the life of religion is to do good.'"

Formal expressions of sympathy with the extension movement have been received from Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ireland, Joseph Cook, Bishop Arnett (A. M. E.), and many prominent leaders. Dr. Paul Carus, the editor of The Monist, who is the secretary of the extension movement, writes:

"It is to be hoped that the World's Religious Parliament Extension will contribute toward that common ideal of all religious minds which will at last unite mankind in one faith and prepare the establishment of a church universal. Rituals and symbols may vary according to taste, historical tradition, and opinion, but the essence of religion can only be one and must remain one and the same among all nations, in all climes, and under all conditions. The sooner mankind recognizes it, the better it will be for progress, welfare, and all international relations, for it will bring 'glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace toward the men of good-will.'"

"We can see as in a prophetic vision the future of mankind; when the religion of love and good will has become the dominating spirit that finally determines the legislatures of the nations and regulates their international and home politics. Religion is not for the churches, but the churches are for the world, in which the field of our duty lies. Let us all join the work of extending the bliss of the Religious Parliament. Let us greet not our brethren only, but also those who in sincerity disagree from us, and let us thus prepare a home in our hearts, for truth, love, and charity, so that the kingdom of heaven, which is as near at hand now as it was nineteen hundred years ago, may reside within us and become more and more the reformatory power of our public and private life."

"I AM PERMANENTLY CURED."

The Joyful Exclamation of Mr. Alexander Moffatt, of Millbrook, Ont.

Paine's Celery Compound Victorious After the Doctors Failed.

Mr. Moffatt is of opinion that all his sufferings and troubles had their origin in liver complaint, a terribly dangerous malady that dragging many a man and woman to the grave. This disease may be acute or chronic. In the acute form, there are violent burning pains conveyed to the shoulder and right arm, short cough, fever, irregular bowels and constipation. In the chronic form of liver complaint, there many morbid conditions, such as enlargement, softening, abscesses and degeneration. The symptoms are, weight in stomach, flatulence, nausea, bilious vomiting, loss of appetite, thirst, white and dry tongue, bitter taste, and a host of other miserable conditions.

Long experience has fully proved, that Paine's Celery Compound is the only medicine that can successfully grapple with the dread disease of liver complaint. Honest and able doctors are advising their patients to make use of Paine's Celery Compound for the great reason, that they know of no other medicine that gives such prompt and effective results. The cure of Mr. Moffatt amply proves every statement made in favor of Paine's Celery Compound, and clearly demonstrates the fact, that when physicians fail to cure, nature's medicine is sure to do the work. Mr. Moffatt writes thus:—

"Having been a sufferer for years from severe pain in the side, back and breast, caused, I firmly believe, by a sluggish liver, I received the treatment of eminent physicians, and was compelled to wear a fur coat summer and winter; I was also advised to wear a chamois vest, but nothing seemed to do me good.

"At last I was advised by kind friends to try Paine's Celery Compound; and after using six bottles, I find that I am permanently cured. Paine's Celery Compound has indeed done wonders for me. You may publish this for the benefit of suffering humanity."

The Marquis of Lorne spoke at Cambridge University on Thursday at a meeting called to establish a memorial to the late John Robert Seely, who was regius professor of modern history at Cambridge University. The Marquis said Prof. Seely's views on the expansion of Great Britain are now generally accepted. The British colonies must be looked upon as allies. These colonies were as independent as many foreign powers. The idea of an alliance must be inculcated, not the idea that the colonies belonged to Great Britain. Nevertheless Great Britain must oppose any policy that would let the colonies go to pieces. Mr. Gladstone, Prime Minister Rosebery, Mr. Balfour, the Earl of Derby and the Marquis of Lansdowne sent letters expressing sympathy with the object of the meeting.
