NEGROES STOLE A BIBLE.

And were beaten to death by Brutal Southern Men

AIKEN, S. C., Oct. 28.—A party of six men Messrs Akerman, Kearse, Kinney, Brant Stanley and Hiers, took Isom Kearse, his wife Rosa, and his mother Hanna Walker, three negroes, from their home in Colleton County one night last December and dragged them several miles behind a buggy to Broxton Bridge.
In a lonely swamp.

It was a bitterly cold night but the negroes were made to strip and were then severely beaten with buggy traces for the alleged crime of stealing a bible from a church. Kearse and his mother were killed by the flogging and exposure, while his wife managed to drag herself home more dead than alive.

The lynchings were tried in Walterboro the county seat of Colleton last February for the murder of Hanna Walker and to the surprise of the entire state were acquitted. Solicitor Bellinger had done his best to secure a conviction and mortally offended the numerous and influential friends of the defendants, who tried hard and unsuccessfully to prevent his re-election this summer.

Solicitor Bellinger was shrewd enough to try the defendants on only one indictment at Walterboro. He afterwards secured a change of venue to Aiken for the trial on the charge of murdering Isom Kearse, and the trial has commenced there.
Solicitor Bellinger conducts the state's case alone, while seven of the leading lawyers of the circuit represent the defendants.

The case will hardly go to the jury before Saturday. There are over eighty witnesses summoned. The testimony shows that the victims came to their death from flogging inflicted by the defendants.
The medical testimony showed the flogging to have been simply unmerciful, so severe as to pulpify the muscles of the arms and backs of the victims. The entire state is watching the trial with great interest.

He Listened to His Own Eulogy

Rev. C. J. O'Keefe, pastor of the Roman Catholic church at Highland Falls, N. Y., was confronted one day last week by a host of his parishioners who mourned him as dead. He was descending from his study to the parlor of his home when he heard weeping in his parlor, and as he stood at the door he was astonished at what he heard.

"He was a good man," a widow was saying. "He was a friend to the friendless was Father O'Keefe. He's gone to a better world, that's sure."

The other voices took up the refrain and he heard his eulogies sounded around the room. The village physician drove rapidly to the house, pushed his way into the room and started to rush up stairs.
He ran against Father O'Keefe.

"Ain't you dead?" exclaimed the doctor.
"Aren't you crazy?" asked the priest.

The parishioners who had come to learn how their pastor had died saw the object of their grief standing before them, hale and sound. The sexton, who had come to confirm the news before tolling the church bell, looked on in blank astonishment.

Then the parishioners congratulated the priest on being indeed alive, and went their way rejoicing.

The report was traced to a school teacher who heard from some source that the Rev.
Father O'Keefe has dropped dead in his study. She announced the woeful intelligence to her pupils, and they in turn bore the report to every part of Highland Falls. The story was soon circulated in West Point and everyone who had known Father O'Keefe mourned him as dead.

It is believed that the person who originally concocted the story was impressed with the idea that he knew a joke when he saw it.

Li Hung Chang's Sewing Machine

While in London Li Hung Chang visited a sewing machine works, where he found much to interest him. The manager of the works was closely questioned regarding the working of the machine, the quality of the thread used, and even the kind of oil for lubrication.

It was not enough for Li Hung Chang to see the machine in operation; he had to work it himself. He passed a piece of white linen through the machine and stitched it with great care and marvellous neatness. He asked the price of the machine and sought after more detail. Was the machine covered when not in use? Yes.
Some specimens of fancy work were shown—a figure of a Royal Highlander worked in thread and a lovely specimen of work in the form of a peacock's tail in all its wondrous color.

His Excellency Li betrayed a deep interest in the peacock's tail, but even that could not lure him from the sewing machine. He sat down, and whittling a cigarette, worked the treadles with amazing energy. He expressed himself anxious to purchase a machine, but it was explained that the firm would rather present him with one. After some pressure he consented to accept the gift, and it was arranged to send the machine to Shanghai.

A machine is also to be especially constructed and forwarded to the Empress of China.

15 Years of Itching.

Wm. Golding, commercial traveller, 130 Esther St., Toronto, says: For 15 years I suffered untold misery from Itching Piles, sometimes called pin worms. Many and many weeks have I had to lay off the road from this trouble. I tried eight other pile ointments and so called remedies with no permanent relief to the intense itching and stinging, which irritated by scratching would bleed and ulcerate.
One half a box of Chase's Ointment cured me completely.

A New York theatre manager received the other day the following letter of application:—"Dear Sir,—Father is crool to me, mother says I am ignerunt and sister says I am only fit to cook can't you give me a job my friends say I have a lively voice and I have blond hair, if you would call up here I would be awful glad the foliage is loosning themselves from the trees."

"Say," called David, "how happens it we get two copies of the Fireside Fakir every week?" "I subscribed for them."
"What for? Ain't one copy enough?" Costs $3 a year, doesn't it?" "Yes," retorted Dora; " $3 a year, or two copies for $5. You don't suppose I was going to miss such a chance to save a dollar as that, do you?"—Rockland Tribune.

Slowly but surely light seems to be piercing the darkness of China. It is announced that a Chinese writer has taken up arms against the horrible practice of foot binding. "Men should not despise girls with natural feet," he says. "Chinese women have bound feet, and are too weak even to bear the weight of their own clothes. They think it looks nice, but in reality it does not look nice, and weakens their bodies, often causing death."
