DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

REV. CHAS. FISH
Methodist Minister, Toronto

Few men better known or more highly esteemed in the ministerial ranks in Canada than the gentleman whose portrait accompanies this. Although now retired from the more active work in the ministry, he has held almost all the more important charges throughout Ontario as a pastor in the Methodist Church. He is one of the pioneer preachers. A few words of his to fellow-sufferers will be taken in the spirit which he intends them, feeling that in publishing to the world the great benefits he has derived from his great cure he is but doing his first duty to man, and, in a measure, fulfilling the old command, "Do unto others," etc.

About ten years ago I felt the beginnings of what is commonly known as Eczema. The disease commenced in my ears and spread entirely over both sides of my head and also developed on my hands. During those ten years I was a great sufferer. I tried many supposed remedies and some of the best physicians—specialists on skin diseases—treated me. Beyond affecting temporary relief, I received no more benefit and all failed to effect a cure. Some time ago I was led from reading and investigating some reliable testimonies I read in the newspapers to try Dr. Chase's celebrated Ointment. The first box gave me so much relief that I felt warranted in persevering. As I write this I am just commencing on the fifth box, and, judging from the rapid improvement effected, I am certain that before the box is completed I shall be completely cured. I think my cure almost a marvel, and shall be pleased at any time to answer any inquiry from like cause. Having suffered so much myself, I give this testimony for the benefit of others.

CHAS. FISH,
Methodist Minister.

POOR HAWKINS.

His Case Is So Bad That a Headline Can't Indicate It.

Nothing is more agreeable to the man who likes to tell a story, and who knows that he can't tell it well, than to have for a wife a lady who is great on absolute correctness of detail, and who is willing to see that this accuracy of detail marks your story-telling.

Hawkins is thus blent in the partner of his choice. He and his wife were at a dinner the other evening and Hawkins had a capital little story to tell, and this is the way he told it:

"It was last Wednesday," he began, when Mrs. Hawkins said gently: "Tuesday."

"You are mistaken, my dear; it was Tuesday," said Mrs. Hawkins, calmly.

"Well, it was on Wednesday, and Jones and I were lunching together at Hoover's cafe," and

"My dear, you said that it was Moon-ey's cafe when you told the story to me."

"Oh, so it was Moon-ey's, I forgot. It was the day before that we lunched together at Hoover's."

"Why, Mr. Hawkins, how forgetful you are. I lunched with you the day before, and we went to the Albion restaurant."

"Oh, so we did. Well, it doesn't matter. Well, Jones and I had just taken our seats and given our orders when an old man and his wife came in and"

"You're not sure that she was his wife my dear."

"Oh, she must have been. He called her Maria, and she called him Aaron, and"

"That is no proof that they were husband and wife. She might have been his sister, you know."

"Well, I know that they were husband and wife, and he"

"You can't be sure of it."

"It doesn't make the slightest difference whether they were man and wife or not. Anyhow, they were the queerest looking pair I ever saw. She was fully 70, and"

"Why, Mr. Hawkins, you told me that she was about 60."

"Well, maybe she wasn't more than 60. It doesn't matter. She had on the wildest, giddiest hat and"

"You told me she wore a bonnet, Mr. Hawkins."

"Well, I don't know but it was a bonnet. It was the wildest looking bit of headgear I ever saw, and the blue dress she wore"

"Blue dress? Why, you told me that it was a red dress."

"No, I didn't."

"I'm quite sure that you did, Mr. Hawkins."

This goes on until Hawkins becomes so muddled that the point of the story when it is reached finally falls perfectly flat, and the scene that occurs when Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins are alone together would not look nor sound well if printed.

CHURCH SERVICES.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Rev. Wm. Hamilton, pastor. The following services will be held on Sabbath first, viz: Kingston, at 11 o'clock p. m., and in Richibucto at 7 o'clock p. m.

ST. MARY'S (ANGELICAN).—Divine Service, Jan. 3rd, 1897, Richibucto, 11 a. m. (Holy Communion), S. School and Rector's Bible Class 3, Kingston, 7 p. m. A Watchnight service will be held (D. V.) on Thursday night, Dec. 31 in St. Mary's church, commencing at 11.30 p. m. The Rector tenders sincere thanks to the teachers and friends of the S. School for their kind efforts and assistance in ministering to the enjoyment and encouragement of the scholars on Tuesday night. A happy and prosperous new year to all. Rev. H. A. Meek, Rector.

To Sunday School Workers:

Parish Conventions, at which Rev. A. Lucas will be present, are to be held as follows (D. V.): Harcourt, Jan. 11th, Bass River, Jan. 12th, Richibucto, Jan. 13th, Wellington, Jan. 14th, and McLaughlin Road, Jan. 15th. Afternoon and evening meetings will be held in each place. All Sunday School workers are urged to be present, and especially all pastors, superintendents, and teachers.

It is hoped that those interested will see that the buildings are well warmed, early, and also that a number of the friends are on hand early to welcome everybody. Let the Field Sec'y be warmly welcomed for his work's sake. Make the meetings large and enthusiastic. Press everybody to attend.

Yours very truly,
F. W. MURRAY,
Sec'y.

A most enjoyable "social, &c." was held here on Xmas eve. The Hall was full, all parts of the congregation were represented. There was general hand-shaking and Xmas greeting. A good programme was well rendered, reflecting much credit on those who so painstakingly prepared for it.

Mr. J. B. Miller auctioned the baskets and some lively bidding was the result. Refreshments, too, were on sale and were disposed of in a most lively manner. The sewing circle had a handsome display of needlework, every bit of which was sold. The committee takes this opportunity of thanking those who came and helped to make an enjoyable evening. The net proceeds of the evening were $67.00. Com-again.
