THE REVIEW

VOL. 6.

RICHIBUCTO NEW BRUNSWICK, THURSDAY JULY 25 1895.

THE GREAT NORTH SHORE ROUTE ! B The Best, Surest, Safest, Quickest Route by which to reach purchasers in the North Shore Counties of New Brunswick, is via

REVIEW THE

The regular news express to the homes of all the people, and most direct line to the pocketbooks of buyers everywhere.

See that your Advertisement is ticketed via THE REVIEW.

pathy.

The flies were so very busy. No doubt, as they buzzed in and out of the open window, they thought they were accomplishing a vast deal, though it did not seem so to the young couple who looked on. He was twenty-one, to be sure, and she only eighteen ; but at eighteen a girl believes herself a woman.

'He is thirty-nine,' said Mrs. Mereditn, Lord Gainsford myself.' And that is presmiling. 'That does not seem so venerable | cisely what she did six months later. to most of the world as it seems to you. Do you see anything else in him to complain of ?'

Board Horks Office

'I haven't thought. Why should I? He is very well, I suppose ; but I see no reason why I should care for him more than for another.'

very possibly she should be later.

dancing, and she sat on a low seat over prietary medicines being well known.

which some strange foreign plant leaned. An odor that seemed like incense burned at the shrine of some old-time god half A Strange Case of Tele- intoxicated her. She had charmed him seemed to her as if she could hear a voice from afar, saying, 'Wait !' And just then before she had spoken at all, her partner

PRIVATELY DISCUSSED.

Nontreal Physicians beginning Largely to Prescribe a New Remedy.

MONTREAL, July 15-There is still a 'Ah, well, you must know him better.' great deal of talk here among all classes And the opportunity was not long in over the recent despatches which appearcoming. It seemed as if fate were on the ed in so many Canadian papers, relative side of his lordship. Wherever the Mere- to the cure of G. H. Ken't, of Ottawa, slightly but not much deeper than that of diths went they were sure to meet him- from Bright's disease. Although the the others. As she went by us at railroad and he let it be seen clearly enough that it merits of the case have not been openly speed I was pleased to notice that she was was for Jasmyn's sake he had come. To discussed at any of the meeting of the receive, without seeking, what a score of medical society, there has been a great other girls sought vainly, had a distinct deal of private conference and the impres done on the third. She was soon round charm of its own. Why she was not in sion which the report of the recovery has love with him Jasmyn herself could not made is evidence in the fact that a good have told you. Indeed, she thought that many physicians have prescribed Dodd's Kidney Pills in their private practice. lost 22 minutes. Spinnakers were soon One night they were sitting out a dance No higher testimony than this could be set by all three and they presented one of she had promised him. He had persuaded given to any remedy, the reluctance of her to go into the conservatory instead of medical men to admit any good in pro-

> Yachting Notes From the Clyde (Special Correspondence Review.)

Monday the 1st July proved a better from the first, he said, and now he loved day for sailing than the preceding Saturher. Would she-at that very instant it day had done, but everyone was disappointed that the Valkyrie remained at her moorings. As it was a day of heavy a most exciting race. When they turned rain squalls it was decided not to race her for the run up the Ailsa seemed as if she for the next dance appeared and before in order that her sails might not suffer. were to give her old rival a good beating she had spoken at all, Lord Gainsford said, The Britannia and Ailsa sailed a very ex- but the Britannia soon showed she was citing and close race with plenty of wind. | not done for as she began to draw in hand a sportsman her owner luffed her up and waited for the other two. The three of them made a magnificent display as they started to beat to windward in a steady strong breeze, but it soon became apparent that the new boat was rapidly drawing away from the other two. She rounded the first mark in grand style 5 minutes ahead of the Ailsa while the Britannia was close behind the latter. As she reached across to the next mark her lee rail was just level with the water, slipping through the water without leaving any wake behind her like she had the mark with her boom off for the long 1 un up. The Ailsa followed next still 5 minutes behind while the Britannia had the most beautiful sights ever seen on the Clyde as they rushed along. End on they looked like immense white cloads. The Valkyrie's spinnaker boom is about 102 feet long and with that out to starboard and the main boom off to port for considerable over 100 feet the spread of canvass is something worth seeing. She was so far ahead that the others were practically out of it if the wind held, but they gave

NO.48

YET!

