

To Answer For Murder.

New York, July 8.—On board the Clyde Line steamship Algonquin, which reached her pier at 12 30 o'clock this morning were two prisoners who have figured in one of the most sensational murder cases that have occurred in recent years.

The prisoners are Thomas Gray and his wife, Hetty Gray. Both are Canadians, and the murder for which they are to be tried was committed in Canada. They are in charge of the Canadian policemen. J. W. Murray the Chief of the Provincial detective force, is the man who traced the fugitives to Florida, and who told the story of the arrest and crime to a reporter for the New York Times.

David Scollie, the murdered man, he said, lived in the little hamlet of Peterborough in the Province of Ontario. He was a bachelor, well advanced in years owning a large farm and very well to do. Near him resided the Gray family, Thomas, wife, and six children. They rented a small farm and had a hard struggle to get along.

One day, it seems, Mrs. Gray persuaded her husband to make old man Scollie a proposition. It was that he give to the Grays the use of the farm which he owned, they, in return, to care for him during the rest of his natural life.

The lonesome old bachelor readily assented. The willingness with which he accepted the proposal made Mrs. Gray vexed with herself because she had not had her husband demand more. She finally induced him to see Scollie again and ask that a deed of gift of all his property be drafted, transferring the farm and its belongings to the Grays, at the time of his death.

Significantly enough, Scollie acceded to that also. The deed was duly drawn and registered, and Scollie came to live with the Grays.

That was four years ago. Several months after his arrival Mrs. Gray became impatient for the possession and control of the property and openly expressed a wish that the benefactor of the family would hurry up and die. He did not die, however, and moreover, showed no signs that he would do so for many years.

Mrs. Gray is then alleged to have said to her sister, a Mrs. McGregor, who lived near by, that she believed it would be no harm to kill the man. Mrs. McGregor was shocked, and told her sister that she must not talk like that, and told her that the law would surely bring her to an account. It is said that Mrs. Gray replied: "Suppose I kill him and then burn the house, who will know anything about it?"

About a year after the alleged conversation the McGregors were aroused at 2 o'clock in the morning by one of the Gray children knocking at the door. The child said her mother had sent her to say that the house was on fire.

Mr. McGregor hurried to the blazing building and met Mrs. Gray on the road. She had a bundle under her arm and tried to persuade McGregor not to venture into the burning house. He did however, and aided by neighbors, found the body of Scollie. Flames had not reached it, but the head had been severed and was missing. It is now believed that it was in the bundle which the woman had under her arm.

It appears that none of the suspicious circumstances which led to the death of Scollie came out until the insurance people began to ask questions. They found that the house had been insured for five times its actual value, but they did not discover that until the Grays had collected the insurance, disposed of the farm and disappeared.

Detective Murray was placed on the case, and for nearly a year he was endeavoring to find the fugitives. He at last located them in Florida, and found them in hiding near Ocala. Requisition papers were secured, and the man and wife arrested.

The detective will take his prisoners to Canada, by an early train today. They spent the night on board the Algonquin, which came from Charleston, S. C. Gray and his wife have been indicted of arson and murder in the first degree.

The Bewitched Horse.

A curious story is told in the Cyclist-Beige Illustrate. Several years ago, when cycles were absolutely unknown in those parts, a cyclist arrived at a country inn and requested something to eat as he and his horse had covered a good distance that day. "But where is your horse?" asked the hostess, who had never seen a cycle. When the guest showed her the cycle, she came to the conclusion that he was a madman. The price, who was just passing, being appealed to, entered into conversation with the cyclist, who continued to talk about his good horse, which never took nourishment, and was satisfied with a few drops of oil. The priest sent for the policeman, who after having seen the cyclist manipulate his iron horse, thought that the man was a sorcerer. The priest commenced to pray, and, finally, the unfortunate cyclist was locked up and his bewitched horse was placed in a stable. Three days elapsed before the prisoner was released, and only then after the intervention of the authorities of a neighboring city, from which the cyclist had come. And this, it is said, happened in a civilized country only a few years ago.

The boiler in an electric light plant at Carthage, Columbia, exploded on Monday Morning, and a number of prisoners confined in a jail near the works killed. Sagmore hotel at Lynn, Mass., was burned Wednesday. Two lives were lost in the fire, James H. Winslow and Harley F. Hicks, tinsmiths. They were working on a third floor back at the time of the fire and did not have time to escape. The body of Hicks was found in the ruins burned to a crisp. A fragment of a neck scarf miraculously escaped destruction and identified him. The total loss by the fire is estimated at $100,000.

Six of the same family asphyxiated by gas Thursday night were found dead Friday morning at their home, 601 Cornelia street, Chicago. They were Fritz Helman, 36 years; Ida Helman, his wife, 34; Fritz Helman, jr., 12; Ida Helman, 11; Willie Helman, 8, and Hedwig Helman, 4. Later developments indicate that Fritz Helman deliberately turned on the gas with the intent of killing the family and himself. It is supposed he was insane. Ten years ago he had a sunstroke, from which he never recovered completely.

Capt. McNeil, of the packet Susan, when coming from North Sydney on Thursday last reports meeting with a most peculiar sea monster about 12 miles off Bird Island. The fish, or whatever it might be called, was perfectly white in color and Capt. McNeil calculates was eighty feet in length. Its head was about 8 feet long and was shaped somewhat like an alligator's. It was swimming on the top of the water and when first observed was about 200 yards from the vessel. Capt. McNeil watched it for about 20 minutes or more until it disappeared from view. Mysterious Tragedy.

