The Angels' Song.

It came upon the midnight clear,
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth,
To touch their harps of gold:
"Peace on the earth, good-will to men,
From Heaven's all-gracious King."
The earth in solemn stillness lay
To hear the angels sing.

Still through the cloven skies they come,
With peaceful wings unfurled;
And still their heavenly music floats
O'er all the weary world.
Above its sad and lowly plains
They bend on hovering wing,
And ever o'er its Babel sounds
The blessed angels sing.

But with the woes of sin and strife
The world has suffered long;
Beneath the angel-strain have rolled
Two thousand years of wrong;
And man, at war with man, hears not
The love-song which they bring;
Oh! hush the noise, ye men of strife,
And hear the angels sing.

And ye, beneath life's crushing load,
Whose forms are bending low,
Who toil along the climbing way,
With painful steps and slow,—
Look now, for glad and golden hours
Come swiftly on the wing;
Oh, rest beside the weary road
And hear the angels sing.

PRIEST AND PARISHIONER.

Miss Maggie Melody, of Hamilton, used Dr. Agnew's Celebrated Catarrhal Powder, on Recommendation of Rev. Father Hinchey, and found it a Grand Remedy for Influenza.

Having himself been benefited by the use of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, Rev. Father Hinchey, of St. Joseph's Church, Hamilton, Ont., followed the counsel of the good book, and carried the good news to others. One of his parishioners, Miss Maggie Melody, had been a sufferer from influenza. Father Hinchey knew how much good his remedy had done in case of cold in the head with himself, and recommended it to Miss Melody for her case, who, over her own signature, has written: "I have used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder for influenza and found it a grand remedy. In fact it gave me relief almost at once. I can with pleasure highly recommend it to all who are suffering from this malady."

One short puff of the breath through the blower supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder diffuses this powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves in ten minutes, and permanently cures catarrh, hay fever, colds, headache, sore throat, tonsillitis and deafness. 60c. Sold by W. W. Short.

GREATEST WAR OF ALL AGES.

Military Men Say it Will Begin Within Two Years.

In the current number of a military publication Lieut. R. P. Hobson, of the United States Navy, says that no fact is so generally accepted abroad as the imminence, indeed, the very presence of war. Not only every man in the armies and navies of the great powers expects to take part personally, but every individual with any hold on life expects to be a witness. This imminent war bids fair to involve all of the six great nations of Europe, comprising a population of about 324,000,000. In this aggregate of population about 74,000,000 men are able to bear arms, and the six nations referred to possess more than 2,000,000 tons of fighting vessels afloat. The conflict will be on a scale incomparably greater than any in the world's history.

The military situation in Europe has been strained to a point of tension that can not be endured much longer. The rival nations have been well transformed into camps, and whole peoples are impoverished by the immense cost of maintaining standing armies. Nearly all of the land being in the hands of a few, the many have been growing steadily poorer, oppressed as they are by taxes for the support of armies and navies. The Russian army has a peace footing of 974,000, and a war footing of 2,733,000, costing $138,000,000 annually. Pauper Italy has an army comprising 736,000 men in time of peace, 1,718,000 men in war, and costing $43,000,000. The German army has a peace footing of 445,500 men, and a war footing of 1,492,000, and costing $98,000,000 annually. The army of France has 503,000 men in peace, 3,573,000 men in war, and costs $114,000,000 a year. Each soldier must wear good clothes and be well fed for years, during which he produces nothing, being supported by the industrial classes.

PERIOD OF PREPARATION.

During a long period of peace in Europe the nations have been preparing for war. Lack of preparation has done more than anything else to keep them from flying at each other's throats. But now they are ready for the inevitable struggle, and Russia and France in particular are not disposed to let any opportunity go by that may be favorable for its precipitation. The dual alliance is so strong as to be in a position to offer war and not merely to accept the gage. The issue of the conflict will involve the overthrow or perpetuation of the vast British empire. The results, however, are likely to be much more far-reaching. The Russians, the last Aryan race that has arisen in the east, are surging westward. This wave is relatively manyfold more formidable than any of the Aryan waves of the past, all of which have ultimately succeeded in overthrowing the higher but less rugged civilizations of the west.

It is unquestionable that the dual alliance has at present in contemplation a scheme for the conquest of the world. The first step in this direction must be the overthrow of Great Britain. Lieut. Hobson refers to the fact that the British Isles could not be invaded so long as the mighty fleets of England controlled the approaches. It was impossible for the great Napoleon himself, who found in this circumstance his bitterest experiences. The coming struggle, consequently, will have

THE OCEAN FOR ITS THEATER.

