JONES' BABY CARRIAGE.

He Put It Together Himself and Then Swore at the Firm That Sold It.

An important event had happened in young Mr. Jones' household, and he came to this city to buy a baby carriage. Nothing was too good for him, and he finally selected a delicate creation of wickerwork, with Russian leather trimmings and pale blue silk and lace. Jones lives in Jersey, half an hour's ride from this city.

The carriage arrived next day boxed up with as much care as though it had been a crate of china or a racing bicycle. The wheels came in a separate box.

Mrs. Jones had always declared that her husband was stupid in doing work about the house, but she made no remonstrance against her husband putting the baby carriage together.

He succeeded finally in unpacking the carriage and wheels, though in doing so he nearly smashed his thumb with a hammer. He screwed on the wheels, and then setting the carriage up examined his work with a critical eye.

Certainly the vehicle had a peculiar appearance. It seemed lopsided, having a decided list to starboard. "That ain't the one I ordered," said Jones to the nurse-girl, who came in just then and had fixed a pair of wondering eyes on the carriage. "The one they sold me was straight, and I'd like to know what they take me for to send a thing like this." Jones gave the carriage a vicious push and it wheeled around in a circle, as a duck swims when one side is paralyzed by a shot.

Jones was mad clean through. He had the carriage put in the cellar and wrote to the firm from which he had purchased it to send a man to take their "lopsided swindle" away.

Jones hadn't cooled off when a man came to look at the carriage. The man listened patiently to Jones' opinion of the firm while he was getting the carriage out of the cellar.

"Why, you blunder fool!" he replied, however, when the vehicle was finally submitted to him for inspection. "No wonder it's lopsided! You've put both big wheels on one side and both little ones on the other."

Jones begged the man not to say anything about it and gave him some good cigars and opened a bottle of fine old Tokay. But the thing was too good to keep. The man told one of Jones' neighbors whom he met outside the house, and so the story spread. That's the reason people look curiously at the carriage when Jones takes the baby out, then at Jones and then snicker.—New York Herald.

Art of Putting on a Stamp.

"When you put a postage stamp on an envelope," said a precise man to his son, "you should put it on square and true, in the upper right-hand corner, and as near as possible to the margin of the envelope. You put it on at the right-hand corner for the convenience of the stampers in the Post Office, so that it may be uniform in location with the stamps on other envelopes and so more conveniently and expeditiously stamped; you should study the comfort of others as well as yourself. You should put it as near as possible to the corner, so that the canceling stamp will be less likely to deface and so perhaps obscure the address on the envelope. "You should put it on square and true, because that is the methodical and proper way to do. Many persons are disturbed by the appearance of a stamp put on in a careless and slipshod manner. And I can easily imagine that such a practice might work positive injury to you. You might have occasion to write to a man on a matter of business that was of importance to you. You might compose and write this letter with faithful care and set forth what you had to say with commendable clearness and precision, and yet upset it all by slapping on a stamp carelessly; the recipient might judge you by the one slight act done naturally rather than by the studied work done with a purpose. "My son, don't do it; put the stamp on where it belongs, so that the little touch of color will grace the envelope and not deface it."—New York Sun.

True Meaning of "Tabby."

"Nice Tabby!" "Pretty Tabby!" "Poor little Tabby!" were phrases often heard at the Cat Show at Madison Square Garden. Very few of the thousands who went to the show probably knew the meaning of the word tabby. The misapprehension that it means a female cat, just as tomcat means a male, is common. Many people suppose that tabby is a name applied to cats in general. It really means cats whose fur is marked in a certain way, and so there are both male and female tabbies.

The tabbies are divided into banded and spotted furred cats. The name is derived from Atab, a street in Bagdad celebrated for the manufacture of watered silks, which, when sold in England, were called atabi, or taffety, and from their resemblance to watered silk the banded and brindled cats were called tabbies. It is one of the commonest of colors, or markings rather, and is found in many breeds of cats, but a uniformly marked tabby is comparatively rare and valuable.

An Armless Man's Sincere Wish.

Mr. Lynch, of Elizabeth, who has no arms, was told one night last week about a man in this city who is similarly afflicted. "Is that so," said Mr. Lynch. "Well, the best luck I can wish him is that we may meet some day and shake hands."—Newark (N. J.) Call.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

It Was Made by a Profuse Frenchman in His Leave-Taking.