She listened, and then she said with a smile :

'Why you are a boy.'

'A wise boy,' he answered, 'who knows enough to love you; and who will have all the longer time in which to love you, because he begins early.'

'I am glad you are to be a lawyer' she answered, somewhat irrelevantly as it seemed to Robert Marsh.

'Why ?' he ventured.

And then she added : 'It takes a good while to get admitted to the bar.' 'It shan't take very long in my case, he answered, 'if you will promise me my reward for making haste.'

'Oh, yes,' she said ; 'I will come to court and hear your first plea.'

'What!' he cried. 'No, I want you to listen in private to my first argument, and be convinced by it.'

'Ah, but you are not a lawyer yet-you must wait.'

'You can keep me waiting as long as you please-it is for you to say-but I have told you that I love you. You can't get away from that. I'll trust you to remember, and when any other man tells you the same story, I-I will be his judge. You shall think of my love and my words and you shall ask yourself whether he loves you as well.'

Jasmyn smiled a little at this outburst, and then she said with air of sweet tolerance: 'Dream your dream, gentle youth ; it may keep you from some worse folly. 'And you will not even be here for class day ?' 'No; we sail on Saturday. My mother is sighing for Mayfair.'

'And this is good-by ?'

He looked for a moment into her eyes His lips were athirst for her-but he knew her too well to venture on anything she would have the right to resent. He contented himself with a hand clasp; but there was a tone in his voice she would not soon forget, as he said : 'You will remember !"

* Three years went by, and still Mrs. Meredith and her daughter had not returned to America.

Jasmyn was a social success, even in London, where there were so many fair competitors; but she deftly managed to avoid proposals for the most part; and when she had to say no, to say it so gently as to make no enemies. Her mother had with that cool self possession that belonged to his age and rank, 'I shall see you toious. morrow.'

That night sleep did not come to Jasmyn. She lay with wide open eyes, vaguely wondering. What could she say to Lord why not?

room opened its windows to the stars and to the infinite night, and she looked far off, as perhaps we all shall look when death has taken us by the hand and led us far away from what we now call life. She saw a young man writing. She did not know how his letter began, but she read On the 2nd round her enormous topsail these words :

twenty-one. You can no longer call me a boy. I was admitted to the bar a year ago. I have succeeded so well that in October I shall make my first important plea. Remember that you promised to hear it. I will cross the sea and bring you back in time. I shall be with you almost as soon I am unchanged.'

seemed to her that suddenly the windows that had opened to the vastness of the night Britannia and Ailsa slipped aleng without of the other boats. were closed and she was alone.

What did it all mean? She was not asleep. It was no dream. Plainly as if she had held the sheets in her own hands she had read those written words. Could it be that she had cared for him all along he wishes to have judging from the past race the Eucharis Fife's new boat won. more than she knew? And he would be on his way to her-perhaps almost at once. She should see him. hear him, understand, of boat, but if she stands up better to the In Friday's race the Zintha was most unperhaps, by what unknown power this breeze in a heavy blow, the chances are, fortunate. She crossed the line a few vision had been vouchsafed. How should one cannot help thinking, that the cup seconds before the gun was fired and failshe answer Lord Gainsford to-morrow? Then, once more, as if from some farthest star, she heard, as she had heard in the her topsail is reduced in size it may make but of course was disqualified and lost the conservatory, the one word-'Wait !' She would decide nothing until she knew. She turned on her side and drew a long, calm breath, and then sleep, the decided to allow the skippers to sail the delinquent, kissed her parted lips and led boats for fear of a repetition of the sad her at last into dreamland.

The next day Lord Gainsford pleaded sent to the bottom. his own case.

said 'I will answer you then.' If I say can boat very easily. These two met sary article of wear then. anything to-day it must be 'No.' I do again on the 4th but the Stars & Stripes you give me time, or shall it end here ? so that it was really not a test as they lay ever witnessed on the Clyde. The enthusto Mrs. Meredith. Mrs. Meredith was his times. safe as we'l as a sympathetic confidante. know.