At present Great Britain surpasses in naval strength both of her adversaries together. She has now afloat 612,280 tons of armored vessels. Against this gigantic aggregate the dual alliance is able to muster only 461,764 armored tons. Under these circumstances there is no danger that France and Russia will precipitate a conflict with Great Britain for a year or two at all events. By 1897, however, the situation will have undergone a great change. Russia and France are at present engaged in the construction of mighty fleets. The shipyards of both countries are scenes of extraordinary activity, which has a definite and unmistakable object in view. That object is war—a war which military authorities everywhere believe to be inevitable. In 1897 the new navies of Russia and France will have been completed, and the dual alliance will be quite 30 per cent. stronger than Great Britain on the ocean.

There is only too much reason for believing that Russia and France will seize this time and opportunity for assailing England, and that the year 1897 will witness the commencement of the most tremendous conflict that the world has ever seen. The term of the triple alliance will not then have expired, and by that compact Germany, Italy and Austria-Hungary will be held aloof. Thus Great Britain will be entirely isolated, and can be attacked to the greatest advantage. In the event of British defeat the rivalry of Russia and England in Asia will be decided forever

MILLIONS WILL BE KILLED.

The inevitableness and immediate imminence of the gigantic struggle lend an extreme interest to the prospect. Of course many millions of lives will be sacrificed. There has been no great war since a time when weapons and engines of warfare were comparatively primitive. The conflict, therefore, will be conducted under most novel conditions. The comparatively harmless gunpowder of the past will be replaced to a great extent by high explosives of enormous destructive power. Armies will literally wipe each other out, while remaining apart at such distances as to be hardly within sight of one another. This war that is to come will be a war of annihilation. At the termination of an important engagement the battlefield will be strewn with 200,000 or 300,000 corpses, perhaps, a great part of them frightfully mangled. To bury the dead will be wholly impracticable, and the rotting of human bodies will spread pestilence over the land.

In the warfare of the future there will be no more "military bearer" companies. It will not be the practice, as at present, to set aside 1,000 bearers out of each army corps. These 1,000 will be formed into a strong brigade, with arms in their hands and a place in the fighting line. Henceforward reserve ammunition trains are to precede the military ambulances, which up to now have headed the columns of vehicles. The new German regulations prescribe that the Red Cross people and ambulances are never to be allowed to do duty in the first line—that is to say, on the field of battle. This means that their work must be confined exclusively to taking charge of the wounded after the fight and conveying them to hospitals not on the field.

By the time the great European struggle has begun the new navy of the United States will have been completed. Then Uncle Sam will be in a position to preserve an attitude of armed and even formidable neutrality. Her policy would be defensive.

2 Neglects and the Result.

Neglect cold in the head and you will surely have catarrh. Neglect nasal catarrh and you will as surely induce pulmonary diseases or catarrh of the stomach with its disgusting attendants, foul breath, hawking, spitting, blowing, &c. Stop it all by using Dr. Chas's Catarrh Cure, 25 cents a box cures.

Why Physicians Use an "R"

A woman of an investigating turn of mind started out the other day to discover why physicians begin their prescriptions with the letter R. Well, she found out, but it took time and caused her some trouble. It seems that during the middle ages, when astrology was in fashion, a character very much like our R was the sign of Jupiter, the preserver of health. The physicians, being then equally devoted to the science of medicine and astrology, invariably began their prescriptions with the following words: "In the name of Jupiter take the following doses in the order set down hereinafter." In the course of time this formula was abbreviated, until at present only the letter R remains to teach us that the medical art was once associated with the science of the stars.

PARALYSIS CURABLE.

Stricken Ones to be Seen Everywhere—This Form of Living Death cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The most startling example of human helplessness is the paralytic. The victim excites your commiseration, but resents your pity.

He of the palsied hand stiffly pressing the benumbed side is to be seen everywhere we go.

The most convincing proof that this pitiable condition is the outcome of kidney disease is the fact that Dodd's Kidney Pills cure it.

For generally recognized as a kidney disease, it succumbs to kidney treatment. Did you ever know of a cure? Just think a moment!

If you do it must have been the work of Dodd's Kidney Pills, for no other medicine ever yet cured.

'I would rather,' said Johnny, rubbing his waistband and looking expressively at the table, 'I would rather talk Turkey.'

Clifton, N. B.