A citizen of France who has an inveterate habit of confounding everything which is said to him, and has been endeavoring to acquire a knowledge of our vernacular, was about leaving his boarding house for a more comfortable quarter. All the little mysteries of his wardrobe, including his last summer garment and umbrella, had been packed up, when he bethought himself of the unpleasant duty now devolving upon him, that of bidding "ze folks" good-by.

After shaking his fellow-boarders cordially by the hand, and wishing them, with incessant bowing, "ze verree best success in ze viri," and "ze benediction du chief," he retired in search of his "dear landlady," to give her also his blessing. He met her at the staircase, and advancing, hat in hand, with a thousand scrapes, commenced his speech: "Ah! madame, I am going to leave you. You have been verree amiable to me, madame; I will never forget you for zat. If in my country I would ask zer Government to give you a pension, madame." The good lady put down her head and blushed modestly, while our Frenchman proceeded: "Vell, I must go; you know in zeese life, it is full of pain an' trouble. If I got adopted ze viri vich Lamartine made in his poesie, zen zure should be no more pain. Adieu, madame, adieu! perhaps forever."

Thereupon the Frenchman was making his exit, when he was suddenly called back by his landlady, who interestedly inquired: "Why, Mr. C—, you have forgotten your latch-key." Mr. C— appeared amazed, apparently not understanding his interrogator. "Yes," continued Mrs. M—, "you know it is the rule for all boarders to give me their latch keys." "Oh, madame!" interrupted the Frenchman with enthusiasm, "I will give you not one—not one, but zousands!" and applying the action to the word, he sprang toward Mrs. M—, and embraced her most heartily. The frightened Mrs. M— recovering herself, at length cried out: "The key Mr. C—, the key!" Frenchy, looking confused, confounded, ejaculates with heavy sighs: "Oh, madame! I zot you ax me for one kees, an' I give it to you. Vat a fatale mistake!"—Scottish American.

First Love.

Adam bent tenderly over his elegant bride.

"Do you really love me?" he inquired. Of course he knew she did, but he just wanted her to say so in her own inimitable style.

"Do I?" she replied, with a gesture. "Well, I should blush! I most incontrovertibly regard you with the highest affection that woman can possibly entertain for man! Why, you're the hub of the universe!"

He certainly was the only one, and Adam thought himself he was a pretty good hub, but he secretly wished she had not been quite so Bostonian in her dictation.

Believed Him a Hypnotist.

"So you really think you are a hypnotist, do you?" she asked.

"I am satisfied that I have considerable hypnotic power," he replied.

"Well, perhaps you are right," she said, thoughtfully. "That would explain a good many things that have bothered me at times."

"Really?" he exclaimed, showing his pleasure.

"Unquestionably."

"Such as what?"

"Well, for one thing, it would explain how you were ever able to induce me to marry you," she answered, insinuatingly.

A Military Term.

"BREAKING RANKS."

An Acquired Habit.

"You heard Mrs. De Vos recite 'The Lost Child' last night, didn't you?"

"Of course."

"Notice the queer way in which she worked her chin?"

"Certainly, but know the reason of that?"

"Double-hinge to her jaws?"

"Oh, no! She worked in a chewing-gum factory for five years before her marriage and had to sample every lot turned out."

The Secret of His Success.

"The beauty of this medicine," said Dr. Ryhold, writing the directions on the bottle and handing it to the nurse, "is that it will make him too sick to eat anything for the next three days. That will give nature a chance to take a whack at him. When we and nature can work together on a patient," added the doctor, putting on his hat and gloves, "we can pull him right of the kinks every time."—Chicago Tribune.

Did They Take a Walk or Ride?

"Say, you won the bicycle race, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Your name is Walker, isn't it?"

"Yes."

Well, I won the pedestrian match, and my name is Ryder."

"Great Scott! Let's go and take something."

It Was So Easy to Him.

"It's too bad," said Willie Washington, "that the good old custom of making calls on New Year's day is slowly but surely dying out."

"Do you like the practice?"

"Verwy much. When you cawn't think of anything else you can say 'Happy New Year' and it's the only time when I evah feel weally at home as a conversationalist."

What is Gossip?

"What is gossip?" reflected the preacher, and then he answered, "It's putting two and two together and making them fly."

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Batenman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Charles H. Pitcher is on every wrapper.
