But do Not Pray Yourself Into a State of Religious Conceit.

ASK GOD FOR WHAT YOU WANT.

"I do not advise you to attempt to say long prayers," writes Ruth Ashmore in October Ladies' Home Journal. "Ask God for what you want, believing that you will get it, and do not pray yourself, as is possible, into a state of religious conceit. Think sometimes before you go to bed of this verse: 'Stand in awe, and sin not; commune with your own heart in your chamber, and be still. I will lay me down in peace, and take my rest; for it is Thou, Lord, only, that makest me dwell in safety.' He does not want you to come to Him with loud wailing, but with a repentant spirit and in quietness. Be generous and ask that He give His patronage and comfort to all those who are in sorrow. Ask for the poor a competent support, a contented spirit and a hope for the treasures in the hereafter. Wonderful Power.

The power of imagination is amusingly illustrated in the story of an old lady who had never heard the celebrated violinist, Paganini, play, and one day obtained permission to attend a rehearsal of one of his concerts. It so happened that Paganini did not take his violin with him to the rehearsal that day, but borrowed one from a member of the orchestra, and instead of playing as usual, kept up a kind of pizzicato accompaniment.

After the rehearsal, the old lady went up to Mr. Cooke, the musical director, and said in a burst of enthuof till this morning."

"Indeed, madam, he is truly a marvelous man," assented Mr. Cooke, with a smile; "but this morning you are indebted rather to your imagination than your ears for the delight you have had, for Paganini has not really played at all. He has not even touched a bow."

"Well," said the old lady, after a moment's astounded silence, recovering herself, "then all I can say is, he's even more remarkable than I thought he was! For if he can affect me in such a manner without playing, what should I do, how should I feel when he really did play?