JAN. 20, 1896.—We have had an exceptionally fine winter so far with very little snow to speak of and according to my almanac the fine weather is likely to continue, which I hope it will for some weeks yet. I expect the lumbermen won't agree with me on this subject as they are looking forward to another snow storm to make good hauling. Speaking of lumber, there seems to be quite a craze for it this winter. In fact the general topic of conversation is lumber in all stages from logs to shingles, one man having purchased some three thousand acres of lumber land, erecting a mill on said land for the purpose of manufacturing the logs into salable lumber. Quite a few men are employed by the purchaser, D. G. Mahony, Esq., of Nova Scotia. I have half a notion of going to the woods myself this winter, as the gold dollar notes are beginning to get scarce in my pocketbook and the rats are eating my potatoes. So if I don't soon get a hustle on, I will have to put a button in the contribution box the next time the minister preaches in place of my usual five cent piece.

And that reminds me that the ladies of the English church have formed what they call an Aid Society, for the purpose of raising money for the advancement of the work on the new church, which they are now building in this place. The circle being divided in two parts makes it necessary to have two presidents, Miss Mary A. Chamberlain being President of the Stonehaven division and Miss Stella Knowles of the Clifton. We wish them every success in their undertakings.

The Rev. Mr. McInnis, who has been absent for some time, has returned and will hold service in the Presbyterian church at Stonehaven, on Sunday, Jan. 19th, at seven o'clock in the evening. He will also give a lecture on Monday evening at the same hour to the young men and boys. Not knowing the subject on which he will speak, I therefore cannot say.

School has been reopened under the management of Miss Ina Mersereau, of Doaktown, our former teacher, Miss Fanny Freeze, having resigned at the Xmas holidays. Quite a number of children are attending school this winter, Miss Mersereau being a first class teacher they are anxious to learn all they can while she remains, which I hope will be for some time to come, as I do not think that the two previous teachers were used right by any means, for in place of giving them a good recommendation when they were leaving, a great many things were said which I do not think was altogether gospel. For my part I do not see how a teacher, be she first or second class, can teach a crowd of children as are now attending this school, without having complete control of them, and this she cannot have if the children are encouraged at home to do all kinds of mischief such as I am informed they are now doing in this school. If reports are true the parents are more to blame in this matter than either the children or the teacher. You all know the old saying, "to spare the rod is to spoil the child." Now I want you all to remember that I am not saying the children are encouraged at home by their parents, but I do say if they are, what can we expect a teacher to do with them.

GRACE DARLING.

Hold fast this Truth.

Constant dripping will wear away a stone. Constant reiteration impresses a fact on the mind. That is why we are continually repeating that Hawker's catarrh cure cures. It is a fact that should be ever present in the minds of those troubled with this disease, until they have ceased to hesitate or doubt and given the remedy a fair trial. When they have done so they will not only be cured themselves but able to direct others to the means of cure. Hawker's catarrh cure is a remedy that is easy to take. A pinch or two of it in the nostrils will stop a pain in the head, and it knocks out a simple cold in the head quicker than any other known remedy. As it costs but 25 cts. per box, a trial of it is not an expensive process. It is within reach of all. No sufferer from catarrh, and what a host of persons are so afflicted, either in a mild or chronic form, can afford to disregard this word of counsel. Try Hawker's catarrh cure and test it thoroughly. In chronic and severe cases, where the general system has been greatly debilitated, a course of Hawker's tonic is also necessary. Those who use Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic along with the catarrh cure are restored to perfect health and vigor. Hawker's catarrh cure is sold by druggists at 25 cts. per box. Hawker's tonic costs 50 cts. per bottle or six bottles for $2.50. Both are manufactured only by the Hawker Medicine Co., St. John, N. B. and New York City.

McNairn, Kent Co., N. B.

JAN. 20, 1896.—Mr. Alex. McCaulder who had been ill for the past seven months, passed quietly away on Tuesday, the 14th inst., aged 55 years. Deceased was born in DeSable, P. E. I., and emigrated to this province with his father when a boy of 12 years, his father, Donald McCaulder, being one of this district's pioneer settlers, he having died eleven years ago, leaving his property to his only son, who by his industry and discretion added considerable thereto.

He was married twice, twenty-three years ago to Mary, daughter of the late Daniel McEachern. His second wife being Flora, only daughter of Mr. Donald McEachern, (one of this district's respected residents) whom he married three years ago and unto them were born two daughters.

Nine years ago he was brought to a saving knowledge of the Truth under the preaching of the evangelist, Rev. Mr. Vane, who, strange to state, was here to preach his funeral sermon, he delivering a very able discourse taking for his text, the last clause of the 1st verse of the 20th chapter of 2nd Kings. "Set thy house in order."

