ONE THING IS CERTAIN. PAIN KILLER KILLS PAIN.

Dose—One teaspoonful in a half glass of water or milk (warm if convenient).

Veronica, looking up at him with the simple faith of a child, replied. "I will—I will do whatever you tell me."

And he knew from that moment that any secret, anything that touched his interests, was as safe in her hands as his own. He never forgot the expression of utter astonishment on Lady Brandon's face as the young girl came forward with her graceful, self-possessed manner to speak to her.

"I really thought," she said afterward to her husband, "that an old Venetian figure had descended from its frame. What a face she has, Jasper! It is essentially Venetian, not Florentine—I know the Florentine type so well—nor Roman, but purely Venetian. Her mother must have been a beautiful woman."

He winced at the words, but made no reply. Lady Brandon smiled as she continued:

"She is a great contrast to Katherine. I am not sure that it is wise to bring a rival beauty into the house."

Sir Jasper looked up impatiently; this woman's tattle annoyed him.

"She will never harm Katherine," he said, somewhat sternly. "Do not put ideas of that kind into Kate's head. I want her to like the young stranger. See—that is a pretty picture."

Husband and wife were standing by the fireplace in the yellow drawing-room, as one of the prettiest apartments at Queen's Chace was called. The two girls were at the other end, Katherine seated on a low chair, her golden head thrown back, and Veronica kneeling on the ground by her side. The two faces were each lovely, yet different entirely. Veronica was gazing at the English girl with something like rapture in her face. Katherine was a new revelation of beauty to her.

"Tell me something about your home," said Katherine. "The one dream of my life is to go to Italy; but papa will never hear of it."

Veronica gave one hasty glance across the room to the dark, handsome face of the man who had so great an influence over her. Remembering her promise, she answered:

"Ask me about anything you will," she replied, "except about home. I cannot speak of it."

Katherine looked at the flushed face, and, thinking that the subject was too sad for her, she stooped down and kissed her.

"I will not ask you about home or anything else that grieves you, Veronica," she said. "It must be very sad; you have lost everything, every one. But you will be happy with us after a time. You shall be my sister—I have always longed for one—and you will love papa; every one loves him that knows him."

It was strange but typical that she did not speak of Lady Brandon. She said nothing about loving her.

"Kiss me, Veronica," she said, "not coldly, but as if you were really my own sister. I shall love you as though you were."

The dark eyes filled slowly with tears. "You will love me?" she said. "It seems impossible; it is too good—it cannot be true. You will really love me?"

"Why should I not?" asked Katherine, wondering at the girl's emotion.

"Why should you rather?" she replied. "You are so different from me. You seem to me like a fairy princess. You live in the midst of beauty and magnificence; every one loves you; even the servants who wait upon you seem almost to worship you. You have the sunshine ever on your head. Look at these bright threads of gold! You seem to me more lovely than a poet's dream."

Katherine laughed; flattery was always pleasant to her. She experienced a girl's natural delight in being called lovely. Then she passed her white fingers over the bowed head.

"Has no one ever told you that you were beautiful?"

"No; I have never heard anyone speak of me in that way," replied Veronica.

"Then let me tell you now," said Katherine. "You are a thousand times more beautiful than I am. But I am not jealous of you, my love. Mine is a pretty pink-and-white, healthy kind of beauty; yours is a grand, half-sad, wholly imperial loveliness. I am like a rose-bud, you are like a mystic passion-flower. There are hundreds of girls like me; there can be but few others like you."

"Is it really true?" asked Veronica.

"Ah! I really beautiful! Tell me Caterina mia, do you think that anyone who saw me for the first time would like me?"

"I am sure every one would admire you very much, and those who knew you would love you."

"It seems so strange," said Veronica, and Katherine saw a light come over her face—"so strange. I have never thought of myself in that way at all. I have often wondered if ever any one would love me."

"Did they not love you at home?" asked Katherine, surprised.

"We will not talk of home," was the reply, uttered sadly. "No; you are the first person in all the world who has ever said to me, 'I love you.'"

"I am glad, yet sorry," said the English girl slowly.

A strange light came over Veronica's face; her eyes darkened, a quiver passed over her lips.

"Yes, you are the first," she said; "and because in all my life you have been the first to say to me, 'I love you,' I swear fealty to you; I will be true to you till death; I will be a friend more than in name. If the time should ever come when, by laying down my life, I can save yours, I will do it. If the time should ever come when I can take a trouble from you, or by suffering, I will do it or undergo it."

"That Sluggish Feeling."
 Rev. D. L. Joselyn, Crystal City, Man.:—"I found real benefit from your medicine K. D. C., in saving me from that sluggish feeling caused by my food not properly digesting. I consider it a very valuable medicine to all under like conditions to myself. I have heard of K. D. C. working some marvellous cures among acquaintances, and have recommended it favorably many times."

Marvellous cures are indeed effected by K. D. C. Every man, woman and child throughout Canada, who suffer from any form of indigestion, should test its merits. Sample Free to any address. K; D. C. Co., Ltd, New Glasgow, N. S., and 127 State street, Boston, Mass.

Clifton.
 MARCH 14th, 1895.—The latest news here is that Artimus Hodnett is married. Who would have thought it. The knot was tied on the 4th inst., which made Jessie Ella and Artimus one for life.

Lombard and Co. are starting their spring work. They have a number of teams hauling sand for their mill, and report says that they will open their quarries early in April. They did no business here last season.

Election is all the talk here at present both parties seem to have trouble in selecting a man. Every parish has a few aspirants for Ottawa, the Conservatives feel secure.

There does not seem to be any preparations for the lobsters this year.

Mr. N. Dempsey has stopped selling books and started in the nursery business. Report says H. Scott has left Chase Bros., and hired by the year with P. S. McNutt, of St. John.

E. A. Dempsey's traps which he lost a few weeks ago have turned up, on the dog's legs. Fred had better take a few lessons from some of our hunters how to set his traps.

The New Brandon Agricultural Society is determined to have pure bred stock. Already this year they have purchased 2 registered Ayshire bulls and one Holstein bull, 2 Leicester rams and 4 Yorkshire pigs. At the last meeting it was decided to collect all outstanding debts due the Society before the 10th of April. The accounts are in the hands of Mr. Richey for collection.

RELIEF IN SIX HOURS.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by W. W. Short.

A new word, "andromania," has been coined by Dr. Parkhurst, and is likely soon to be in current use, as it means, to use the coin's own words, "a passionate aping of everything that is mannish." Regarding the aping Dr. Parkhurst says:—"It is an attempt on the part of those affected with the disease to minimize distinctions by which manhood and womanhood are differentiated, whether as regards their culture, their interests, or their activities. It is that animus which permits a woman to imagine that she has achieved a great triumph if she succeeds in doing something that only man has hitherto been accustomed to do, but that no woman has hitherto attempted. It is that animus which excepts to having woman's public activities along any line distinguished by any designation of sex." An andromaniac is an end-of-the-century product, and the species is becoming daily more common, but its members are not likely to take kindly to the name that the reverend gentleman has given them.

TRULY ASTONISHING.—Miss Annette N. Moen, Fountain, Minn., says: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has had a wonderful effect in curing my brother's children of a severe and dangerous cold. It was truly astonishing how speedily they found relief after taking this preparation."

The Admiralty have given orders for a guard of bluejackets and Royal Marines to be held in readiness at Sheerness to embark on a vessel supposed to have been built by a Thames firm for one of the Powers at present engaged in the war in the East. The vessel is about to proceed out of the Thames on a trial trip, and it is proposed to send a guard on board to insure that she will not proceed to sea at the conclusion of the trial.
