with a colicky baby or a colicky stomach isn't pleasant. Either can be avoided by keeping a bottle of Perry Davis' PAIN KILLER on the medicine shelf. It is invaluable in sudden attacks of Cramps, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. Just as valuable for all external pains.

Dose—One teaspoonful in a half glass of water or milk (warm if convenient).

To the Editor of The Review:

DEAR SIR.—Would you kindly print the enclosed verses in THE REVIEW, which I copied from the Wesleyan of the 14th inst. and oblige,

A SUBSCRIBER.

The Burial of Jesus, by Rev. Mr. Clarke, D. D. Bishop Rhode Island.

No plaintive hymn or word of prayer Comes floating on the evening air; No priestly voice, with sacred rite, Breaks on the stillness of the night; Nothing relieves the solemn gloom, That gathers round the rich man's tomb.

It is the funeral of a King! And yet no muffled vespers ring; The funeral of the King of Kings! And still no earthly monarch brings A royal retinue to swell The honors of his burial.

Down in his grave, with less parade, No humble man was ever laid, A few poor wretched women weep, Looking on Him in His calm sleep; One of His own disciples there, The service of the dead to share.

With hastened hand and hurried stir, Men placed the spices and the myrrh Within the linen cloth that's wound His scarred and sacred body round; And then, with reverent step, they lay His precious, mangled form away.

The work is done and all is still— The empty cross upon the hill Casts its dark shadow on the ground; The Paschal moon illumines the mound Where Jesus sleeps, secure from harm, Beyond the reach of hostile arm.

In the lone garden where he lies, No sounds from human voices rise, But angels chant their anthems here, Unheard by any mortal ear; Watching all through the night alone— Waiting to roll away the stone.

—Yar. Herald.

A BOON TO HORSEMEN.—One bottle of English Spavin Liniment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or caloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, swellings, stifles and sprains.

The Kissing of Stones.

Around the centre of Jerusalem, where the religious growths of centuries gather like crystals around a rod, a half-sedentary, half-floating population is to be found, whose chief object is the pursuit of piety and the veneration of the traces of Jesus, the Nazarene. Here is a world within a world—a Christian picture in a Moslem frame. In this city, where the religion of Mohammed, thirteen centuries ago, overcame that of Christ, and where, at present, its followers prevent the rival Christians from fighting for the possession of the venerated spots, we have a little area of ground which has been arranged by the sects of Christianity to suit the brief descriptions of the Testament, but in which no single place exists that can be proven to have been the scene of the events ascribed to it.

All things which are offered for veneration are venerated in this place of faith, where both native and European Christians become seized with what I am constrained to term a lithophilic mania, since they are seen to be constantly engaged in kissing enshrined stones of the most doubtful authenticity.—The Fortnightly Review.

Japanese Whiskey.

"Saki" is the name of a Japanese alcoholic beverage distilled in some way from the wine of the country which is said to have effects as much more bewildering than Mexican pulque as the effects of pulque are more bewildering than those of lager beer. It is remarked that the variety of whiskey known as "Jersey lightning" is as new milk compared to the "saki" of Japan. It makes a man drunker, stays by him longer, produces tremors of a more vivacious character, and brings total alcoholic eclipse of the intellect more rapidly than any other brew or distillation known to mankind. That is, other people are affected that way. It does not affect seriously the Japanese, who drink it moderately. It has been introduced recently in the Sandwich Islands, and the natives are crazy after it. Experts express the opinion that it will settle the Hawaiian question permanently in from a year and a half to two years.—Chicago Herald.

Acting through the blood, Hood's Sarsaparilla not only cures scrofula, salt rheum, etc., but gives health and vigor to the whole body.

For Health And Beauty.

The room in which one sleeps is the room in which one breathes and absorbs air, whether it be pure or impure. A dust-laden atmosphere will clog up the lung in a very short time and bad air will lay the seeds of consumption, fevers, and all horrors which flesh is heir to and which come through neglect of the simple laws of life as anything else.

The ideal bedchamber is airy. It opens on free air and is bathed in sunshine all day. It has matting on the floor and if the occupant is an anaconda by nature a rug of fur or wool flung in the centre of the room. The windows are securely screened from cracks by well-fitting frames and weather strips and so obviate the necessity for heavy draperies, which accumulate dust and disease germs. The muslin curtains which adorn the windows, hung on slender brass rods, are washed as soon as they are at all dusty. The furniture is to suit the occupant's fancy, but is not too cumbersome to be easily moved and frequently dusted. Hygienic wall paper which can be wiped off with a damp cloth covers the walls.

The bed is of brass or iron, without draperies, with spring hair mattresses, and no flat bolsters, no pillows. The bedclothes are light and warm, blankets being used instead of heavy quilts.

In the healthful apartment the occupant sleeps from 12 to ten hours, going to sleep before 10, and here the gas is turned out and the window opened for fifteen minutes every night before the sleeper goes to sleep.

In the morning an hour's airing with the windows open is not too much for the healthful woman's room. The matting should be wiped up with a damp cloth every day or every other day, and the dust should be fought as one would death or disease—not only for appearance and happiness' sake but for health and beauty's sake, too.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

South American Rheumatic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. For sale by W. W. Short, druggist, agent for Kent Co.

Respect For the Mother.

Mark the young man who is coarse and disrespectful to his mother. No roseate pathway can be hers who shall sustain to him the relation of wife. Not the happiest will be the lot of those who shall come to his children. Not to be envied is the neighborhood even in which he must be reckoned as a citizen. It does not matter what the mental status of that mother is, how old, how bent, how decrepit, the man to whom she is mother owes to her gentleness, tenderness, and consideration. Did she fall back and did the children with superior advantages pass her in the race? But think of her toil and trial, her devotion and denial, her mind and years that she gave that the children might derive the benefit. Think of her sacrifice—no wonder if she fell behind with her heart in her home, in buds that were hers. There is no rank, no station, no condition that may exempt a manly man from a kind regard for a mother. Much might we learn from pagan China Japan in filial tenderness and respect.—Pittsburg Despatch.

Are We Well-Mannered?

I suppose no one of us likes to be told that we are not well-mannered, writes Mrs. Lyman Abbott in the February Ladies' Home Journal. Yet, what one of us is free from all charge of misconduct? I do not refer to those lapses from etiquette which are the result of ignorance of those unwritten rules of society which every community makes for itself, but to a disregard of those social laws which have their foundation in character. And, after all, how many of the much-sneered-at ordinances which politeness lays upon us are really founded on deep and noble principles. Courtesy is but the expression of kindness. Table manners are much transgressed, not simply by eating with the knife and drinking from the saucer, not by offending the taste, but by wounding the heart by sarcastic and contemptuous remarks thoughtlessly uttered, and, quite as often by indifference and inattention. One may say that the heart should not be wounded so easily, but if the heart be hardened so that it does not feel wounds it will soon become too hard to feel and express sympathy.

Jules D'Estimauville Clement

writes from Montreal: "I was suffering from skin disease, and after all drugs failed tried Burdock Blood Bitters, of which three bottles restored me to good health. I recommend it also for dyspepsia."
