RICHIBUCTO, N. B., JAN. 16, 1895

THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.

At the session of the Municipal Council held last week, a large amount of very important work was dispatched. The volume of work was unusually large and it was conscientiously performed. While the claims of individuals were given a just consideration, the interests of the municipality were not overlooked.

Few people who are not in the habit of attending the session of the council have the faintest idea of the great amount of work this body has to put through its hands. Some there are who think their annual meeting a veritable picnic. But if any one will take the trouble to follow these gentlemen through the session, this illusion will, in all likelihood, vanish like dew in the summer sun. If we consider all the investigations, in the council and out, in the committee room, the visits for the purpose of examining public buildings, etc., their interviews with private individuals, and the thousand other duties requiring their attention, we will see that they scarcely get time to eat their meals. On the table of the finance committee alone, nearly a horse load of bills, reports, etc., was laid, and all this received the best attention of that committee. The remuneration ($1.50 per day) is simply to cover or partly cover their expenses while in town, and their services at these sessions as well as all throughout the year, may be said to be given to the county gratuitously.

That some members of the board possess more ability than do others is a fact too patent to be disputed. This occurs in all bodies. Natural ability, education, experience, etc., go to make the difference. Comparisons are odious, and we shall not attempt to point out the relative abilities of individual members of the board, but we shall express the opinion that every man on the board performed his arduous duties conscientiously and in the best interests of the municipality. Nor was any just claim of any individual overlooked. Every person who had any claim upon the county was treated with the utmost consideration, and where the claim was thought to be just it was promptly ordered to be paid. No personal feeling was permitted to bias their decisions in any case. If our judgment is not at fault, the affairs of the municipality could not be placed in better hands than in the present board, comprising as it does some very able men.

Ontario is yearly becoming a more sober province. In 1884 the committals for drunkenness were one to 400 of the population, whereas for the past year they were one to 900. This is a decrease of sixty per cent., but, as the Montreal Witness points out, Quebec makes a very different showing. Ten years ago the convictions for drunkenness in that province were one to 896, and to-day they are one to 339. Thus while Ontario is improving Quebec is retrograding. This is no doubt due in a large measure to the illicit trade in that province.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell as a Printer

The Calgary Herald has an interesting little story to tell of the premier, showing that he took a hand in getting out the first issue of that paper, eleven years ago. The circumstances were these: "The Herald was started in a tent down near the Elbow, by a gentleman who is now again a member of its staff. Mr. Bowell, then Minister of Customs, with ex-Governor Atkins, of Manitoba, with the lady members of their families; Mr. Mingay, late Collector of Customs, and, we think, Commissioner Johnson, of Ottawa, remained over at Calgary on their way to the end of the line, at that time Morley, 40 miles west of here. The future Premier of Canada came into our canvas sanctum as we were laying out the office, and seeing the 'pickle' we were in, threw off his coat rolled up his sleeves, and came gallantly to the rescue, doing invaluable service in assisting to set up the old Washington press, on which the Herald in those pioneer days was printed, and also 'sticking' some of the type for the first issue." From which our contemporary draws this pointed and practical moral:

"The moral of the above bit of history in the light of subsequent events is plain. If you aspire to be Premier of your country, your first care should be to help the printer. If you can't set type for him, the next best thing is to subscribe for his paper, and pay in advance."

Kent County Court.

The January term of the Kent County Court opened here Tuesday. Judge Wedderburn, in the absence of Judge Wells, presided. The following jurors were in attendance:—Adam Coates, Jaddus V. Leger, Joseph F. Richard, Thomas Burns, Wm. Whiten, Joseph Bernard, Henry Hickey, Malcolm McKinnon, Francis M. Richard, Robert Murphy, Maxim Daigle, Alexander Murray. The following civil cases were entered for trial:—

Hugh M. Ferguson, vs. John R. Reid, executor of Joseph Reid, deceased. C. Richardson for plaintiff, H. H. James for defendant.

George K. McLeod, vs. Beloney Miller. Wm. D. Carter for plaintiff, Geo. W. McInerney for defendant.

Geo. K. McLeod, vs. Robert Graham. Wm. D. Carter for plaintiff, Geo. V. McInerney for defendant.

Joon W. Harnett, vs. James A. Jardine, executor of Alexander Roxborough, deceased. Phinney & Carter for plaintiff, C. Richardson for defendant.

Water Your Horse Often.

