THE WIDE, WIDE WORLD.

Mr. Gladstone, in his letter to Cardinal Rampolla, Papal Secretary of State, on the subject of the reunion of the Christian lawful tariff dues is something that seems churches, contends that the condemnation of Anglican orders by Rome would morally be a stride towards excommunication; would make more conspicuous the religious differences of the churches and enhance the difficulty of future reconciliation. Nevertheless, he says, he does not expect an early restitution of the Christian unity which marked the church's early history. He welcomes the Pope's command that an investigation should be held as to the validity of Anglican orders, and details the advantages likely to accrue therefrom.
