

Lillian Nordica to Women

Health-Giving Paine's Celery Compound the Best Spring Remedy.

Mme. Nordica has the distinction of being the first prima donna born in the United States.

She testifies to the health-giving effects of the greatest product of medical science, Paine's Celery Compound.

Not since Christine Nilsson has there been a Marguerite to be compared to Nordica's splendid impersonation.

All her achieved successes had for a foundation the most unrelaxing study and effort. No one knows better than the applauded prima donna what such severe work mean to the nerves and strength. The following letter from Lillian Nordica to Wells & Richardson Co. must be gratefully read by hosts of women:

"It Gives me great pleasure to testify to the health-giving effects of Paine's Celery Compound. I truly believe it to be the best of all spring remedies."

If the winter has left you weak and languid, Paine's Celery Compound will restore strength to your nerves, will purify the blood and make you well. Don't allow nervous debility to go on. Take warning from dyspepsia, nervous headache and sleeplessness. Guard against that tired, played-out feeling that so often appears as spring approaches. Neuralgia and rheumatism—awful enemies—must be conquered.

Paine's Celery Compound is the world's true disease banisher, renovator of the system, and a life-giver at this time of year. It quickly furnishes nutriment for the innumerable nerve fibres; it arouses the organs of digestion and assimilation to brisker action; it enables the wasted body to build up flesh and muscle, and dissipates every fearful and apprehensive feeling.

Paine's Celery Compound is truly the medicine for women when weakened and burdened by work and home cares. It gives them fresh new blood, vim, energy and activity, and a new lease of life. Try it, and when you go to your dealer for Paine's Celery Compound, see that you get it; no other medicine can take its place successfully.

the high standard of solid worth set by its predecessors. A Girl's Wedding and Homecoming are discussed wisely and tenderly by Maud C. Murray-Miller. In "An Oyster Chat" a number of unusual dishes to be made from this delicious bivalve are explained. E. C. Vick offers timely suggestions to those preparing to plant kitchen gardens and lay out flower beds. J. Harry Adams illustrates an artistic medicine chest and describes its construction. People interested in Palmistry will find something about it in Mrs. Witherspoons' Tea-Table chat. The young folks will enjoy a bicycle entertainment, and a storyette called Ice Cream Made in a Minute. There are the usual notes on new books, seasonable cookery and domestic science. Emma Heywood describes some embroidered cases for dollies, receipts, etc., and the illustrated papers devoted to knitting, tating, crocheting, etc., are, as always, valuable to needlewomen.

An Ottawa dispatch from Dr. Drewson, an expert chemist, of New York city, who is there on business with the E. B. Eddy Co., dealing with its wood pulp manufacture, states freely that the pulp wood supply is fast failing in the United States and that manufacturers are looking to Canada for the keeping up of their supply. The doctor thinks that if an export duty on pulp wood was imposed by the Canadian government there would be no alternative but that the Americans would have to come and manufacture their pulp here.

WITH THE "DIAMOND" Success is Fully Assured!

The world-renowned Diamond Dyes are put up for every color with special dyes for cotton and all kinds of mixed goods, and are so simple and easy to use that even a child can dye a perfect color with them—colors that will not fade, crock or wash out—equal to the best colors made by professional dyers.

If women are induced to buy imitations of Diamond Dyes they must be prepared for failure and loss of goods.

Insist upon getting the Diamond Dyes from your dealer; they cost no more than the poor imitation dyes sold for the sake of large profits.

Missionaries in India and the Famine.

If any more evidence were required to show the splendid stuff of which our foreign missionaries are made, it could be found in the heroic attitude which they are taking in the face of the terrible plague which is now raging in India. While the population is leaving Bombay by the tens of thousands; while foreign merchants and well-to-do people who can get away are hastening from the infected city, the missionaries, quietly and faithfully, are taking up their holy privilege of ministering to those who are left behind. A long chapter might be written on the heroism of foreign missionaries. In other times in India, in China, in Japan, and elsewhere they have maintained their posts when most others who ought to have been leading in ministry to the sick and devising means for deliverance from danger have fled. The missionary houses have been refuges for the fleeing Armenians in Turkey. At one time Dr. Kimball had not less than 15,000 on the small property of the mission at Van. In Japan, Miss Talcott and her fellow-missionaries with splendid devotion, ministered to the sick and dying in the war hospitals at Hiroshima. In India, the brothers E. S. Hume and Robert Hume, and others equally devoted, are taking up the same self-sacrificing service. The foreign missionaries not only minister to the souls but to the bodies of men; they are thinking not only of the future world but of the present. They are like oases in the midst of the terrible desolation by which they are surrounded.

is called the Early Spring Number. Its forecast of spring and summer fashions is made graphic by numerous plates illustrating the incoming dress modes and fabrics. Its literary menu includes a charming novelette of New York art life by Ellen Onley Kirk, called "The Story of a Picture." In her second paper on Social Life in the American Metropolis, Mary Cadwalder Jones is naturally at her best. No. 3 of Dr. Grace Peckham-Murray's "Talks on Health and Beauty" treats of the care of the hair, and is up to