Feeding a horse principally on grain and driving it five hours without water is like giving a man salt mackerel for dinner and not allowing him to drink before supper time—very satisfactory for the man. If you know anything about the care of horses and have any sympathy for them, water them as often as they want to drink—once an hour if possible. By doing this you will not only be merciful to your animals, you will be a benefactor to animals, as they will do more work, look better and live longer. If you are a skeptic and know more than anyone else, you are positive that the foregoing is wrong, because you have had horses die with watering them too much, and boldly say that the agitators of frequent watering are fools in your estimation, and you would not do such a thing. Just reason for a moment and figure out whether the animal would have overdrunk and overchilled his stomach if it had not been allowed to become overthirsty. A driver who sits in his wagon and lashes his worn-out, half-curried, half-fed, half-watered team deserves to be punished as a criminal.

The Sunday School.

The Sunday School being an important department of the Christian Church, it is conceded by the best workers that there is no part of the year when it can reasonably be laid aside. In other countries there has been great progress in evergreen Sunday Schools. With a view to encouraging the winter Sunday School work in Kent Co., the Field Secy. has spent the past week in grouping parishes or districts in Conventions.

On Sunday he was at McLaughlin Road. Under encouragement given in the past both schools there are open this winter. On Monday the unfavorable weather did not prevent a very profitable Convention at Scovill's Mills. That district includes the schools of St. Mary's and Dundas parishes together with Scotch Settlement in Westmorland Co.

Supts. and teachers acknowledged the two sessions were of a practical nature, encouraging and strengthening them for their work. They asked for another Convention at McLaughlan, in the month of April.

On Tuesday the Wellington parish Convention was held in the Methodist Church at Buctouche. Mr. H. A. West of Scovill's Mills, presided and helped the work. Judging from reports which Supts. gave the Sunday School work is not at a high standard. The Field Secy. showed the principles in facts stated, and gave instructions calculated to revive this form of Christian work. Revs. Messrs. Jack, McKay, and Ramsay shared in the exercises. The members asked for the next Convention at Little River if possible in April, to give impetus to the work for spring. It is hoped that the people of Buctouche, Black River, Mill Creek, Dixon Point and Coatesville will avail themselves of its help.

Failure of the B. & M. train to make its promised connection with I. C. R., frustrated the Convention at Harcourt on the 9th. But on the 10th at Bass River, an encouraging meeting was held. Mr. Wm. Marshall occupied the chair and addresses were delivered by the Field Secy. on various phases of Sunday School work.

Rev. W. J. Fowler and F. W. Murray, were present and took part in the meeting. Reports were given by Messrs. Alex. Mundie, Wm. Marshall and Miss Mary Warman. The evening meeting was especially helpful. The day school teacher Mr. G. A. Coates was present and took part. It is believed that the school at Bass River will reopen at an early date under the stimulating words of the Field Secy. and others present. The pastor is especially desirous that this school shall be evergreen. There is no lack of pupils.

On Friday, 10th, Richibucto parish Convention was held in the Presbyterian Church, at Kingston. Perhaps some made the rainy day an excuse for non-attendance. This was a loss to themselves and their work. Mr. R. Main was elected president for this year, Mr. Bowser vice-pres., and Miss Minnie Bowser secretary. The exercises both of afternoon and evening sessions were of a thorough practical nature, educative, devout and inspiring to better life and work. The pastor—Rev. W. Hamilton took an active share in the exercises.

The addresses, Normal Lessons, hints suggestions, etc., given in these parish conventions form a leaven of the best kind to our rising childhood and youth through the teachers who attend.

They aim also to strengthen the hands of every pastor in his work for young or old. The Field Secretary's long experience as a faithful pastor enables him to enter into their trials, and to train teachers and others to be better pastors helpers. Truly this Association work is proving itself a valuable auxiliary to all other forms of church work.—Com.

JAN. 14th.—The roads are very wet just at present, but that did not prevent a party of young people driving to the bush lately.

Mrs. John Campbell intends leaving for Lynn, Mass., in a few days to visit her son Angus.

Mr. J. where are you and your seven girls? I hear one of them is going to elope with one of your masculine friends. It is well to be you J., for two or three of your friends are pinning their lives away for a consort.

Now T. that was mean of you to scrape the snow off that dangerous piece of ice, so that a young lady while going home fell. But she was more frightened than hurt. Be careful next time J.

Times are even duller than usual. The roads are getting very soft which greatly prevents travel. Still John gets to the "Post Office" even more frequently than ever, and Lodie has been the recipient of a very handsome pair of curling tongs.

Mr. John Cadagan, while descending the post office stairway the other evening, (no doubt at an unusual late hour, for darkness prevailed below) missed his step and came headlong to the pavement below. He sustained severe injuries about the head and shoulders. Doctor Dave Richard, who has come home recently on a visit from Pittsburg, Mass., is in attendance. He is recovering rapidly. Lodie says she don't care.