The old champion was once more victor- over hand and when about half way up again under very favorable auspices for a fair trial as there was a good steady breeze Gainsford ? Could she love him-and of fair force all day. The result of this day's racing proved a sad disappointment

Then suddenly it seemed to her as if the to everyone as the Valkyrie was never in front from start to finish. The Britannia beat her badly while the Ailsa was also too many for her. The wind was never too heavy to throw the Britannia and Ailsa down much but it heeled the Val kyrie so that some of her deck was under. was taken off and she then did better 'I am twenty-four now and you are work, but was not able to draw up to the other boats. Considering that she has to allow the Britannia 4 minutes and 2 seconds she was badly beaten. Her defeat is being explained by some by the assertion that she was not being sailed for all she was worth. That may be true to a certain extent, but the fact remains that as this letter. I have obeyed you hitherto she showed clear evidence that she was in keeping silence. I write now because carrying too much sail as she did much did not make her heel over much more I wish you to know before we meet that better when relieved of the pressure of her topsail. The enormous wave which And when she had read thus far it she threw up was another ugly feature.

any fuss. The knowing ones are shaking their heads over the performance but considerable difference to her.

The race on the 3rd should have been sailed with amateurs steering, but it was mishap of last year when Valkyrie II was

'If you will wait two weeks,' Jasmyn first race that day and defeated the Ameri- on. A cork jacket would be a very necesnot feel that I understand myself. Will were victorious. The wind was very light kings" was probably one of the finest Of course he gave her time. He turned becalmed for an hour or so at different senior by three years ; therefore she was a On the 5th the Valkyrie and Ailsa had Vigilant round the course, but the display a friendly trial of speed. The Britannia of sailing was finer. There were some 50 The two weeks were not over ; in fact, was to have tried against the new cutter different yachts competing and besides only nine days had passed, when a letter but was prevented by some necessary re- these hundreds of others, both steam and came to Jasmyn in a hand she used to pairs being required to her gear, so the sail, dotted the Firth. There must have Ailsa took her place. There was a moder- been at least 20 large steam yachts all of And that same day Robert Marsh fol- ate steady breeze. The result was an easy them sumptuously fitted up. We estilowed his letter. Then Jasmyn Meredith victory to the Valkyrie. She won by 15 mated that at least one million sterling knew for the first time her own heart's minutes over a course of about 10 miles. worth of pleasure craft was represented. On Saturday the 6th the Royal Clyde It is reported that the Valkyrie will The next day she told her mother that held their first day's racing. The day not race again, but that she will be fitted she had made up her mind. Naturally proved an ideal racing day with a steady with a light set of spars and be sent off to Mrs. Meredith did not like it but she was wholesail breeze from the south without America so as to have plenty of time to helpless. John Meredith had left his any sea. The course of 50 miles included get into good trim before the grand fortune to be equally divided between his going dead to windward first then a long struggle in September. Every yachtsman daughter and his wife, and after Jasmyn reach, then a run before it ending with a over here will be anxious to hear how the was twenty-one she was absolutely her reach. At the start the Britannia and Defender does in her trial spins with the Vigilant, as a pretty fair guess can then own mistress. Mrs. Meredith would fain Ailsa crossed the line before the gun was be made of Valkyrie's chances. Lord have been mother-in-law to a lord, but fired and were recalled. The Valkyrie Dunraven has shown so much pluck that there was nothing to be said against Robert would have gone on without them and he deserves to win that "blessed pot" as Marsh, so she quietly resigned herself to have thus gained from two to three min- it is sometimes styled. Glasgow, July 8th, 1895. utes of a start, but with the true spirit of

they were sailing side by side and round-

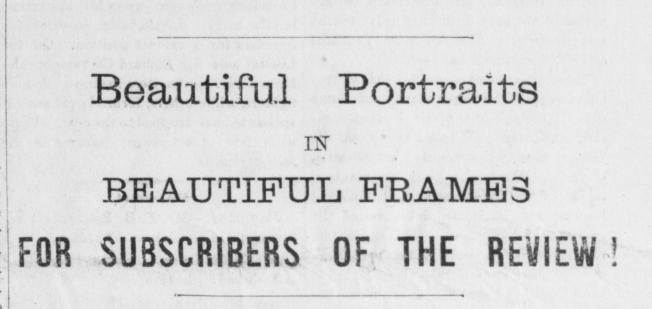

On the 3rd the three big cutters met ed the flag boat together. The Valkgrie had added two minutes to her lead by this time. The wind had softened a little in the run up but freshened again and this favored the hind boats as they got the fresh puffs considerably before the leader. In the reach up to the flag boat finishing the first round she gained again and went round 12 minutes and 12 seconds ahead of the Britannia who had gained 1 minute and 9 seconds on the Ailsa between these two marks. The wind came awry fresher and the second round was sailed in splendid style. The Valkyrie finished 18 minutes and 26 seconds ahead of the Britannia and the latter was 1 minute and 20 seconds ahead of the Ailsa.