Mr. McCaulder was a man of deep, religious convictions, having lived a consistent christian life ever since his conversion. He feared not death saying the sting was taken out of death at the Lord's coming, and exclaimed in his dying moments, Oh death where is thy sting, Oh grave where is thy Victory. I am ready Lord, come quickly, when the flickering light went out and all that remained of a loving husband, an affectionate father, a kind neighbour and a true christian passed away.

To his young widow and two small children, who are yet too young to realize their loss, we convey our condolence.

Jesus, thou Prince of life!

Thy chosen one did die;

Like Thee they conquer in the strife,

To reign with Thee on high.

Catarrh in the Head

Is due to impure blood and cannot be cured with local applications. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured hundreds of cases of catarrh because it purifies the blood and in this way removes the cause of the disease. It also builds up the system and prevents attacks of pneumonia, diphtheria and typhoid fever.

Hood's PILLS become the favorite cathartic with every one who tries them. 25c.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Prince Henry of Battenberg died on the night of Jan. 20, on board the British cruiser Blonde. It had been his intention to recruit his health at Madeira. After Prince Henry died the cruiser Blonde put into Sierra Leone, and the news of his death was immediately cabled to the Queen and Princess Beatrice at Osborne, and also to the admiralty and the war offices. The Queen was intensely agitated upon the receipt of the news, and Princess Beatrice is almost crazed with grief. The Queen's review of the flying squadron of the Isle of Wight—which was postponed yesterday on account of fog—has been abandoned in consequence of Prince Henry's death.

The Sting Within.

It is said there is a rankling thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and in this land of tight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove if afflicted. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

The year 1895 was the nine hundredth anniversary of the first appearance of the fork in western Europe, according to the National Zeitung. In 995 a son of the Venetian Doge Pietro Orseolo married the Byzantine Princess Argila, who at the wedding breakfast brought out a silver fork and gold spoon. She was copied by the great Venetian families, though the Church opposed the fashion as an insult to Providence. It took 360 years for the fork to reach Florence; in 1379 it is found in France, but it was not till 1608 that "the traveller Corgate brought it direct from Venice to England."

A Solitary Way.

There is a mystery in human hearts,
And though we be encircled by a host
Of those who love us well and are beloved,
To every one of us, from time to time,
There comes a sense of utter loneliness.
Our dearest friend is stranger to our joy,
And cannot realize our bitterness.
"There is not one who really understands,
Not one to enter into all I feel;"
Such is the cry of each of us in turn,
We wander in a "solitary way."
No matter what or where our lot may be;
Each heart, mysterious even to itself,
Must live its inner life in solitude.
And would you know the reason why this is?

It is because the Lord desires our love;
In every heart he wishes to be first.
He therefore keeps the secret key Himself,
To open all its chambers, and to bless,
With perfect sympathy and holy peace,
Each solitary soul which comes to Him.
So when we feel this loneliness it is
The voice of Jesus saying, "Come to me;"
And every time we are "not understood,"
It is a call to us to come again;
For Christ alone can satisfy the soul,
And those who walk with Him from day to day
Can never have a "solitary way."

And when beneath some heavy cross you faint,
And say, "I cannot bear this load alone,"
You say the truth. Christ made it purposeful
So heavy that you must return to Him
The bitter grief which "no one understands"
Conveys a secret message from the King,
Entreating you to come to Him again,
The Man of Sorrows understands it well,
In all points tempted He can feel with you.
You cannot come too often or too near,
The Son of God is infinite in Grace,
His presence satisfies the longing soul.
And those who walk with Him from day to day
Can never have a "solitary way."

West Branch.

A blank has been made in the social circle by the death of Janie English she was loved by all her associates. Her end was peace.

Our school is closed for two months, examination proved very satisfactory and interesting to those present, and one and all were sorry to lose Miss H. Ramsey, who was a competent and pleasant teacher. By her amiability she won the love of both parents and pupils.

What is to be one of the greatest of world's bridges is to be built at Detroit to connect that city with Windsor. It is to be over two miles in length and to be five feet higher than the Brooklyn bridge. The Michigan Central is behind the undertaking. The plans for the structure have been prepared and legislation looking to its construction has been asked in Washington and Ottawa. A corporation has been or will be formed under Michigan law to co-operate with a similar Canadian corporation in constructing the bridge and the Vanderbilts will guarantee the bonds of both. The estimated cost of the bridge is between four and six millions.