MONTREAL, July 5th.—On the recommendation of coroner's jury Napoleon Demers was arrested yesterday afternoon on suspicion of having killed his wife on June 13th. The murdered woman was found on the afternoon stated at 3 30 with her throat cut. An investigation failed to reveal any weapon with which she was killed. The supposition is that Demers killed his wife before going to work in the morning. When found she was in her night clothes. The doctors who made the autopsy on the body said that deceased must have been dead some hours before mid-day. One or two witnesses swore to having seen her alive on the day of her murder at 12.20, but they afterwards admitted that they had not seen her face. The accused acted very coolly throughout the inquest and the trial promises to be a sensational one.

A Story For Mothers

WHICH MAY SAVE THE LIVES OF THEIR DAUGHTERS.

A Young Lady at Merrickville Saved When Near Death's Door—Her Illness Caused About by Ailments Peculiar to Her Sex—Only one way in Which They Can Be Successfully Resisted.

From the Ottawa Citizen.

Perhaps there is no healthier people on the continent of America to-day than the residents of the picturesque village of Merrickville, situated on the Rideau river, and the reason is not so much in its salubrious climate as in the wise precautions taken by its inhabitants in warding off disease by a timely use of proper medicine. The greatest favorite is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and many are the testimonials in regard to their virtues. Your correspondent on Monday last called at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Easton, and interviewed their daughter, Miss Hattie Easton, a handsome young lady of 20 years, who is known to have been very low and has been restored to health by the use of Pink Pills. "Yes," said she, "I suffered a great deal, but I am so thankful that I am once more restored to health. You have no idea what it is to be so near the portals and feel that everything in life's future is about to slip from your grasp and an early grave your doom. I was taken ill four years ago with troubles peculiar to my sex, and which has hurried many a young woman to her doom—an early grave. I have taken in all about twenty boxes of Pink Pills, and I am only too glad to let the world know what these little pellets have done for me hoping that some other unfortunate young woman may be benefitted as I was. When sixteen years of age I began to grow pale, and weak and many thought I was going into decline. I became subject to fainting spells and at times would become unconscious. My strength gradually decreased and I became so emaciated that I was simply a living skeleton. My blood seemed to turn to water and my face was the color of a corpse. I had tried different kinds of medicines, but they did me no good. I was at last confined to my room for several months and hope of my recovery was given up. At last a friend strongly urged the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after using a few boxes I began to grow slightly stronger, I continued their use until I had used about twelve boxes, when I found myself restored to health. I now quit using the pills and for six months I never felt better in my life. Then I began to feel that I was not as regular as I should be and to feel the old tired feeling once more coming on. Once more I resorted to Pink Pills, and by the time I had used six boxes I found my health fully restored. I keep about by me and occasionally when I feel any symptoms of a return of the old trouble, I take a few and I am all right again. I cannot find words of sufficient weight to express my appreciation of the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and sincerely hope that all who are afflicted as I was will give them a trial and I am certain they will find renewed health."

The facts above related are important to parents as there are many young girls just budding into womanhood whose condition is, to say the least, more critical than their parents imagine. Their complexion is pale and waxy in appearance, troubled with heart palpitation, headaches, shortness of breath, on the slightest exercise, faintness and other distressing symptoms which invariably lead to a premature grave unless prompt steps are taken to bring about a natural condition of health. In this emergency no remedy yet discovered can supply the place of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which build anew the blood, strengthen the nerves and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. They are certain cure for all troubles peculiar to the female system, young or old.

HEART-BEATS.

The Reason Why the Heart Flutters, Palpitates, and is Oppressed, and How to Relieve It.

The heart has a hard old time of it and within itself does not excite much disease, but it is very often called upon to display the troubling symptoms of palpitation, fluttering, labored breathing, oppression, etc., on account of diseased kidneys offering increased resistance to the passage of the blood through their defective secretory structures, causing a morbid change in the blood unsuited to nourish the tissues and noxious to them. The minute arteries resist the passage of this foul blood, resulting in the muscular walls of the arteries and the ventricle of the heart becoming partially paralyzed, and from this cause results much of the so-called heart disease, which is owing to waste kidneys not being able to perform their functions. In order to relieve heart trouble remove the cause in the kidneys with Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They relieve the blood of poisonous deposits, it goes on its way a stream of health, relieving the heart and imparting strength to every tissue of the body. When your heart is in trouble Chase's Pills quickly remove the causing condition, no matter whether it exists on account of disorder of the kidneys, liver, stomach, or of nervous affection. Who Should Advertise.

Who should advertise? is a question that has been propounded and answered in different ways.

Our answer: Everyone who has anything to sell, whether it is product of the hand, brain or machine, and in cases where those who wish to buy, or secure, or exchange anything they cannot obtain conveniently, they should advertise.

Advertising should be treated precisely as any other investment, and in nine cases out of ten it pays a better profit than anything for which money is spent.

The best evidence that advertising pays is the fact that millions of dollars are invested in it by all sorts and kinds of trade and by the most successful business men in the land. Of course it pays.

No sensible man can believe that successful business houses advertise and become extensive advertisers for the fun of the thing with them it is business just as much as buying stock or selling products.

There are certain principles of trade that men ought not to ignore, and among them the principal one is regular legitimate and precise advertising.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
