BASS RIVER, KENT CO.

On the evening of June 26, Harcourt Reform, L. O. No. 33, was duly reconstituted by Bro. J. J. McLaren, P. C. M., and M. C. Lockhart, D. C. M., of Moncton. These two brothers rendered efficient service on this auspicious occasion. Bro. McLaren occupying the chair, and Bro. Lockhart, Chaplain. The Lodge was called to order at 8 o'clock. The general routine of business in opening having been disposed of we then proceeded to installation and advancement of candidates. Eight members received the royal blue degree. Next in order was election and installation of the following officers for current term:

Wm. Keswick, W. M.
Guston Poreng, D. M.
Rev. Wm. Lawson, Chap.
Ezra Keswick, Fin. Sec. and Treas.
Robert Murphy, Sec.
Jas. Hansen, D. of C. and Lec.
Robt. Murphy, 1st Com.
John Murphy, 2nd.
Jas Marsh, 3rd.
Perley Keswick, 4th.
Asa Howell, 5th.

Next in order were remarks from the initiated candidates and officers elect, who were very much pleased indeed with the principles laid down in the decalogue of the Orange constitution, believing that the Orange association tends to inculcate true loyalty to our British institutions.

Bros. McLaren and Lockhart urged upon the members the necessity of such an organization, its fundamental principles and growth from its first inception until the present time, and strenuously urged upon the members to stand as a unit, as the material was here to make old Harcourt Reform the banner Lodge of the province. Regular meeting 1st Saturday of each month until further notice.—Times.

Pain in the Back.

DEAR FRIENDS,—I was troubled with pain in the back for months, and after trying several remedies without effect, thought I would use Hagyard's Yellow Oil. I am glad to say that after using two bottles I was completely cured, and cannot recommend this excellent remedy too highly.

Forage for Sheep.

(The Wool Record.)

Professor Thomas Shaw, who has devoted so much time and attention to the subject of sheep culture, especially in connection with the Minnesota Experimental Farm, contributes the following interesting and valuable article on the subject of "Forage for Sheep." The question of growing summer forage for sheep is yet in its beginning. For the past two seasons we have pastured sheep at our State farm on forage grown thus, and with very much success: On ten acres of light soil with a sandy and gravelly subsoil, we pastured 86 head of sheep and lambs from May 1st to Nov. 5th. The major portion of the soil has not been given any manure for years, although cropped every season for at least six successive years. In addition to the forage thus furnished, nine tons of cured food and six tons of green food were taken from the same land. The sheep had plenty of food inasmuch that they kept in fine condition, and the lambs made a good growth. The latter weighed 130 pounds on an average when sold at less than one year old, and they brought at the experiment station 5½ cents per pound live weight. One of the lambs, served at the dining rooms of the Commercial Club in St. Paul, was pronounced by good judges of the very highest quality, as good as the best that England can produce.

The chief of foods grown were clover, winter rye, corn, and rape together, sorghum and dwarf essex rape. The sheep were pastured on these in turn. The winter rye furnished an excellent bite for fall and spring. Next came a plot of peas, oats and rape sown together. This plot was eaten down three times. After these came corn and rape. The corn and rape furnished excellent food. The sheep were put onto it when it was about a foot high. The weak point of this pasture was, that it did not come again. After the corn and rape, sorghum followed. After rape followed sorghum. Thus the sheep had abundant supplies of food during all the season. When the forage was wet from rain, the sheep were pastured on the grass. Movable fences were used.

The system of growing forage for sheep will some day be adopted in all arable sections of the United States—that is to say, it will be adopted in a modified form.

The advantages of the system include the following: It enables the farmer to keep a much larger number of sheep than would be possible in the absence of such forage. 2. It enables him to grow a better quality of mutton because of the succulence of the food. 3. The system is death to every form of weed growth. 4. It does not impair the fertility of the land. And 5. The crops that follow such depasturing are sure to furnish an abundant growth in a normal season. Minnesota alone, by adopting such a system generally, could grow all the sheep in the United States without using one acre of land now under cultivation.

Ross Goes To Kent.

In the Amherst Daily News of the 24 ult. appears the following item:

John Haliburton Ross, has a serious charge to make against the Law and Order League which he claims is working against the interests of the town. He was on his way to the station to take the train for Kent Co. and told The Press he was being driven from home by the League which had made it impossible for him to get drunk. He wanted no stake in a town where he could not get drunk when he wanted to, which was not oftener than twice a day. He would make Buctouche his headquarters and wished all telegrams and mail forwarded to his new address.
