THE REMEDIAL BILL.

It is seldom that any piece of legislation attracts such general interest as the Remedial Bill now being discussed in the Canadian House of Commons.

The Remedial Bill submitted to the Parliament yesterday will strike impartial critics as eminently fair to both Protestants and Catholics in its intentions at least.

The framers of the bill have been at great pains, and have shown considerable ingenuity in making the law as little coercive and offensive as possible in its working.

St. John's Day. A very handsome past master's jewel was presented to W. Bro. D. Wilson, I. P. M. It is of gold set with diamonds and beautifully engraved, and was made by Challoner & Mitchell.

Kingston Notes. Mr. John Robestson is with us once again, although only for a short time. We are pleased to know that he is doing so well in his business enterprise.

Mrs. Calderwood (nee Annie Doherty), has been visiting at Dr. Doherty's. She is on a trip for the benefit of her health.

Owing to the storm the dance was postponed until Monday evening. There was a good number present and a very pleasant evening was spent.

what is to be done with any funds the minority may get by the vote of Provincial Legislature. It is doubtful, however whether Parliament has the constitutional right to go further and direct the application of any portion of the Manitoba public funds.

The last paragraph in the Lieutenant Governor's speech at the opening of the local legislature, refuse to "a bill to Revise and consolidate the several acts relating to highways."

The road between town and Kingston is in a terrible condition, full of heavy patches; and it is extremely difficult for teams to pass each other. The mail driver between here and Harcourt, who, by the way, has never once failed in his connections, notwithstanding the many heavy snowstorms lately, claims that if this part of the road were fixed up he could save at least one half hour a day.

CORRESPONDENCE

Kingston's Dramatic Critic.

To the Editor of The Review:

In your issue of the 13th inst., I find the following sample of English composition from the pen of your Kingston correspondent:

"The play as put on by the company was good, although we think a better one could have been selected with ease. The acting was good, particularly the ladies in their role. Of course the parts taken by the gentlemen were well performed but it seems hard for us to imagine that we see those whom we know passing through blood and fire."

Now Mr. Editor, if this scribe's criticisms of the drama are as ambiguous as his English, he should never attempt to pose in the capacity of a dramatic critic. His observations with respect to the R. A. D. C. were uncalled for, undeserved and display a lack of common courtesy worthy only of silent contempt on the part of those at whom it was aimed.

To begin with he is in ignorance as to the name of the author of this drama he attempts to make light of, for if he knew the author he might hesitate about condemning it. In fine I might suggest a thorough course of purification for this individual by the "blood and fire" process he refers to.

He Had the Best of It.

A young man and a young woman lean over the front gate. They are lovers. It is moonlight. He is loth to leave, as the parting is the last. He is about to go away. She is reluctant to see him depart. They swing on the gate. "I'll never forget you," he says, "and if death should claim me, my last thought will be of you."

"I'll be true to you," she sobs, "I'll never see anybody else or love them as long as I live." They part. Six years later he returns. His sweetheart of former years has married. They meet at a party, she has changed greatly; between the dances the recognition takes place.

"Let me see," she muses, with her fan beating a tattoo on her pretty hand, "was it you or your brother, who was my old sweetheart?" "Really, I don't know," he says, "probably my father."

Lead Pencils. Ernest Faber, director of the Johann Faber pencil works in Germany, stated in a recent lecture that there are twenty-six pencil factories in Bavaria, of which twenty-three are in Nurnberg, employing about 10,000 workers, and turning out 4,300,000 pencils per week.

SHARP'S BALSAM OF HOREHOUND AND ANISEED FOR CROUP, COUGHS AND WHOOPING COUGHS AND COLDS. 40 YEARS IN USE. PRICE 25¢ PER BOTTLE. ARMSTRONG & CO. PROPRIETORS.

Little River Notes. We are having a great deal of snow this winter, making it very unpleasant for lumbermen. Wm. Gessner is engaged hauling logs for J. D. Irving as is also Wm. McFawn.

Mr. Parker McFawn has returned home after having been away for several months in Dover. We are all very glad to see him, especially the young ladies.

Our school is being successfully conducted by Miss Alta Gessner, of this place. Mr. Samuel Biggs has gone away to the lumber woods. Miss McFawn is stopping with Mrs. Biggs during his absence.

There was a very pleasant time at the residence of Mr. Leonard Woods last Friday evening. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves thoroughly. Dancing and other amusements were indulged in until the wee sma hours, and candy was served at 11.30 o'clock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Otto Schultz, a baker and an anarchist, was arrested last night charged with trying to burn his wife and two children. Later he tried to commit suicide in a cell at the central police station, by butting his head against the walls. It is alleged that Schultz poured kerosene over his wife and children while they were in their beds and was about to set fire to them when discovered.

Dr. Nansen, the Norwegian explorer is said to have discovered the North Pole. If this is true, the plucky explorer has also found fame and fortune which is, after all, the great desideratum.