The weather was almost identical with the weather that the cup races have heretofore been sailed in America so that if the same conditions hold good this year The breeze seemed just to suit her and it than the other boats. She gained steadily throughout, but undoubtedly her strong point is in windward work. She can

There were a number of other races Our prices are :-sailed on Saturday, but naturally the Lord Dunraven is said not to be put out. greatest interest centred in the big one. She is undoubtedly a very fast fair wea- The forties had a very exciting race and ther boat and that is the kind of boat that kept close all through. In the 20 tonners attempts to win the cup. The Defender The Niagara had given up as a protest had will in all probability prove the same kind been entered against her by the Zinita. will remain where it is. A bigger main- ed to notice she was recalled. She came sail is being made for the Valkyrie and if in ahead after a splendid display of sailing prize.

Ten oneraters sailed a very exciting race. They are all alike so much that they bore numbers on their sails to distinguish them. They are racing machines pure and simple and of no earthly use as boats, but they go at a great speed. Sailing them must Fife's new twenty-tonner sailed her be rather exciting if there is the least sea

> Saturday's display of "the sport of iasm was nothing like what was evoked last year when the Britannia showed the

GREATEST OFFER

We have made arrangements for the preparation to our order of

FIRST-CLASS CRAYON FORTRAITS

she should give a good account of herself. of such of our subscribers as may desire them, or may wish to order those of their friends. Every portrait will be enclosed in a handsome

GILT AND OAK FRAME

Her wake was like a steamboats, while the point much higher in the wind than either 26x30 inches. These pictures are equal and in some respects better than those which have been selling at from five to seven dollars each.

THE "REVIEW" AND PORTRAIT,	3.75
SUBSCRIBERS WHO HAVE ALREADY PREPAID THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS MAY
OBTAIN PORTRAIT FOR	2.75
SUBSCRIBERS IN ARREARS ON PAYING SAME AND ONE YEAR IN ADVANCE
WILL BE FURNISHED WITH PORTRAIT FOR	2.75

We require photograph of the person whose portrait is to be furnished-the photograph in all cases to be returned uninjured when the picture is delivered.

Payment of $1.00 must, in all cases, be made when portrait is ordered and the balance when it is delivered.

NO SUBSCRIBER WILL BE REQUIRED TO ACCEPT A PICTURE HE IS NOT SATISFIED WITH.

These portraits are unexcelled as faithful likenesses. They are done by artists who have been selected from those foremost in their line in Boston, and no more suitable or artistic adornment for parlor or drawing-room can be found. Belonging, as they do, to the class of work which give tone and rich effect to a room, they ought to be found in every household. Our arrangements admit of our furnishing as many portraits as a subscriber may have members in his family at the rate of $2.75 each.

not interfered hitherto. Mrs. Meredith was too wise a woman not to hasten slowly : but now the time seemed to her to have corre when a son-in-law would be desirab 'You'are twenty-one now,' she said to Jasmyn.

'Yes, Mumsie. Of course you can easily remember my birthday, since you, also are a Mayflower.'

'Yes, and a year before I was twentyone I had married your father. He never caused me but one sorrow, and that was when he died. I wish you as happy as my own, and I think you are old enough to marry &

'Yes, and mother continued musingly 'Perhaps you have not seen, but I, who have lived twice as long as you, can see clearly that Lord Gainsford is only waiting his opportunity to ask you to be Lady Gainsford.'

'That old fellow !' cried Jasmyn, irreverently.

secret.

the inevitable.

'You deserve,' she said to Jasmyn, with a little vexed laugh, 'that I should marry

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

WE GUARANTEE THE WORK

to be as represented.

PHOTOGRAPHS YOUR SEND

accompanied by $1.00, for which you will receive THE REVIEW-the portrait to be ready within a fortnight of receipt of photo. Sample portrait can be seen at this office. Address the Editor of

The Review,

Richibucto, N. B.